This new tax was passed at the last session of the Legislature. Cheating tobacco has been exempted from the tax as the Legislature had a study of the most exclusively by farmers and fishermen. Although no announcement has been made it is expected the tax would be imposed by a stamp on retailers, who must obtain provincial licenses, to each package sold. Information at the last session of the Legislature indicated that proceeds from the tax would be used principally to promote public health in the province.

SPEAKS ON CHINA - "Not only Japan but most of the other nations of the world have failed to measure the physical prowess of the Chinese," declared Rev. Nell Herman in an interesting address on China delivered at the regular meeting of the Charlottetown Y.M.C. Club. The speaker went on to say that China had its own psychology, culture and civilization and in the end would emerge victorious over her enemies. China is a great physical endurance which will carry them through to ultimate victory. "The Chinese of today are a reincarnation of a freedom of soul and government which the combined forces of all our enemies can no more conquer than they can blot out the sun and the moon and the stars," Rev. Mr. Herman asserted. The chairman of the meeting was Mr. Fred Small.

ONLY MATTER OF (Continued from page 1) Japanese planes—is in itself probably enough to determine the issue. Coupled with the disadvantage of having the disadvantages of supply and, lately, no possibility of manoeuvre except along one narrow front, it does not encourage hope that even the greatest effort could be effective against such odds. It has been suggested to the Senators and Congressmen who have been advocating an expeditionary force to rescue MacArthur that impatience is no answer to the problem and that what they are urging would be tantamount to sacrificing anything up to 150 regular lives and an untold number of lives in an effort almost sure to fail. What the immediate future holds for MacArthur and his force is a matter of doubt but there seems little hope of outside help reaching him. For years he has been planning this campaign, ever since he became military adviser to the Philippine government after serving as Chief of Staff of the United States Army and, better than any other man, he knows the odds against which he is fighting.

Estimates Cost Of Plebiscite At $1,500,000
OTTAWA, Feb. 20.—(CP)—A complete new voters' list will be prepared for the plebiscite by which the government seeks release from its commitments against conscription. Secretary of State McLaughlin announced today in the House of Commons.

Conservative House Leader Hanson renewed his opposition to the plebiscite, saying it was an unworthy evasion of a responsibility which properly belongs to this House. "Without doubt the plebiscite is being taken to save the face of the ministry," he said, and added: "It hasn't a single element of courage."

Mr. McLaughlin, moving the resolution upon which the plebiscite bill will be based, said the cost, if all workers must be included, would be approximately $1,500,000. He said the bill would be introduced in the House of Commons committee. At the same time the committee will get the plebiscite regulations which will not be contained in the bill.

Bell, Vice President, and Miss Norren Johnson, Secretary-Treasurer; also directors Cletius Gwyn and Jeremiah H. O'Connell. Mr. O'Connell attended the meeting and gave the Executive every assurance that he would do everything possible to assist the organization.

Conscientious Objectors
His conscientious objectors and those whose convictions prevent them from entering the armed forces may vote in the plebiscite on voting exemption from compulsory service. Mr. McLaughlin said that all members of the Canadian forces, regardless of age, will be permitted to vote in the plebiscite, ordinarily held in Canada at time of enlistment.

Canadian Red Cross Corps
On Monday night the new volunteers had an examination in Military Law, the first examination of their course. A representative group of the members of the Red Cross Corps attended the Beacon Fire Ceremony, launching the Second Victory Loan, which took place Monday evening. Six of the Nursing Aides from the Corps had an opportunity to apply their first aid knowledge when a young girl was slightly injured due to a fall on the icy ground.

The form of question and the ballot will not be incorporated in the bill, although the question would be referred to the House of Commons by the Prime Minister.

The statement reiterated a plea made in October for a total war, but said the Legion does not agree that the question of compulsory service outside Canada is "the only point at issue."

The need for action—immediate action—had become more acute since Japan launched her attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7. Unscrupulous and powerful enemies had brought the threat of danger to both coasts.

The Legion believes that much valuable time has been lost in bringing this matter to a head, and in laying a concrete plan before Parliament for meeting the necessities of the hour, the statement said.

The people of this country want action, while appreciating that our democratic system is based on reaching decisions after a full and frank discussion of all the problems. There is a very general feeling that endless discussions of one phase of the whole question is an abuse of free speech, and a waste of valuable time when less of time may lead to incalculable disaster.

The statement was issued following a conference of the sub-executive.
