Woman's Realm -:- Social and Personal -:- Fashions -:- Literature

What mistake is this young couple about to make?

They tried bribing . . . They tried coaxing . . . But the child still refuses. Now they're going to make him take his laxative "even if it takes all day."

And that's the big mistake.

Doctors say that the nervous strain a child undergoes when forced to take a nasty-tasting laxative can throw his entire system out of order. Millions of mothers have learned an easy way to avoid this hazard. They give a laxative all children love to take . . . Castoria.

Do you know that Castoria is made especially for children? It has no harsh, purging drugs that some adult laxatives contain. It won't "crash" its way through a child's delicate system.

Castoria is a safe laxative that gently stimulates the muscles in the lower bowel. It helps the system throw off body wastes. And it does its job thoroughly.

Never use any laxative but Castoria for your baby. If you have several children, we suggest you buy the Family Size Bottle. It lasts longer—is more economical.

CASTORIA

The Children's Laxative from babyhood to 11 years

Dotted Line Honeymoon

By JOSEPH McCORD

INSTALMENT 30

Announcing her intention of leaving the Raynear proved to be a more difficult task than Jacqueline anticipated. She would miss her little office miss the pleasant acquaintances, the activity of the lobby. Fortunately, she knew a competent stenographer who would like her job. She would recommend the girl to Mr. Potter. That might make him more willing to let her go. Otherwise, it would be just like Larry to take matters into his own hands.

Archibald Poter was genuinely amazed when Jacqueline walked into his office and explained that she must leave the first of the week. She had decided that she would like to rest for a time . . . nerves had been bothering her. If Mr. Potter had no one in mind for the place, she was sure that Miss Briscoe would suit nicely. She had substituted during several of Jacqueline's vacations and was quite familiar with the work. So . . .

Archibald elevated his brows quizzically. "You are extremely fortunate Miss Anthony, that your investments are allowing you to retire so early. We shall miss you greatly."

"Oh, it isn't that . . ." She broke off in rosy confusion.

"No?" Archibald queried. His fingers played with the carnation in his buttonhole. "When is the wedding?"

Jacqueline surrendered with a laugh. "I can't tell you the date," she evaded. "It's a secret. But I'd rather no one knew . . . Not that I'm leaving, even. Do you mind?"

"You can trust me. But you must let me wish you and the fortunate young man every happiness."

"Thank you. And shall I talk with Miss Briscoe ?"

"If you will."

That much was settled. The main thing was to keep the Raynear staff, particularly Virgie Blake, in darkness as to the resignation.

Larry's shoulder was doing nicely now. He was very busy, spending much time in conference with his lawyers. He had little to say about the progress they were making, only that "things were moving along." That was his excuse for turning the house hunting over to his wife for the time being. Larry proposed that she select a furnished apartment for the time being. He didn't care where it was, so long as it was roomy and "nice."

Quite to her consternation, he took her to his own bank and introduced her to a teller who asked her to write her signature on two cards. In her confusion, she signed her name "Anthony" and the cards had to be torn up. Larry chuckled over her shoulder. She was given a small check book and a deposit book which indicated that Mrs. Jacqueline Cutter's account was in the amount of ten thousand dollars.

"Thought you could get away with it, didn't you?" Larry jibed. "Well, you might as well get used to the idea that you can't put anything over on the old man . . Not much, I mean."

"Try to get any of this," she retorted saucily.

Jacqueline finally selected an apartment with five rooms in a new and lofty building not far from Courtland street. She was quite overawed with its seeming magnificence and rather fearful when she took her husband to inspect it one evening.

"Not very big," was his comment, "but it'll do, if it suits you. I want to get away from the hotel."

"Don't you like it any more?" she asked demurely.

"No. It gives me the willies every time I pass through the lobby and see that other dame in your little office. Makes me feel like throwing her out. And your cigar peddling friend was asking me about you yesterday. She seems all broken up because you disappeared without saying good-bye."

"Poor Virgie. I must run in and say hello to her. You didn't explain?"

"Who? Me? I told her I had been on the point of asking the management where you were. She gave me a dirty look for that . . . thinking of Alma, my blonde, of course."

"Are you sure you weren't?"

"No. I was thinking of my wife. You haven't so much to move, have you?"

"Just my clothes . . . and a few other things."

"Send them over in the morning. To-morrow night the Cutters will be in their own home. Please . . . Jack?"

"Yes . . ."

