"ON FRIDAY LAST"
Messrs. William Webster, carpenter, Montague, and Bazle Szecseny of Lower Montague fell from the roof of Chesel Annear's big barn which is about 38 feet high. The men with three other carpenters, Colin McDonald, Roy McKinnon and John McPherson, were shingling the roof of the barn and were putting on the last row of shingles when the staging broke and the two men fell to the ground. Mr. Szecseny fell first and broke different parts of the staging as he went along. Mr. Webster followed, but on the way he caught the end of a pole which threw him some six inches from the shafts of a cart. A doctor was called and it was feared at first that Mr. Szecseny's back was broken. He was taken to the hospital and X-rayed. The X-ray showed that he had started a rib, but his back was not broken. Mr. Webster escaped with just a few bruises.
