The Experts Say...

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS
OTTAWA, Oct. 11—(CP)—Wrinkles gleaned from the experts for the benefit of housewives and business girls:
PICKLES — New pickle recipes available to housewives won't strain the sugar budget much—and it's well worth a little sacrifice of present sweetness for future spice, says the consumer section of the agriculture department in announcing that, mimeographed copies of a dozen or so fine recipes may be obtained by writing to its publicity and extension division, Ottawa, and asking for "War-time Pickles and Relishes."
"PIERCING" IN FAVOR — Doctors and nutritionists have placed their stamp of approval upon "piercing" between men's providing that the snack does not take away meal-time appetite, says Marlon Harlow of the nutrition services. Tests have shown that workers in war industries do better work and are less tired at the end of the day if they have something to eat and drink in the middle of the morning and afternoon.

Children, who often expend as much or more energy than a hard-working adult, cannot eat enough as meals to supply all food they need, and between-meal snacks are quite in order for them too if they consist of such foods as milk, whole grain bread, fruit or raw carrots.

Such foods make ideal "piecing," for they contribute to the supply of vitamins and giving a "lift" to tired bodies and satisfying appetites.
TREES AND TREES — Byrne Hope Sanders, director of the price board's consumer branch, suggests that rural housewives make their shopping trips to town coincide with those their husbands are making to transport goods, thus conserving gasoline and prolonging the life of tires and automotive equipment.

FEATHERLIGHT PLASTIC

The women shopping for costume jewelry these days will be impressed with the quantity and variety of plastics, which, unlike most costume jewelry, are very light. The new lines of plastic jewelry are "light as a feather," and the stopper who has a tendency to judge the value of a trinket by its weight will have to choose some other method of evaluating it.

CANNING CORNER

Here a few storage "Do's and Don'ts" to keep canned goods in good condition: Test sealers for leakage before storage, and make sure they are wiped clean and that no food is adhering to the outside of sealers. Store canned goods in a cool, dark, dry place. If space is light, each sealer may be wrapped in paper. Sealers should be examined after a week of canning for signs of spoilage, and checked periodically for signs of possible spoilage. They should be washed thoroughly as they become empty, dried and stored with lids and metal rings in place.

TRAVELLED FOWL

Domestic fowls are believed to be the descendants of the wild jungle fowl of the Malay peninsula.

Just at this point along an Italian road running through the mountains German demolition experts blew up the roadbed in one of their many efforts to delay advance of Canadian units moving northwards. But Canadian engineers, shown at work, have just put the finishing touches to a good repair job and the Allied armies were soon rolling forward again. (Canadian Army Overseas Photo)
