"Hello" Girl on
Wheat Exchange
Know Her Voices

WINNIPEG, Dec. 29. (CP)-She's seen wheat at $1.75 a bushel and she's seen it at 3 cents, but it "Means Nothing to Me," says Edith Pratt, who handles hundreds of telephone calls daily on the trading floor of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Ask Edith "What's the market price of futures-and she will cheerfully admit "I don't even know what it is half the time." For more than eight years Miss Pratt has held what she terms "The best job in Winnipeg," receiving telephone calls for floor traders and sending messenger boys on a hunt for the requested party on the crowded floor.

She has never "Played the Market," never taken an occasional flyer in "Bids" and "Offers," the privileges which cost $1.00 each and which -Sometimes- return their holders neat profits. Big names mean little to the Hello Girl. Brokers have risen to prominence and faded away into the legion who lost out in the big pit. But Edith admits she knows few of them by sight.

She knows them all by their voices, though, and in her years on the floor has learned to know the voices of all the brokers' wives, too. Many social calls are sprinkled among orders to buy and sell. In Miss Pratt's tenure wheat prices dropped to all-time low levels-3 cents a bushel in 1932. She remembers the day in 1929 when the market "broke wide open," the prelude to seven years of depression.

Does she listen in? "I don't have time."

WILL NOT PLAY AT CORONATION

LONDON, Dec. 29.-Because he played the organ at the coronation of King Edward VII and Queen Alexandra, and King George V and Queen Mary, Sir Walter Alcock, who is now organist of Salisbury Cathedral, has declined to be the sole organist at the coronation of King George VI.

Sir Walter said: "I was very delighted when I was asked by Dr. Ernest Bullock (organist of Westminster Abbey) to play at the coronation for the third time. But I declined because I felt that someone else should have the honor this time. Although I will not play alone, I will be very glad to play along with somebody else." Sir Walter said he will not compose any music for this coronation.

Cape Traverse

School Presents
Christmas Concert

The annual Christmas concert of Cape Traverse school was presented in the Hall on Tuesday evening, Dec. 22nd to a large and enthusiastic audience. The Hall was very beautifully decorated for the occasion with a handsomely trimmed and lighted Christmas tree. Mr. A. R. Clarke very capably performed the duties of Chairman and a substantial sum was realized for the school.

The pupils acquitted themselves most creditably in all their various numbers, reflecting much credit upon their teachers who had so painstakingly trained them. Especially beautiful was the Drill, Christmas Dolls, when twelve tiny girls daintily dressed, looking as though they were fresh from a doll shop gave a realistic interpretation, bowing in truly doll-like fashion and singing "Oh, Won't You be glad, little girl." The Drill "In Grandma's Day" also by twelve girls, was very quaint, each little girl dressed in old-fashioned costume, wearing glasses and carrying her knitting, also demonstrating her ability to knit as they sang "In the garret we have been." "The Motion Song," "Everybody Works but Father" caused much laughter as the whole family in pantomime washed, baked, ironed, sawed wood and swept floors while "Father" sat twirling his feet by the fire. The "Good Night" recitation by five-year old Betty Campbell, attired in pyjamas and carrying a lighted candle was very lovely. Miss Evelyn Bell was the accompanist of the evening.

At the close of the program the teachers, Mr. Francis McAvinn and Miss Eleanor Bell were called to the platform to receive addresses and beautiful gifts from their pupils. Mr. McAvinn's address being read by Arabella Gardiner and presentation by Esther Crooks, while Miss Bell's address was read by Eleanor Lord and presentation by Mildred Howatt. The teachers responded in well chosen words-Santa Claus then appeared and proceeded to distribute gifts, candy and fruit to the pupils. God Save the King brought the evening to a close.

Following is the program:

THREE FACTORS IN REARING WINTER PIGS

The winter feeding of swine presents many problems that are not encountered in summer time, since pigs are forced to live under unnatural conditions in winter and without the variety of feeds available in the earlier part of the year. At the same time it has to be remembered that any attempt at rearing winter pigs when exercise is limited is courting disaster. Good feed should be fed at a rate that the pigs can overtake and the pigs kept in dry, comfortable quarters with room for exercise in the early stage of growth. By combining good feeding and management, many of the common ailments of swine will be avoided, and the result will be healthy and thrifty market pigs.

Successful winter pig production depends largely upon three factors, states E. B. Fraser of the Animal Husbandry Division, Experimental Farms, Dominion Department of Agriculture. These factors are: warm, dry sleeping quarters, free from draughts, suitable feeds and care in feeding them, and exercise in the early stages of growth. Exercise for the growing animal is practically a necessity. This is particularly true of the pig in the early stages, and especially so if the pig is being forced by heavy feeding. Heavy feeding without exercise is conducive to crippling. It is wise, therefore, to allow the young pigs to run outdoors during the fine fall weather, and when they must be kept inside, due to bad weather, they should be allowed sufficient pen space to exercise freely.

With regard to providing warm and dry sleeping quarters, if there are buildings available it would be unwise and not economical to build new pig quarters. Even old buildings should be remodelled only

HOLMAN'S SUMMERSIDE

NEW YEAR'S GREETING

Let us wish you season's greetings
And the best that is to be,
That right pleasant be your meetings,
That your paths be Joy and
Glee;
That your health-it's worth preserving-
Be your first and every thought;
That you shy from things unnerveing
And live just the way you ought.

May we ask these blessings on you
In this joyous interlude!
May the Ills that come upon you
Find you with the strength imbued
To repel their rude intrusion
If their aim's to main or scar;
May your faculty's infusion
Be inspired from afar.

Yet, there's one thing more in passing,
That means much to humans here:
It's being grouchy-so harassing-
It so oft replaces cheer.
Keep your conscience free from rancor
And your being free from sin,
For if thus you cast your anchor
You can do nought else but win.
