Geisha really means actor, "gai" meaning a play or entertainment of any sort, and "sha" means a person. The word really means what "actor" does in English, but it has come to mean only those girls in Japan who are trained to entertain by dancing and singing to the shamisen and koto, the usual musical instruments for light entertainments, and they are also trained to converse agreeably on topics of the day. "Geisha," on the other hand, while it really means the same thing as Geisha, has now come to be applied to artists, in a higher sense.

The name thus given to a class of women, though it seems a perfectly respectable one, does, in fact, sound otherwise in the ears of a Japanese. It is not wise in their occupation, in a legitimate sense, that Geisha are undesirable to have in a well-disciplined home, but in a certain unpleasant reputation that is naturally due to the circumstance of their calling. The Geisha are trained to entertain men, and not their own sex. They are the professional entertainers of the cities of the empire, and are well paid for their services. The women of Japan, unlike those of Western countries, have little part in social functions, and the enjoyments of the men are not shared by their wives and daughters. When a man or a party of men wish to arrange some social entertainment, they expect the amusement of the occasion to be furnished by pretty and altogether charming Geisha. Generally these affairs are held in the houses, and it is customary to engage certain Geisha who are generally known by what would be called in the Western world their stage names. These are names of flowers, gem, seasons, or, indeed, anything of great beauty and attractiveness, and are generally known as "flower" names. Such names are O. Kiku San, which means the "Honorable Miss Chrysanthemum," or O. Tama San, which is the "Honorable Miss Jewel," or Haru San, the "Honorable Miss Spring." The "O," which means "honorable," is used only before words of one or two syllables. "Miss Camelia," for instance, would be Taubaki San, merely.

These girls are possessed of wonderful charms, and play havoc with the hearts of the young men of Tokyo and the other cities. Many of them marry distinguished men, and the wives of some of the most prominent men in Japan to-day were Geisha. They are especially living to the young college man of Japan. Some of the universities have found it necessary to make very strict rules in regard to the students consorting with the Geisha, and some forbid it entirely.

The Geisha make a very pretty show in the gay life of the cities, as they are trained to bear themselves well and be vivacious at all times, and they dress luxuriously and in exquisite style. They have the principal boxes at theaters and at all public places. But they have no social rank. They do not form a class, as too often supposed by Westerners, a class of demi-mondaines, as that class is known in London, Paris, and New York; but they are considered as entirely too free in their manners to be admitted into good society.

It is probable that the Geisha will disappear before the enfranchisement of women in Japan. Formerly the Japanese woman was not permitted to take part in social entertainment, and this function fell to the professional entertainer. Men found the Geisha far more amusing than the women of their own acquaintances in society, and this led to the creation of this peculiar class. Now that education is accomplishing for women in Japan what it has accomplished for women in France, England and America, it is evident that the day of the Geisha is passing. It needs only an opportunity for development to show that the museum, the Japanese girl, can be as entertaining and as interesting as the most charming Geisha of Kioto—which has attained the had eminence of producing the most beautiful and entertaining Geisha in the Japanese Empire.

He's His Own Grandfather.

"I know of at least one curious case of intermarriage where a young man became his own grandfather," said a lawyer recently, "and it is rather a simple thing when you come to think of it. Father and son were living together in a modest village. The old man was a widower. Not far from where they lived was a widow and her daughter. The old man wooed and won the daughter, and finally married her. In the meantime the son had been making soft speeches to the widow, and they were married about the same time.

"The young man thus became the father-in-law of his own father, and yet his father's wife was his stepmother, but as his wife was his father's son his wife became the stepdaughter of her own child.

"In course of time the children of the old man and the daughter became the grandchildren of the widow and the son. The sons and daughters of the son and the widow were brothers and sisters, by marriage, of the children thus born to the old man and the daughter.

"The father's wife was the mother-in-law of her own mother, and her children, being the brothers and sisters of her husband's son, who was also her mother's husband, not only made his wife his grandmother, but placed him in the position of being his own grandfather.

"His father, becoming his son-in-law, his father's children, who were his brothers and sisters, became also his grandchildren, because they were the children of his wife's daughter.

"The children of the two marriages became doubly stepbrothers and sisters, and uncles and aunts and nephews and nieces of each other. I never undertook to work the thing out any further than this, and, to tell the truth, I get mixed up every time I think about the matter, but it is enough for me that the son became his own grandfather."

THE CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY Limited, was organized to mine and manufacture iron and coal, coke and steel in Canada, at Atlantic tide water. The raw materials for these manufacturers are:—
1. COAL. 2. IRON. 3. LIMESTONE.

All these materials we have at hand.

2-Iron.
The Company has acquired by purchase, immense iron deposits on the North Shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 350 miles from Sydney. The deposits are estimated to contain 20,000,000 tons of ore above sea level, with probably as much more below that line. The iron can be handled for $1.00 per ton or less. Quantities of this ore have been shipped to Great Britain and United States where it has given great satisfaction, and we can sell large quantities f. o. b. at the properties, netting us a profit of $2.00 per ton. This ore makes the finest steel.

Output.
When in full operation the output is expected to be about as follows:
1. IRON.—200,000 tons iron ore shipped direct from property, showing net profit of $2.00 per ton, total $400,000.00
200,000 tons fine iron ore shipped in briquettes, showing net profit of $4.00 per ton, total $800,000.00
100,000 tons steel blooms showing net profit of $3.00 per ton, total $300,000.00
2. COAL.—600,000 tons coal, showing net profit, at least, $1.00 per ton, total $600,000.00
3. AIDS.—Government bounties (averaged) added to above per year for 6 years $100,000.00
Total yearly revenue $2,200,000.00

Equivalent to yearly dividends of 30 per cent., or 15 per cent. half-yearly on total capitalizing. If the capitalization was increased to this estimate would still show a dividend-earning capacity of 10 per cent. per annum. The capitalization of the Dominion Coal Co., is earning fully 12 per cent., and is paying 8 per cent. guaranteed dividends on this enormous sum. The capitalization of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company is on which it is believed 6 per cent dividends will be earned. The capitalization of the Canadian Steel and Coal Company is only $6,000,000.00. Within the last few months Dominion Coal shares common rose in market value from $40 to $144 per share, and Dominion Iron and Steel Company's shares common rose over $30 per share in market value. With such low capitalization The Canadian Steel and Coal Co's shares would show tremendous profits; and it is confidently believed they will.
