A Modern Story of Home and Business

A MESSAGE

CHAPTER 42
I hated to go home to dinner; hated to see Robert. Yet I also longed to talk with him, to know if he had succeeded in finding anything to do. But his condition the night before, my scene with his aunt, had made me nervous and unhappy all day.
He was there, lying down on the couch.
"Any luck today?" I asked when I saw him.
"Haven't tried. Thought I would wait until the first of the week. Saturday isn't any day to hunt a position."
"Have you been here all day?"
"No, I went over to Marion's and she made me stay to lunch. Then I ran into Carson Murphy on my way back, and walked almost home with him. He wanted me to say we would come up tomorrow, but I told him I couldn't until I had talked with you."
"I'm glad you said that! I promised Mary we would take dinner with her in her new flat. She was so funny. She promised not to try fancy dishes on me, but would try them on the dog, then explained she meant herself. You don't mind going, do you? Of course we won't have as good a dinner as we would at Carson's."
"Of course I don't mind! Why should I? Mary is a good little sport I like her grit, and she is amusing and makes one forget one's troubles."
"Well, get up, lazy bones and we will go down to dinner. Everything will be cold if we don't hurry."
After dinner I proposed a motion picture. I just couldn't sit quiet all the evening and watch Robert's miserably unhappy face. I knew he was worrying about losing his position, that he probably had been humiliated by talking it over with Carson; and I felt sure he also would rather be where he wouldn't be obliged to talk.
Unfortunately, the picture was all about a man who had lost his position, and it showed the straits his family were put to keep together. Finally the wife went to work, and although she was then able to provide for them, the husband was soured because SHE could earn money when he couldn't.
"Poor devil!" I heard Robert say when the film woman handed her husband some money to buy tobacco.
"Lucky devil," I whispered back, "in a gay tone, 'to have a wife to buy him smokes.'"
"I'll bet he doesn't think so."
"We said no more until on the way home I asked:
"How did you like the pictures, Robert?"
"Those educational pictures were fine. And I suppose the other was good enough. But I was so infernally sorry for that poor devil, supported by a woman, and that woman his wife, that I hated the whole thing."
"I'm sorry, I thought you looked rather depressed, and the pictures might cheer you up."
"I know, I guess I'm all sorts of a grouch, Gerry. Forgive me, dear. I'll try not to be so gloomy again. Really I don't mean to make you unhappy because I'm a failure—it isn't fair."

"Don't talk about being a failure, Robert. I won't have it. And Dear, you aren't a grouch—usually. You've let this get hold of you, and are unhappy. Please try and throw it off until Monday. You can't do anything until then, so let's be as happy as we can. And Robert—I want you to know that it makes no difference with me, not one teeny-weeny bit. I love you just the same whether you are working or idle. Of course I am anxious for you to have a position. But I should love you if you never had one."
"An support me too, I suppose." He laughed a little, then went on: "Oh, Gerry! the world's all wrong with me I guess. Or I am wrong with the world, I don't know. But here we are," we reached the steps of the boarding house just as a message boy rang the bell.
"There he is now," the landlady who had answered the bell, said to the boy. Then she pointed to Robert.
"For me?" Robert said, as the boy handed him the message.
"There ain't any other Mr. Meredith in the house," the landlady replied. "Pease close the door, it is cold tonight."
Robert signed the book the boy gave him, then followed me up the stairs.
"What's in the message, dear?"
"Aren't you going to tell me?" He had read it, he folded it up and put it into his pocket.

"Business Stand for Sale"

We offer for sale, and immediate possession given, our business stand at St. Louis, consisting of a large stock of goods. Good store, large warehouses and the good will of the business. This is a great opportunity for a live business man to go into business, or a company to operate a branch store at St. Louis, as this is one of the best business centres in the province. Our reason for selling is that we want to devote all our time to the already large wholesale trade of Cal. Lachmans, Ltd.
If not sold before February 10th, from that date all goods will be offered for cash only at greatly reduced prices, groceries excepted.
We hereby give notice that all over due book accounts of notes of hand must be settled or arranged for at once, as it will be easier to settle here than with an attorney.

Drugs Excite Your Kidneys, Use Salts

If your Back hurts or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean, like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink to much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.
Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WARD 2

At the request of a large number of citizens, in Ward 2, I have decided to offer as a candidate for Councillor in the forthcoming election. I take this opportunity of soliciting your support. If elected I will endeavor to look after the interests of the City in general and of Ward 2 in particular.
Respectfully,
WM. MORAN,

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No sneezing, sniffing, blowing, itching, dryness, or the sick room headache, dizziness, or struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.
Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relieves comes instantly. It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed up with a cold or nasty catarrh.

Notice to Customers

We hereby give notice to all parties indebted to us by book account, notes of hand or otherwise, that payment of same is demanded at once, all amounts not arranged for to our satisfaction by the 1st of February next may be handed to our solicitor for collection.
Your prompt attention will save expense.
