Jud McSpaden Wins American Golf Title

CHICAGO, July 26—(AP)—Trees, the most feared hazards on the course, were the cause of the victory of Jud McSpaden of Philadelphia in the $2,000 first prize and the all-American open championship today in a play-off with Buck White of Greenwood, Mo.

After White, bidding for his first major title, had clung to a one-stroke lead for seven holes, McSpaden squared matters on the 15th with a birdie then dropped a 20-foot pressure putt on the 19th to tie White at 171. White's runner-up award was $1,400.

White was in the rough directly behind a tree on his drive on 17, then played the most remarkable shot of the day. Sizing up the slant of the fairway beyond him, he took a No. 4 iron and rifled the ball low enough to catch the roll and follow a narrow through to the back apron of the green. From there he chipped two inches from the cup to salvage his par and match McSpaden's 4.

After the 18th, however, it was little wonder that McSpaden left for the showers humming "Trees." His second shot hit some branches overhanging the green, taking enough steam from the ball to allow it to drop 20 feet from the cup. Jug's putter did the rest.

Hamburg Is Battered By U.S. Heavy Bombers

LONDON, July 26—(AP)—United States heavy bombers returned in force today to batter the saturated ruins of Hamburg and attacked three other northwest German cities. The attack was spread daylight raids which cost the Germans upwards of 34 planes and the Allies 23 bombers and three fighters.

Medium and light British and American bombers and fighters bombed the city of Hamburg in France and Belgium by day.

In a torrent of explosive fury which followed up a 2,000-ton assault last night on the German Ruhr industrial capital of Essen and its Krupp arsenal.

In three days' continental Europe's greatest port, Hamburg had shuddered under history's most violent bombardment since the night of the R.A.F. and R.C.A. day night, 2,300 long tons of bombs—2,571 short tons—on Hamburg in the heaviest air attack the world has known.

Sunday, United States heavy bombers gave Hamburg the heaviest raid in history, and today they followed up that attack.

Flying fortresses attacked rubber factories at Hanover, U-boat pens and port installations at Wilhelmshaven and Westermunde, and the joint British and United States communiqué said. "Good bombing results were reported at all targets."

The four-engine American craft flew unescorted to their four German objectives, encountering strong opposition and destroying "more than 50 enemy aircraft."

British medium and light bombers attacked German airfields at Courtrai, Abbeville and Merville while medium United States bombers attacked German landing strips at Omer, France.

These raiders were escorted by squadrons of British, Canadian and Allied fighters which destroyed four German challengers.

Callura In Good Shape

NEW ORLEANS, July 26—(AP)—Jackie Callura, who will have no more aches if he drops his world featherweight boxing title to Phil Terranova of the Bronx, N. Y. here in his 15-round decision fight Aug. 16.

"I would rather fight in New Orleans than in any place in the world," said the stout little Hamilton, Ont., battler who suffered a third-round knockout by Terranova in Hartford, Conn., June 30. "I'm in good condition right now and the heat won't hurt me in the least."

Callura could not have forgotten the night of last Jan. 18 when he won the National Boxing Association Championship from Pittsburgh's Jackie Wilson in Providence, R.I., but just the same he swears he hasn't fought a really good fight since he last appeared in New Orleans.

It could be sentimental reasons that caused the champion to have such high regard for New Orleans as a battle ground for it was here that he got his start towards the title and big money.

Yanks Make Ten Air Raids On Kiska

WASHINGTON, July 26—(AP)—The greatest series of bombings in the history of the United States Navy today, when ten B-24 bombers of the 31st Bombardment Group made ten air raids on Kiska, where the Japanese garrison is estimated at 10,000 men, was reported by the United States Navy today.

Roaring over the bleak, rocky island in the North Pacific Aleutians, 10 flights of planes blasted the Japanese positions on the island, tearing holes in the laboriously built air field runway and causing much other damage.

(By The Canadian Press)

Bobby Riggs, veteran tennis ace at Kiska, became the first four-time winner of the Sea Bright Bowl tennis tournament today. He defeated Ted Schroeder in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-0.