* * * *

The first Sunday afternoon in the new home took the nature of a housewarming, with Vince as guest of honor. He had driven down from the Brown farm for the occasion. After dinner the three sat in the living room enjoying the glow from the open fire.

Vince brought up the topic of Martin Jacobs. He was curious to learn the latest developments.

"We're getting some place, now," Larry admitted. "After the law firm of Hicks and Hicks got through outlining things to the old gentleman he was more than willing to play. Any pay. Of course, you never can tell what will happen when a thing like that drags through the courts, but Jacobs is anxious to settle outside. I think that's the way it will end."

"Did he own up to anything?" Vince wanted to know.

"He didn't have a chance. We pinned it on him. He's a game loser, but he's definitely afraid of an investigation . . . about my dad's finish. Old Hicks advised me yesterday to let Jacobs off with a financial settlement . . . take him to the cleaner's. He feels that any criminal investigation would be dif-

(Continued on Page 8)

Dorothy Dix

Perfect Mates Are Rare Indeed

Says There is no Profit in Divorce for Women

Nine Out of Ten Husbands or Wives Who Get a Divorce and Remarry Find No Greater Happiness Than They Had With Their First Mates — Lawyers Alone Benefit

An Attorney who has assisted 3000 husbands and wives in breaking their matrimonial bonds declares that the only people who profit by divorce are the lawyers, and that he men and women who cannot get along peaceably with one wife or husband are not likely to live harmoniously with another.

I commend this statement to the careful consideration of the disgruntled couples who believe that marriage would be an earthly paradise instead of the hell they find it, if only they were free of their mates and married to some one else. Such is not the case. Marriage is marriage, with the same restrictions, with the same obligations, calling for the same sacrifices whether it is a first one or a tenth. Those who could not adapt themselves to it in the beginning will rebel against its limitations to the end, and the man and woman who could not adjust themselves to Sue and Tom find it equally impossible to adjust themselves to Isabel and Percy.

There is no such thing as the perfect mate of whom they dream, and in swapping husbands and wives they simply exchange one set of faults for another and one set of characteristics for another that is just as hard to endure. Mr. A. Divorcees Mrs. A. who is a crackerjack cook and housekeeper but a boresome companion, and he marries a No. 2 wife who is a brilliant conversationalist, but a poisonous cook and a nagger. He swaps her for No. 3 who is easy-going and good-natured but a ruinous spendthrift.

Mrs. B. hikes out for Reno because Mr. B. is all business while she is all soul, and she wants a husband who will quote poetry to her and understand her finer nature. So she swaps her No. 1 husband for No. 2 who can't make a living and, wearying of starvation, she trades him off for a Great Lover who is so adept at his courting that he makes love to every pretty girl who comes along.

There they are. No better off with their "lasts" than they were with their "firsts." The net result of all of their divorcees are alimony to pay, mussed and broken up lives, and a lot of hard-boiled little children with three or four mothers and fathers apiece.

Women are the petitioners in more than two-thirds of the divorce cases. This is partially due to the fact that it is considered a gallant gesture for a husband to let his wife ask for the divorce and lay the blame for it on him. But mostly it is because women have a naive and child-like belief that divorce is a cure-all for whatever ails them. Life hasn't given them all they wanted. They haven't enough money. They are tired of commonplace husbands. They are weary of pinching pennies and slaving at housework. And they think that all they have to do to be happy and prosperous and gay and carefree is to get a divorce.

This unshakable faith that women have in the miracle-working power of a decree absolute would be cynically amusing if it were not so tragic in its consequences. For it is what keeps the divorce grist mill grinding overtime on the matrimonial affairs of women who think that a little piece of paper can take the pain out of a broken heart, turn a middle-aged mother into a glamorous flapper and provide her with Croesus for a husband.

No other one thing in the world would do as much for the happiness and general good of women as to convince them that generally speaking, there is no profit for them in divorce. Of course, there are exceptional cases in which divorce is as necessary as the surgeon's knife that cuts away a cancer, but ninety-nine times out of a hundred for a wife to get a divorce from her husband only makes a bad matter worse.

Maybe the husband philanders around a little. Maybe he is undemonstrative and takes his wife for granted. Maybe he is grouchy and hard to get along with. Maybe he goes to sleep over his paper of an evening. But he provides a home and comfort for his family. He educates his children. His wife has her place in society. And if his wife divorces him she is thrown out into the world to support herself and the children, helped by a little grudgingly paid alimony. Many a woman finds that all she gets out of divorce is the the necessity of standing behind a counter.

