A QUEEN'S WATCH

One of the oldest timepieces in the world belonged to Mary Queen of Scots, who felt a superstitious aversion to it and gave it to Mary Seaton, one of her maids of honor, who gave it in turn to Sir Thomas Dick Lauder. It was in the shape of a skull; the forehead was engraved with a scythe and an hour-glass between a palace and a cottage, signifying that time and death made no distinctions. At the back of the skull a figure of Time was pictured spreading destruction over the world, and on the top appeared Eve and the serpent in the Garden of Eden, and the Crucifixion.

Doctor "Give your husband five teaspoons of this mixture every evening before going to bed."

Wife of Patient: "I can't do that, doctor."

Doctor: "Nonsense."

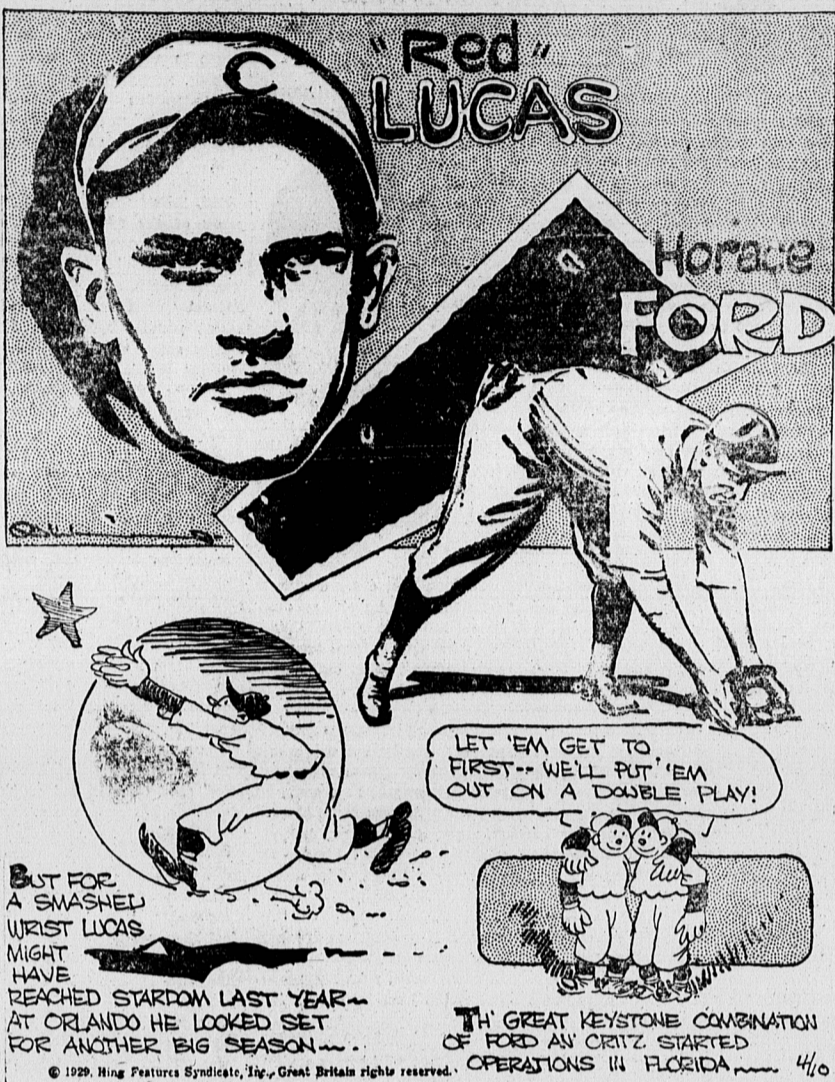

Wife "We have only three teaspoons."

NEW YORK, April 17.—A band of robbers in an automobile today held up and shot a policeman and a bank messenger who were guarding a payroll and escaped with $38,000.

PARIS, April 17.—Payments would continue thirty seven years instead of the fifty eight years proposed by the allies in their memorandum. The German offer envisaged annuities beginning at 1,100,000,000 marks and rising to 1,450,000,000 marks.

LONDON, April 17.—Plans of the British General Electric Company to issue 1,500,000 new £10 shares, have been abandoned, the Associated Press learned on highest authority today.

Red's Old Reliables

BUT FOR A SMASHED WRIST LUCAS MIGHT HAVE REACHED STARDOM LAST YEAR AT ORLANDO HE LOOKED SET FOR ANOTHER BIG SEASON...

THE GREAT KEYSTONE COMBINATION OF FORD AND CRITZ STARTED OPERATIONS IN FLORIDA

By QUIN HAL

Cincinnati's hopes in the 1929 baseball grind depends considerably on what extra driving power Jack Hendricks can comb out of the new rookie he had working out for him at Orlando, Florida, earlier in the year.

Your roving correspondent picked them up in the two games against the A's at Miami which they split even and later at St. Petersburg when they rather humbled the mighty Yankees.

A youthful outfielder named Crabtree socked out a couple of homers in the opening tilt at Florida's big fight town, but he didn't appear against the Yanks at St. Pete. The youngster had strained a muscle or something and was on the shelf when the Reds met what was referred to as last season as "The Third League."

Then there's Evan Swanson, who cracked the onion for 346 on the coast as a likely outfielder, and Walter Shanner, who has been up a couple of times and has brought his tike into fast company for another shot.

Another young gardener is Jack Hill who hails from the University of California. Some of these fellows may help toward building up the hitting power at Cincinnati.

