SHOP from Holman's Catalog.

AMES HOLDEN RUBBERS, the best made, every pair guaranteed. Sold by Purdie Ferguson Shoe Co. Ltd.

RECITAL POSTPONED.—The Twilight Recital in St. Peter's Cathedral is postponed until Saturday, March 10th.

PASTOR INDISPOSED.—Rev. Ewen McDougall regrets that he is unable to fill his appointments for Sabbath 4th owing to indisposition.

TWO DAYS MEETING OF PRESBYTERY.—At the regular meeting of the Presbytery to be held on March 5, a large number of important business will be considered. This will likely require that a meeting be held on Wednesday morning.

A LUCKY PURCHASE.—Mrs. Emmet Doyle, 236 Sydney St., was the winner of the half doz. Zaver tea spoons this week, given for the lucky coupon contained in a bag of Gold Bond or A.Z.B.Y. flour. The prize for next week is a half doz. silver table spoons.

LOOKING FOR SPEED.—Mr. Daniel Burhoe, Strathcona, is in the city on a business trip looking to purchase some high speed horse flesh to compete with some of the fastest in Strathcona in the coming spring races at Bridgetown. He is accompanied by Mrs. Burhoe and while in the city will be the guests of Mrs. Ward, Grafton St.

FUNERAL YESTERDAY.—The funeral of the late Ellen Webster was held yesterday morning from her late residence, 20 Dorchester St., to St. Dunstan's Cathedral, where a High Mass of Requiem was celebrated by Rev. E. Gallant. Service at the grave was conducted by Rev. R. St. John. The pall bearers were: Messrs Jos Purcell, Jas Sherry, Patrick Flynn, Laurence Kelly, Frank McGuigan and Patrick McMahon.

LAID TO REST.—The funeral of the late Mr. John Wannacott took place yesterday afternoon from the residence, Upper Prince Street, to the Peoples Cemetery, and was very largely attended. There were several beautiful wreaths and many other floral tributes. Rev. Mr. Ryan officiated at the funeral services. The pall bearers being Messrs G. F. Hutcheson, D. D. Morrison, Prof. Bennett, William Groom, Frank Stewart and J. S. Woodcock. As a tribute to the deceased who had been a member of the Fire Brigade, the fire bell tolled. The plant of Bruce Stewart & Co. was closed down for the afternoon.

VERY UNSATISFACTORY.—After some weeks of service that was more intermittent than satisfactory the electric light went out last night at five minutes before eight and remained dead for fifty minutes. Added to the inconvenience of darkness, was the fact that no information could be had from the Power Station as to how long the trouble was likely to continue, information which, if it had been obtained, would have at least enabled victims of the service to make other arrangements. Hereafter it is hoped that the management will at least have the courtesy to give some intimation as to the probable duration of the trouble so that such preparation as is possible may be made. This information might be given through the Central Telephone to the operators of which it would be less trouble than everlastingly ringing the Power House for enquiries without receiving any response.

IT IS IMPORTANT to know how to make tea. It is an extremely easy matter to spoil even the best tea by careless brewing. Directions are printed on the back of every package of MORSE'S as to how good tea can be made. Be sure to read these directions.

THE LAST CALL

All's well, All's well, All's well,
 All's well,
 Says Walter Lea to John H. Bell
 But what Mr. Lea has to state,
 Goes without saying is all fake,
 And ne'er will save the "Ship of State."

Now Mr. Bell should take advice,
 And not go fishing through the ice.
 As heavy fines were paid before,
 For such fishing on North Lake shore,
 With a spruce pole, twenty feet or more.

And when the House will meet again,
 The Hon. J. J. will tell the tale,
 Of how he strove and vainly tried
 To get a seat and preside,
 With the "Legal Lights" side by side.

To Cyrus Crosby they will go
 And ask means to face the foe,
 Federal grants they will explore,
 To draw many votes to their door
 And bring victory safe home once more.

Next Wednesday the rooster will call
 The Grits to the Parliament Hall
 To bluster on the "Ship of State"
 As its course they steer to its fate,
 On rocks of election day's date.

But what about the men who say
 "These heavy bills we cannot pay;
 And taxes ever big and small,
 Will surely drive us to the wall,
 If left to Johnston, Bell at all."

The "cursed road grants" were first taboo.
 And these they said, their foes would rue,
 But when in power they all acquire,
 To take the cash they could acquire,
 And booze profits quench their desire.

Oh Fred! Mixer of party hash,
 The rooster can't live without mash,
 Strive to do right in the fight
 And avoid the awful crash,
 And loss of cash, dear Mr. Nish.

Oh John! Oh John! Oh John! Oh John!
 You needs must heed prohibition's call,
 Rise strong in right—strike with your might
 And for your Country's sake,
 My Son,
 Be brave, be bold, be straight
 John.

Basil King Writes Another Great Film In "The Dust Flower"

His New Goldwyn Photoplay is a Fascinating Story of People You All Know, With Great Cast

Basil King's first photoplay since the sensational "Earthbound" of two seasons ago is Goldwyn's picture of his latest novel, "The Dust Flower," coming to the Prince Edward Theatre on Monday for two days. It is altogether different from "Earthbound," yet has the same faculty of enchaining the interest and arousing the emotions.

Its characters are taken from life itself—most of them are people you might bump into any day in going about your routine affairs. Two of them, a wealthy young man angered because he has just been thrown over by his fiancée, and a young girl, a dust flower from the roadside who was on the point of committing suicide rather than accede to her stepfather's wish that she become candy girl at an underworld cafe, are the chief characters. Rashley Allerton swears to marry the first girl he finds who will have him and persuade Letty to reconsider jumping off the bridge and accept him.

Step-toe, a very superior butler, sees that Letty is just the sort of wife that his young master needs and proceeds to teach her how to behave and how to dress. Allerton's fiancée soon retracts her quarrel with him and beseeches him to settle a sum of money upon Letty and sent her about her business. This he agrees to do, but Letty forestalls his request by offering to leave of her own accord. However, their intimate association has awakened love in their hearts and their marriage turns out a happy one.

Rowland V. Lee directed the production of "The Dust Flower" for Goldwyn and he was given a great cast to work with. Helene Chadwick has the role of Letty and outshines her own previous successes in Goldwyn pictures. James Rennie, a well-known stage player who made a big hit on Broadway with Ruth Cartwright in "Moonlight and Honey-suckle" and then in the leading role in "Spanish Love," plays opposite her. Mona Kingsley, lovely and gifted, is another stage recruit in this photoplay. She acted with Grant Mitchell in "A Tailor Made Man" and is a musician and a writer as well as an actress. Edward Peil and George Periolat have had long and honorable careers on the speaking stage and in the silent drama.

Cedric Gibbons, Goldwyn's art director has designed some beautiful interiors for "The Dust Flower" while cameraman Max Fabian has achieved photographic results that are far out of the ordinary. Charles Kenyon, author of "Kindling" and other plays, adapted the story to the screen with the assistance of the author. Mr. King was on the set advising with Director Lee nearly every day while his story was being filmed. "The Dust Flower" is a highly entertaining photoplay that will make you think and feel as well as amuse him. Every person interested in knowing just how good a screen story can be made should not miss this production.