An dif the divorcee marries again she finds that No. 2 is no more a Prince Charming than was No. 1 and that she has to put up with just as aggravating peculiarities in him as she did in her first husband.

DOROTHY DIX.

To End Annoying Cough, Mix This Recipe, at Home

Big Saving! No Cooking! So Easy!

Here is the well known old recipe which thousands of housewives have found to be a dependable means of breaking up winter coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs very little, but it does give quick relief.

From any druggist, get a 2½ ounce bottle of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 ounce bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and 1 cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's easy. Thus you make 16 ounces of a very efficient remedy, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils and children love its taste.

This home mixture soothes the irritated throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the phlegm and eases the soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine in a concentrated form, a well known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

Today's Short Wave Radio Program

(All time is Eastern Standard)

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 19

Moscow

4 p. m.—"Entertainment from the Russian Capital." RW-59 (6,000 or 12,000 kc.)

London

6 p. m.—Duets for two pianofortes played by John Tobin and Tilly Connely. GSD, 25.5 m. (11,750 kc.), GSC, 31.3 m. (9,580 kc.), GSB, 31.5 m. (9,510 kc.) or GSA, 49.5 m. (6,050 kc.)

Rome

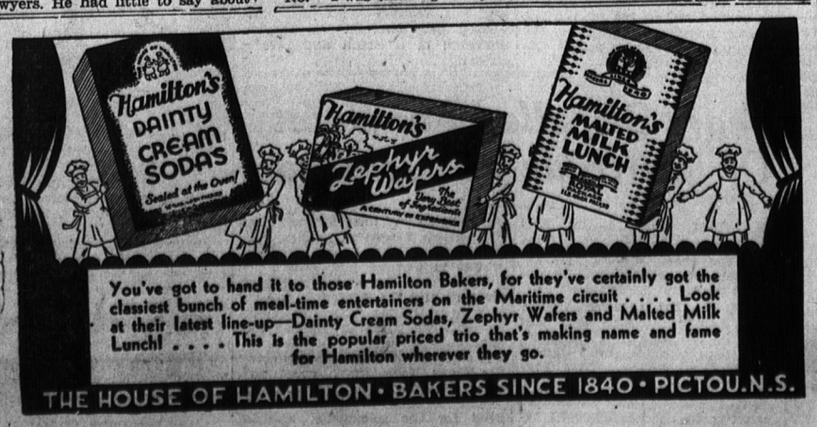
6 p. m.—News bulletins in English. Concert from the Rome studios. Talk by Prof. A. De Masi on present events of general interest. Arias of the 19th Century. 2RO, 31.1 m. (9,635 kc.)

Berlin

7.30 p. m.—Radio Revue 1935-1936. DJC, 49.8 m. (6,020 kc.)

London

10.15 p. m.—"Guess Again?" Another half hour of conundrums. GSD, 25.5 m. (11,750 kc.), GSC, 31.3 m. (9,580 kc.) GSL, 49.1 m. (6,110 kc.)



You've got to hand it to those Hamilton Bakers, for they've certainly got the classiest bunch of meal-time entertainers on the Maritime circuit . . . . Look at their latest line-up—Dainty Cream Sodas, Zephyr Wafers and Malted Milk Lunch! . . . . This is the popular priced trio that's making name and fame for Hamilton wherever they go.

THE HOUSE OF HAMILTON • BAKERS SINCE 1840 • PICTOU, N.S.

THE FAVOURITE Beauty Soap OF CANADIAN BRIDES

"I have always used Palmolive..."

says MRS. A. I. BIRD lovely Toronto Bride

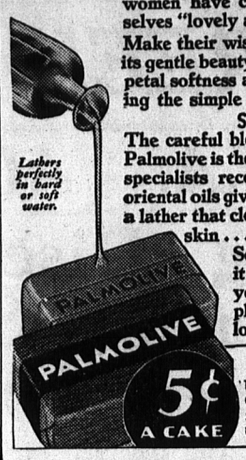
"It is the one beauty soap I can trust to keep all my complexion lovely"



Lathers perfectly in hard or soft water.

Like this beautiful Canadian bride, millions of women have chosen Palmolive to keep themselves "lovely all over."

Make their wise choice yours. Palmolive, with its gentle beauty care can give all your skin rose-petal softness and youth. Let it . . . by following the simple beauty treatment shown below.