Red Lucas seemed to be rounding into great form while the club was at Orlando. Red was knocked out of commission at an important moment last year when he was clipped by a fast one in batting practice and his wrist was broken. Many fans put that injury down as the reason why the Reds finished no higher than they did last season. Undoubtedly Lucas is one of the most capable moundsmen in the older circuit. But for that injury the popular idol of Cincinnati might well have reached stardom in 1928. The fact that Lucas was forced to the sidelines for a month rather disheartened the Reds, but he looked great at Orlando and may be headed for bigger and better performances during the coming Summer. Luque, Donohue, Rixey, May and Kolp were all rounding into good form and Hendricks had several rookie pitchers striving for a job.

Last year Hendricks had the fastest working double play combination in the big leagues. As a result, Ford to Critz to Kelly became almost as famous as Tinker to Evers to Chance back to in the rather misty past. The Reds succeeded in breaking all double play records last season and in their recent exhibitions games they were already starting the 1929 season with lots of speed. The double play is sure to click rapidly with this combination again this Summer.

Before the team started north Critz, Ford and Kelly seemed sure of their regular infield berths. When we saw the club Joe Stripp, who was touted to cover the hot corner, hadn't shown up after his operation for appendicitis. The veteran, Charley Drzzen, and Rube Luizke, a youngster drafted from Newark, were alternating at third. Undoubtedly Stripp will be in the line-up for the opening game. His presence should make the Hendricks' infield something for the Cincinnati fans to cheer about.

PLEASANT CIRCLE INSTITUTE

The March meeting of Pleasant Circle Institute met at Mrs. E. Boulter's with a large attendance. The meeting opened with the singing of The Island Hymn. Roll call followed, answered with singing, saying or paying. Minutes then read and adopted. Report of the Pantry Sale followed. A letter was then read by the secretary from the Teachers' Federation and a general discussion took place on the same. It was moved and seconded that new shades be bought for the school. Meeting closed with the National Anthem after which the hostess served lunch.

The April meeting of Pleasant Circle met at the home of Miss Edith Boulter. Meeting opened with "It's a Good Time to Get Acquainted."

Roll call followed answered by paying ten cents. Minutes then read and adopted. It was decided that the secretary send the quilt to Prince County Hospital, also a money donation. After some discussion it was decided to get all information possible concerning a school library. Meeting closed with "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia". After which the hostess served lunch. Next meeting at the home of Mrs. Richard Largo on May 9th. Roll call answered with housecleaning hints.

HERE AND THERE By "Tec"

WORKING UNDER HANDICAP

The actions of one player on the Maroon team are held in a large part responsible for their slump and eventual cellar position, according to the Montreal Herald sport writer, Elmer Ferguson, who is closely informed on hockey matters. He states that many did not know the handicap under which Eddie Gerard labored in the matter of at least one temperamental player who was an athletic Bolshevik of the first rank. He states that his unruly disposition affected the whole team in its pennant quest, and that he was a spreader of discord.

"He resented being taken off the ice; he criticized the manager when he was given relief; criticized and berated players who replaced him, and bitterly resented anything that savored advice while he was on the ice. Under the conditions presently existing in hockey, the manager was at a loss to take radical action to curb the player, and was forced to see the club's playoff chances fade away through the discussion caused by one player."

LAKE PLACID PREFERRED

The row between Los Angeles and Lake Placid over the location of the 1932 winter Olympic sports is diverting and the jibes of those advocating the California city make entertaining reading. The Americans had the right to exercise priority in the selection of a spot for their games. Under the circumstances it seems they chose admirably. No one here will kick as Lake Placid is close enough for many to view the games who would otherwise be debarred by the distance that would have to be traversed.

FATALLY INJURED

(Special to The Guardian) CHELTENHAM, April 17—In the most disastrous race meeting of the season, jockey F. Sikes was fatally injured when he was thrown here today. Two horses were killed in the same race. In the next event the favorite broke his neck.

SHOULD A DOCTOR TELL A PATIENT HIS DISEASE

LONDON, April 13.—Should a doctor tell more particularly when cancer is the trouble? Some interesting observations upon this were given by Dr. Cecil Rowntree, surgeon to the London Cancer Hospital, speaking at Leeds.

The relatives of a cancer patient should be taken full into the doctor's confidence, urged Dr. Rowntree. The general public considered it cruel to tell an incurable cancer patient what it may be. I think we owe an equal duty to our patients. There is no need to be brutal about it. We need not tell the whole truth. We may be wrong—we always hope we are."

Discussing the prevention of cancer, Dr. Rowntree touched on what he described as the controversial matter of periodical medical examination. "Why it should be controversial," he said "I cannot imagine. We go to the dentist at regular intervals; many of us are examined regularly for life insurance; some of us have our drains or our electric wiring periodically inspected. Why not follow this out logically, and submit ourselves and our patients to periodical medical examinations?"

BABE RUTH WEDS AGAIN

(Special to The Guardian)

NEW YORK, April 17—Babe Ruth and Mrs. Clare Hodgson were married at 5:45 a. m. today in St. Gregory's Roman Catholic Church. It was the start of a busy day in the busy life of baseball's best paid employee, for at the Yankee stadium this afternoon he is expected to shoulder his bat and begin earning the yearly salary of $70,000 with which he hopes to furnish an apartment and buy groceries for his bride. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William F. Hughes.

Supports Canada

(Canadian Press)

NEW YORK, April 16—The New York Times publishes the following special dispatch from London today: "Sir Austen Chamberlain, the foreign minister, disclosed in the House this afternoon (April 15th) that the Government shared the view of the Canadian Government in the I'm Alone liquor ship case and desired to support the action taken by Canada.

Sir Austen, in answer to a statement by Harry Day, Laborite, read a long statement as representing the British ambassador's report on the sinking of the vessel. The statement disclosed no new facts.
