y years. In her later years she permitted to travel about Europe; one of these journeys, while at eva, she was struck to the heart a dagger of an Italian anarchist, i Lucceni.

omance soon after entered the life the widowed emperor. The woman o won his heart was a beautiful tress, now known as Frau Katrina ratt, whom he has maintained a Vienna flat, visiting her almost lly, assuming the name of "Col. ratt."

The emperor's brother, Maximilian persuaded by Napolian III to ac- the throne of Mexico. The Arch- ess Charlotte wife of Maximili- strongly urged her husband to ept the crown; later, when Mexi- s had risen against the emperor, hurried to Europe in vain for aid. Maximillian was overthrown and shot the Mexicans; Charlotte lost her ason, and has been confined in a anitarium since.

Many Tragedies

Other tragedies and romances have mbittered the life of the aged Franz osef. His only son, the Archduke udolph, was married to the Princess tephanie, after he had fallen in love with the Baroness Marie Vetsera. ater Rudolph tried to divorce his ife to marry the baroness, but in his his wishes were denied by the mperor. A reconcilliation dinner was rranged, at which the archduke and is wife were to meet. She came, and with other guests awaited the coming of Rudolph. They waited until news ame to them that Rudolph had been ound dead in the arms of the baro- ess, also dead, in a hunting lodge.

The emperor's nephew, the Arch- uke Johann, lost his heart to Mlle. Milli Stubel a pretty dancer. Their arriage was forbidden by Franz osef, unless the archduke would con- ent to give up his rank and renounce is allegiance to his country. Johann became plain Johann Orth, married the dancer and sailed from London to South America in 1866. Neither were ever heard of again, a shipwreck probably ending their lives, although in late years there have been several pretenders who claimed to be the long lost archduke.

Attempts To Kill Her

The morgantic marriage of Franz Ferdinand, the heir apparent, contrary to the emperor's wishes, brought and added sorrow. Constant threats and two actual attempts to assassinate him made his life an uneasy one.

Franz Josef was a man of iron. He had little humor in his make-up. He wanted to be considered a great soldier, and his rooms in his various palaces were furnished with Spartan simplicity.

He slept in a small iron bed which would have been in a better surroundings had it adorned a prison cell. His personal habits were temperate, and he had a strong constitution up to his last years. Simple in his tastes, handsome, plain in his living, sincere, affable, beloved of children and loving them, and often showing great heroism, he was loved by all his people in spite of his faults.

When Franz Josef held court, he heard petitions from the most lowly of duty and responsibility to the people brought him safely through many crisis of state, and with his death Europe loses the last of the old monarchs whose life mirrored the progress made by their empires.

The heart of the dead emperor will be removed from the body and preserved in a silver urn, which will be deposited, according to the Hapsburg custom in the church of the Augustines, or the "imperial church." The body will be placed, in a silver coffin, in a crypt of the church of the Capuchins, where the dead Hapsburgs of the last 400 years rest. In that crypt now lie the remains of the martyred Empress Elizebeth, and of the suicide crown prince, Rudolph.

FAVORS EMBARGO ON AMERICAN FOODSTUFFS

WASHINGTON, November 23—Representative Fitzgerald, Democrat, chairman of the House Appropriation Committee, announced today that he favored an embargo on foodstuffs, and that it was his purpose to prepare a bill and to press the subject early in the coming session of Congress."

"Two reasons chiefly impel me to favor embargo legislation on foodstuffs," said Mr. Fitzgerald. "It is the most effective weapon in our controversy with Great Britain over her unwarranted blacklist of American merchants. As our foodstuffs are needed abroad an embargo will be more effective than weary months of diplomatic negotiations, which end in the continuation of the indefensible practice against our rights.

"The embargo should be imposed for purely domestic reasons. The prices of foodstuffs have reached levels that are bringing widespread distress to the country. Many hundreds of thousands of our people are suffering from lack of the necessities of life. Wholesale prices in many commodities are less abroad today than they were a year ago; here the retail prices have advanced alarmingly.

"The arguments that nothing should be done to interfere with the expansion of our foreign trade does not impress me. Of what profit is it if our foreign trade is to grow with leaps and bounds while our own people are brought down to the verge of starvation as a result of it?"

It seems to be generally agreed here that the coming session of Congress will ese a fight over the embargo proposal, which is backed by a monster petition signed by thousands of persons and organizations.

President Wilson and the Cabinet are understood to oppose it.

MORE VIGOROUS PROSECUTION OF WAR

Campaign Opens in England to Combat Anti-War Propaganda

(Canadian Press Despatch)

LONDON, Nov. 23— The morning papers attach the greatest importance to the programme just announced of addresses in the various cities in Great Britain by leading members of the cabinet.

The following schedule has already been arranged:— Lord Robert Cecil, minister of war trade at Bristol; Harold J. Tennant, secretary for Scotland at Edinburgh; Thomas McKinnon Wood, chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, at Leicester; Lord Curzon, Lord Privy Seal at Liverpool; H. L. Samuels, secretary of state for home affairs, at Newcastle, Arthur Henderson, minister of pensions, at Northampton.

It is stated that the addresses are intended to gain the spirit of the public for a more vigorous prosecution of the war, and thus to combat the anti-war propaganda in industrial centres.

It is believed that Premier Asquith Lloyd George, Bonar Law, and Reginald McKenna will participate in a joint meeting of the Unionists and Liberal war committees along the same line and that probably both parties will take official action in support of the campaign.