Soothes and Beautifies

The careful blending of olive and palm oils in Palmolive is the reason more than 20,000 beauty specialists recommend it. Only these costly oriental oils give Palmolive its rich, gentle lather, a lather that cleanses the pores . . . soothes your skin . . . leaves it refreshed and radiant.

So make Palmolive your soap. Use it always, from today on, for all your skin. You'll have a complexion that's really youthful . . . lovely all over.

Try this Palmolive Beauty Treatment

Use it for face and throat and for the bath. Gently massage into your skin a warm, rich Palmolive lather. Cleanse the pores thoroughly. Rinse with warm water, then with cold. That's all there is to this simple beauty treatment. Here's another beauty hint. Palmolive, used as a shampoo, keeps your scalp healthy, hair soft and lustrous.

The HOUSEWIFE and HER ACTIVITIES

BE TRUE

Be but yourselves, be pure, be true,
And prompt in duty; heed the deep
Low voice of conscience; through the ill
And discord round about you, keep
You faith in human nature still.

—Elizabeth Whittier.

VOWS

Make no Vows to forbear this or that; it shows no great strength ,and makes thee ride behind thyself.—Fuller.

QUALITIES

A man that is Temperate, Generous, Valiant, Chaste, Faithful, and Honest, may at the same time, have Wit, Humour, Mirth, Good Breeding, and Gallantry. While he exerts these latter qualities, twenty occasions might be invented to show he is master of the other noble Virtues. —Steele.

VIRTUE

No virtue reveals its beauty in isolation; virtues only shine regally when they stand in virtuous relationship.

ATTAINMENT

To think we are able is almost to be so; to determine upon attainment is frequently attainment itself. Thus earnest resolution has often seemed to have about it almost a savor of omnipotence.—Samuel Smiles.

GOOD HUMOR

Good-humor will even go so far as often to supply the lack of wit. —Fielding.

HUMAN WISHES

The desire to concentrate good of various kinds into the smallest possible space is one of the commonest of human wishes, but it is not encouraged by the broader economy of nature.

—Philip G. Hamerton.

WISDOM

Wisdom does not show itself so much in precept as in life—in a firmness of mind and a mastery of appetite. It teaches us to do, as well as to talk and to make our works and actions all of a color.—Seneca.

FASHION FACTS

A very effective suit for Winter sports is comprised of a three-quarter length coat of sheepskin with dark blue suede for the outer side and white wool inside. With this is worn trousers of white corduroy, a dark blue jumper and a heavy white ribknit scarf.

* * *

Net is prominent in favour for black sheers, particularly for evening dresses. It is the "stand-by" dress that should be in every woman's wardrobe, sharing this honour with lace.

* * *

Fur capes again are due for Spring accent. They are interpreted in the smaller animal varieties such as sables, marten and mink.

WRINKLES

It is claimed that small wrinkles on the face can be removed by applying the white of an egg to the face and letting it remain for about 20 minutes. Egg white is an astringent and has the tendency to draw the tissues together.

SAVE THE SNAPS

When removing snaps from clothing, fasten them together on a piece of heavy paper, and they will be conveniently ready when wanted.

BREAD

Alloy the bread to cool before placeing it in the breadbox, or it will become soggy

STYLE WHIMSIES

The new shoes are intriguing running more to pumps than to oxfords. There are toeless and heelless models, with six straps brought well up on the instep. There is a pump made of half buckskin and half patent leather, and patent is combined with linen, too, in a smart looking T-strap sandal.

* * *

Giddy bright flowers, as well as jungle beasts and what nots, adorn the new spring printed silks. Frocks made of these bright materials help to dispel the dullness of this after-the-holiday season.

The only sure thing is that nothing is sure.

Many a bell boy is fired because he missed his calling.

The successful man never got to the top via an escalator.

The laborer's idea of interior decoration is a square meal.

Honesty is the best policy—if the premiums on it are kept up.

It costs more to avenge our wrongs than it does to protect our rights.

The best way to eliminate worry over the amount of work to be done is to get busy and do it.

The old-fashioned religious revival depended on faith. This is also true of a business revival.

Many a man's wife believes not only everything he tells her, but lots of things he'd never even think of telling her.

