

Could Not Sleep At Night.

Was All Run Down.

Had No Appetite.

FOOD WOULD NOT DIGEST.

Mrs. I. W. Warner, Riverdale, N.S., is glad there is such a remedy as Burdock Blood Bitters.

IT CURED HER AND WILL CURE YOU.

She says: "I wish to add my testimony to the many others who have spoken so highly as to the unerring virtues of Burdock Blood Bitters. I was all run down, had no appetite, lost all ambition, could not sleep much and had terrible headache and backache, and my food did not digest properly. I saw B.B.B. advertised, so concluded to give it a trial, thinking if it did no good it could do no harm. But after using one bottle I began to feel better, and by the time I had used three bottles I was feeling like a new person. I am so glad there is such a remedy provided for suffering humanity, and cannot praise it enough for I think there is no medicine like it on the market."

TEETH!

FILLING AND CROWNING MADE ABSOLUTELY PAINLESS.

While improvements have been going on in science generally dentistry has not been standing still. The "Berlin System" is based upon the knowledge that the conditions of dental sensibility are numerous requiring a wide range of remedies. The "Berlin System" of painless dentistry embraces every method known to the profession at large, and some that are not generally known. It succeeds because it takes each of the various sensitive conditions into account.

DENTAL SPECIALIZATION

This is the age of specialists, and in no profession is specialization more important than in dentistry. Time was when one could acquire a knowledge of dentistry in a short time, but in the last few years the profession has grown by leaps and bounds, until now it is beyond attainment of any one man. It is best practiced by the co-operation of several men, each devoting his time to a special branch. In our offices each man devotes his time to a special branch. We divide the work into parts and have specialists for each part.

DUBLIN'S FINE PARK

ALMOST IRREPARABLE DAMAGE DONE BY RECENT HURRICANE.

1,242 Forest Trees and 1,706 Thorn Trees Blown Down—Phoenix Park Referred to in the British Commons as "The Finest Park in the World"—Antiquarians on Origin of Its Name.

Of all the damage done by the terrible gale that lately ravaged the greater part of these islands the most irreparable is that caused in the Phoenix park, Dublin, says Lloyd's Weekly Newspaper. The storm swept through the famous park with hurricane force, uprooting the stoutest oaks and patriarchal elms, and strewing the ground with timber in an incredibly short space of time. When the keepers came to go round and count the number of the fallen, they found the casualties very much heavier than they had expected. No less than 1,242 forest trees and 1,706 thorn trees had been blown down by the hurricane. A question on the subject was asked in the House of Commons. Replying to Mr. J. O'Connor, the Chief Secretary for Ireland said irreparable damage had been done to the finest park in the world. The epithet evoked instantaneous applause from the Irish benches. The timber was to be sold, added Mr. Wyndham, the money so obtained to be appropriated in aid of replanting the Phoenix park. Antiquarians deny that the name of the park has any connection whatever with the bird of ancient

A WELL-KNOWN CORNER IN PHENIX PARK. fable that rises triumphant from its own ashes. Dublin's Phoenix is held to be a corruption of Donn-uisge, pronounced fin-uiske, which signifies in Erse a spring of running water. In the Middle Ages it belonged to the knights Hospitallers, who held it down to the time of Henry VIII., and then surrendered it to the Crown. Charles II. enclosed it as a deer park. The Earl of Chesterfield, who was lord-lieutenant in 1747, earned the gratitude of Irishmen by obtaining the park for the people. It was he who laid it out and erected the pillar from which it takes its modern name. The column is 30 feet in height, and is surmounted by a phoenix, which is depicted as rising out of the flames, in defiance of the antiquarians. It is not all of the Phoenix park that is open to the public. The total area is 1,750 acres, and of these the people have access to 1,360. The seven mile walk round the park is one of the most enjoyable that could be obtained anywhere. Broad roadways run past ornamental beds and lawns, and through small forests of trees. Away in the south rise the blue mountains of Dublin and Wicklow, which complete a picture of great natural beauty.

The name of Dublin's beautiful park is ever darkly associated with the atrocious crime of May 6, 1882, when Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke were assassinated while walking home in the evening. Even after 21 years the circumstances of this historic tragedy scarcely need detailing. The four "Invincibles" who committed the murders got safe away, and for a time evaded arrest in spite of the Government reward of £10,000. Eventually 20 men were arrested, and James Carey turned informer, with the result that Joseph Brady, the actual murderer, Daniel Curley, Michael Fagan, Thomas Caffrey, and Timothy Kelly were executed in May and June, 1883. On July 29 following Carey was shot dead by Patrick O'Donnell on board the liner Melrose Castle, near Port Elizabeth. O'Donnell was hanged at the Old Bailey on Dec. 17 of the same year.