Steinbeck Finds a Cozy Castle, And Jeeps Don't Seem Odd There

American Sentries Have Replaced Courtiers Amid Heraldic Splendor, and Troops Probably Keep Rooms Cleaner Than King's Mistress Did

By John Steinbeck
(Special to the Herald Tribune and The Charlottetown Guardian, Copyright, 1943)

LONDON—The jeep turns off the main road and pulls to a stop. The great gate of gray stone arches over the driveway. When it is built America was a wilderness with a few colonies clinging passionately to its edges. From the stone sentry room an American sentry emerges and stands by the jeep. He looks at passes, he salutes and opens a huge iron gate.

The jeep moves on into an ascending driveway over-arched with oaks and beeches. It goes through the trunks. The road curves and climbs a little hill and ahead of you can see a gray tower poking above the enormous trees. Then you come out of the neat, ancient forest and there is a perfect little castle against a hill, its walls in front of it. It is a little castle, only about forty rooms, a cottage for its period. And it was built by a certain English king for a certain English mistress.

It is odd that this ancient scandal must not be identified with its so. If, for instance, it were known which king and which mistress were involved in the building of the castle, then it would be known by a girl which castle it was, and, if further, it were known that American troops are quartered in this castle, it would become a target for an enemy aircraft. But since a whole number of English kings had mistresses and built little castles for them, so much information does not give the enemy a target or rather it gives him a number of targets too great to concentrate on.

On the lawn in front of the castle where once perhaps gentlemen in heavy armor challenged one another with spears, a platoon of American soldiers, helmeted and with full packs, are doing close-order drill, marching, counter-marching, opening and closing ranks, their bayonets gleaming in the summer English sunshine.

Returned From Lengthy Missionary Service In India

Dr. Zell M. Clark arrived in Charlottetown on the train at 8 A.M. Saturday morning. He is the guest of his brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Clark at the Experimental Station. Dr. Clark has been a Medical Missionary in India for thirty-seven years and has been in charge of the King Memorial Hospital at Calcutta in West Bengal during his last term in India. She had an interesting trip home arriving from India in about half the time that it took another group of missionaries who were the same party in India about seven years earlier. Dr. Clark was anxious to be with his sister, Mrs. P. Miller, in Vancouver. Mrs. Clark was seriously ill and actually arrived at the Vancouver General Hospital the day before her sister's death.

Guest Room to Squad Room

Up the broad stairway is a gallery and there are thirty rooms of so in which the officers and their couples were made comfortable, for it is probable that only five or six hundred people are about this old scandal, including the old husband. The rooms are large, and each one has its carved fireplace mantel and a large window opening into the garden. But the rooms themselves are squad rooms with the coats arranged in a line, the lockers with drawn-up blouses and trousers and towels and the helmets and gear. The rooms are probably much cleaner than they were when the king's mistress lived there.

Downstairs in a kind of cave is the kitchen, where an army cook is baking square apples pie by the quarter acre. The floor is so deeply worn that the feet of the soldiers of the high places. His coat is soiled and he has arrived at a quiet, hopeless state that cooks get on finally realizing that their work is never going to be finished. There is no way of fixing a man once for all.

The O. of the post is a first lieutenant from Texas and the second in command is a Chinese sergeant and stern in his job of keeping the castle in order is just a job to them.

There is no point to any of this except the fact that the castle is a place of honor, for soldiers in heavy armor, in the days of the past, came in through the tracks that come in through the lawn, do not seem odd in the castle. They belong here. They are probably very little different from the men in question. Certainly, the men in question would have been glad for them, because he had his international troubles, too.

INTERNATIONAL LAW

LONDON.—(CP)—Sir Cecil Hurst, president of the Permanent Court of International Justice, British Member of the United Nations Commission for the Investigation of War Crimes, has declared: "After this war there must be introduced some effective machinery for supporting the vigor of law."

A larger proportion of the total year's supply of sugar has come during the first six months than was expected," according to a Board statement on the advance of the validity dates.

"This does not mean that any greater quantity of sugar will become available during the full year, but simply that a greater portion of it has been delivered in the early part of the year. As a result of this, it is impossible to allow the special sugar coupons to be home canning to be used before the due dates originally set when the shipments for the first half of the year were announced."

"Distribution of sugar for home canning had to be planned toward the end of last year and it was impossible to forecast the actual dates of delivery of sugar to this country. Because of changes in shipping schedules it is now possible to honor all outstanding home canning sugar coupons. The Board has taken this step for the convenience of housewives and to give them the greatest possible amount of freedom in the use of sugar for canning. Expiry of the coupons remains unchanged."
