A CHANCE FOR CANADIAN FIRM

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Joseph Byrne, head of the St. Louis firm of Joseph Byrne & Co., dealers in furs, was among the American refugees from Paris who reached New York this week. Mr. Byrne said that one of the results of the European war would be the raising of prices of Russian and other European furs this winter, and that fur coats and other garments probably would increase considerably in value. Most of the supply on hand in this country, he said, has already been made up into garments for the coming season, and it is impossible to get new shipments.

If the war continues until the middle of next year, Mr. Byrne said, there will be such a dearth of European furs in this country that it will be necessary to create new American styles, which will include the use of American furs for women's garments. Sixty-five per cent. of all American furs have been exported to Europe during recent years, Mr. Byrne said.

BREAD AND WATER FROM THE SOLDIERS.

The soldiers in the street were very kind to her and gave her bread from their rations and water from their bottles. She saw two of them at the corner of the street weeping at what was taking place. All the soldiers she talked to were under the impression that the British and the French were already in Belgium, and that they were fighting them.

My wife decided to return to Germany. But she feared she might be searched on the frontier, and that if Mr. Mackenzie's documents, which were of a diplomatic nature, were found upon her, she might have been taken as a spy. So she threw the documents in a ditch before reaching the frontier. She managed to reach Eupen, and there got by electric tramway to Aix-la-Chapelle. She decided to return to Ems, where she was known but could not get further than Cologne, where she was for eight days before I was able to discover her. On her return to Germany she was extremely well treated. She had no money. One poor German woman who saw her obviously distressed condition gave her 10 marks, which she could ill spare. My wife had a necklace which cost £300, and she was offered only 100 marks for it. The proprietor of the Hotel Monopole at Cologne advised her not to sell it, and kindly offered to trust her until the war was over. The nearest I could get to Germany was Diest. I telegraphed in all directions with out result. But my wife, who was born in Denmark, telegraphed to Copenhagen, and the the message was sent to me at Dundee and thence to Diest. I got a Dutch gentleman to go into Cologne to bring out my wife and children, and the nurse.

It has since been ascertained that the Mr. Mackenzie mentioned above was the Rev. John Munro Mackenzie. He was formerly minister of the Mount Pleasant Presbyterian Church, Liverpool, but for several years had been living in London.

FOR FUR AUCTIONS HERE

A Movement by the Trade to Transfer Them From London.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—A movement has been launched by the recently formed Raw Fur Merchants' Association of New York, Incorporated, and the Board of Trade of the Fur Industry to hold raw auctions in this city instead of London. O. Godfrey Becker, of Becker Bros. & Co., President of the Raw Fur Merchants' Association issued a statement in which he pointed out the advantages to be gained by the substitution of the local for the foreign market. The movement, he added, has the unanimous support of the local fur interest and indications alone point to its success.

In the course of the next few weeks, Mr. Becker said, it is proposed to send invitations to all the trade throughout the States and Canada to attend a meeting at which a detailed plan for organizing and financing a company to hold these sales will probably be submitted.

THE KAISER AND GOD

LONDON, Sept. 11.— Barry Pain the novelist, contributes to the London Times a poem on the Kaiser's telegram to the Crown Princess, stating: "I rejoice with you in Willhelm's first victory. How magnificently God supported him."

The poem follows:—

Led by Wilhelm, as you tell,
God has done extremely well,
You, with patronizing nod,
Show that you approve of God.

Kaiser, face a question new,
This: Does God approve of you?
Kaiser, when you'd decorate,
Sons or friends who serve your state
Not that Iron Cross bestow,
But a cross of wood and woe,
So remind the world that you
Have made Calvary anew.

Kaiser, when you'd kneel at prayer,
Look upon your hands, and there
Let that deep and awful stain
From the blood of children slain
Burn your very soul with shame
Till you dare not breathe that Name.

That now you glibly advertise
God as one of your allies,
Imperial braggart, you forget
God is not your conscript yet,
You shall learn in dumb amaze
That His ways are not your ways—
That the mire through which you trod,
Is not the high white road to God.

AN AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN COUNT ARRESTED AS A SPY.

LONDON September 11.—A dispatch to the Star rom Copenhagen says that Count Czechenyi, the Austro-Hungarian minister to Denmark, was arrested as a suspected spy. The Count, it appears, was motoring with his wife, and while some distance from the fortifications was seen to take out a map. He was placed under arrest by soldiers and taken to the fort, where his identity was established. The military chief then released him with apologies. It is expected that the Danish foreign minister will also offer an apoligy.

VERY SERIOUS AUTO ACCIDENT

A correspondent writes: — What turned out to be a very serious collision occurred in the St. Peter's Road, a short distance from Charlottetown, on Tuesday night. Two young men, John MacCallum and Henry MacCallum, brothers, were returning home from Charlottetown to Dunstaffnage about 11 p.m., driving quietly along, when they saw dim lights ahead, but did not think they were those of an automobile, on account of their faintness. Immediately after seeing them, before they could do anything to save themselves the machine struck them. One of the men was hurled through the air and landed on top of some of the occupants of the automobile. The other was thrown some distance away. By a miracle they both escaped with very slight injuries, but the horse was so badly injured that he had to be killed. The carriage was a total wreck. The motor car which caused this accident is No. 42. At the time of the accident the headlights were turned off, the car was running over-speed, and, worse than that, was running on the wrong side of the road.

The owner of car No. 42, on being questioned by a Guardian reporter concerning the acident, made the following statement: "My car had three lights burning at the time, one headlight and two oil lamps, and anyone who was loking out would have known from the number of lights that it was an automobile approaching. No other vehicle uses as many lights. I was on my side of the road, the left-hand side, coming in, and the accident occurred on that side of the road. I was driving unusually carefully at the time as one of my headlamps refused to burn, and there was only one headlight burning."

The automobile, which contained four passengers at the time, it may be mentioned also suffered in the collision, being considerably battered in front. Its owner, too, did not escape scatheless.