Annual Meeting Dinnis Pedigreed Foxes, Limited

The annual meeting of the John R. Dinnis' Pedegreed Foxes Ltd., was held Monday and the directors are being congratulated on the result of the year's work and the businesslike manner in which it was handled. The directors, too shrewd to be driven in to panic by the war conditions which have so affected general investments, decided to conserve their stock rather than sell either breeders or pelts at a disadvantage. As a result they have in their ranch today, according to the Directors' Report, 43 pairs of pure bred pedigreed foxes of the best strain the province has produced, after paying all expenses for the year They had begun the year with thirty pairs, so that their net gain in foxes alone for the year is 43 1-3 per cent. In addition to this they have a small reserve fund. They also have a few foxes which are not such promising producers as the others. These they will kill and the amount that will be realized on these will carry the company along during the year. The Directors could have so arranged matters as to pay a dividend for the past year, that is, they could have sold some of their foxes or some of their pelts but the prices available were not as attractive to them as was the prospect of a larger business with increased stock next year. For this reason, a purely business one, they kept all their foxes, with the exception above mentioned and have thus laid the foundation of a business which, next year, even at present pelt prices or lower, will enable them to pay handsome dividends and to continue paying them in years to come.

The officers and directors unanimously re-elected and are as follows:

President—John R. Dinnis, Charlottetown, P. E. I., Stockman and Fox Breeder. Vice-Pres.—Charles Lyons, Charlottetown, P. E. I., Ex-Mayor of Charlottetown. Member of Firm of C. Lyons & Co., Coal Merchants. Sec'y-Treas.—W. C. S. McClure, Charlottetown, P. E. I., Broker. Major A. A. Bartlett, Charlottetown, P. E. I., Pres. "The Guardian Publishing Co." Sec'y-Treas. "P. E. Island Provincial Rifle Association." C. H. Black, Merchant of Firm of Black & Co., Charlottetown, P. E. I. President Upton Black Fox Co. Limited. Major Chas. Leigh, Sec'y-Treas. Prince Royal Black Foxes, Limited. Theodore Ross, B. A., ex-Secretary of Agriculture, Secretary of Stock Breeders Association.

Germans Preparing For After-War Trade

NEW YORK, November 22—James W. Gerard, United States ambassador to Germany, speaking last night at a dinner given in his honor by Frank A. Munsey, predicted that Germany to encourage her home industries after the war, would do all her foreign buying through a central committee.

"In Germany," said the ambassador, "after the war, probably no one will be permitted to purchase anything made outside of Germany. There will be, in all probability, a central buying committee, which will do the purchasing from foreign countries for the empire.

"This will permit the Germans to enter the market in a position to say, to a certain extent, what prices they will pay for that which they wish to purchase. Before the war a friend of mine, a German manufacturer, said to me:—'We can combine here to buy copper from you, but you cannot combine to sell it to us.'

"Now, if our peace and prosperity are to continue commercially, permission to combine for the foreign export trade should be given. There is a bill, known as the Webb bill, which will afford some assistance to American exporters."

PRESS COMMENTS ON THE DEAD EMPEROR

(Canadian Press Despatch)

LONDON, November 23.—The editorials in the morning newspapers today concur in the view that the death of Emperor Francis Joseph and the accession of a new monarch will not materially affect the course of the war.

The extent to which the dead emperor willingly went into the present war is discussed, and while the consensus of opinion is that the war was deliberately engineered by Germany for her own ends, some of the writers take the view that Francis Joseph was Germany's willing accomplice. Others, however, express the belief that the dead monarch was merely the impotent tool of Count Von Tschirschky, late German ambassador to Austria, and other controllers of the German policy. It is contended by some of the writers that the death of Francis Joseph removes the last obstacle to Germany's complete domination of the situation. The veteran sovereign, it is declared, was a distinguished personality, to whom Germany was compelled to behave with a certain deference, and Germany could not, it is argued, treat Austria quite as a subject in his lifetime.

The commentators maintain that now the alleged obstacles are removed, the chains thrown by Germany around the dual monarchy will be tightly riveted.

"The future of Austria-Hungary says the Morning Post, "was never darker or more foreboding. Whatever the outcome of the war, she stands to lose. Even if the central powers avoid a decisive defeat she will remain a vassal of Germany, in fact, if not in name."

Although Emperor Francis Joseph is recognized by the editorial writers to have been personally friendly to Great Britain, and the tragedies of his reign are sympathetically recalled, today's estimates of his achievements and his personality are not flattering. "Beyond his devotion to the dynasty and his desire to transmit its possessions undiminished to his successor," says the Times, "he seems to have had no positive purpose. Throughout life he groped in the dark toward the line of least resistance, and ended by involving himself, his family, his dominions and his subjects in a catastrophe, the like of which the civilized world has not seen."

The Daily Chronicle says: "Behind the divinity which came to hedge him he remained what he always had been, a man of cruel, crooked, cavernous and misanthropic mind."

The Daily Telegraph says: "His star has set in the horror of a convulsion in which the fortunes of the Hapsburgs may well finally be engulfed. This is not the moment to allot his exact responsibility for the unpardonable crime of the war, but future ages, with the advantage of cooler judgment, will not, we think, estimate less sternly than we the guilty record of one of the arch-malefactors of Europe."