ASHES

No man is ever finished, no man is ever through, licked, wripped, reduced to worthlessness unless he allows it to be so. He may think the fires of adversity have burned him to ashes or to a cinder, but remember ashes still have their uses and their is a tremendous market for cinders! A man needs to be able to fight, of course. He might be able to. Not only that, but at times he must do it. However he must not lay such stress on fighting qualities that he forgets man also needs the generous and kindly and understanding heart.

TWO FACTORS RULE CHOICE OF POWDER

There are two important rules to follow when you buy face powder. First, you must insist on a shade which matches exactly your skin tones. Secondly, you ought to pick a type that suits and will remain on your kind of skin.

Some powders are fine and light and often just right for the slightly oily complexion. Others are heavier and better for dry and noraml skins. The best way to tell whether or not a certain kind is best for your face is to have the salesgirl give you a small sample. Use the sample for a day or two, then, if satisfied, buy a full box.

Do not let anyone tell you that you ought to buy face powder several shades lighter than the natural shade of your skin. It simply must match. Incidentally, few complexions are clear pink—none dead white—so beware of these two colors. If you are going for a winter vacation, take in addition to your regular powder, a box of dark suntan. As your skin gets darker, mix a small portion from each of the two boxes. thus getting a harmonious shade.

Remember, of coure, that the kind of foundation you use has a good deal to do with the length of time the powder will stay on. There are certain kinds of olly complexions which do not need foundation lotion or cream, but the majority do. Apply it before cream rouge, then powder.

Always apply powder with a clean puff (some of the new lambskin varieties wash easily and dry quickly), or with clean cotton pads. Soiled ones grind dirt into the pores.

CELERITY

Celerity is never more admired than by the negligent.—Shakespeare.

THE COOK'S CORNER

CRANBERRY AND ORANGE RELISH

One pound cranberries, 1 large orange, 2 cups granulated sugar.

Put cranberries through medium knife of meat grinder; then the rind of the orange, as well as the pulp, with the the white membrane cut off and all seeds removed. Mix all this with the sugar and store in a glass jar in the refrigerator—the longer the better, within reason. No cooking. This is delicious with turkey or any other poultry, or with pork.

STUFFED FLANK STEAK

Four cups bread crumbs, 3 small onions, minced, 2 eggs, slightly beaten, 1 teaspoon majoram, 2 teaspoons sage, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon thyme, 4 tablespoons melted butter, 4 tablespoons hot water, 2 to 2½ pounds flank steak.

Method: Make a stuffing by combining the ingredients in order given. If majoram and thyme are unfamiliar seasonings to you, they may be omitted, but they do add a very agreeable, spicy flavor to the stuffing. Spread the steak with the stuffing roll up lengthwise and tie securely with string. Roll, in seasoned flour and sear in hot fat. This steak may be cooked on top of the stove or in the oven. If cooked on top of the stove, use a Dutch oven or a heavy skillet with a close-fitting cover. Add 2 cups of hot water and cook slowly for 2 hours or more, adding more water if necessary. When done, the water should have all cooked away.

If cooked in the oven, use either a casserole or a Dutch oven. Add ½ cup water and cook for 1½ hours in a hot (400 deg. F.) oven, adding more water if necessary.

RECREATION

Make thy recreation servant. to thy business, lest thou become a slave to thy recreation.—Quarles.

A Morning Smile

Two negro boys were arguing about ghosts. One claimed to have seen a ghost as he passed the cemetery the night before.

"What was de ghos' doin' when you las' seen him?" asked the doubtful one.

"Jes fallin' behin'; fallin' behin' rapid."

"Yes, sir, it was just about the ideal vacation. Nothing to do but loll around all day in comfortable chairs. No mosquitos, no insects of any kind. Pleasant, smiling people on all sides. No big bills running up, no relatives, no sunburn.

"Just peace and quiet all day long. A thorough rest for the mind and body—the kind of vacation you've always dreamed about.

"Yes, sir, it was ideal. We certainly enjoyed that vacation the boss took."

BE OF GOOD CHEER

Nowhere else is the genius of the Christian religion more poignatly revealed than in the Parable of the Prodigal Son, which begins in the minor key and gradually rises to the major, until it culminates in a great merry-making to the surprise of the Elder Son, who thinks the majesty of the moral law will be compromised by the music and the dancing. and has to be reminded that these joyous sounds are the keynotes of the Spiritual World.— L. P. Jacks.

You can make a better snowman BAREHANDED!

Mittens are sure to come off—no matter if it's forbidden—and hands are sure to get sore and chapped. Let your children enjoy happy, healthy fun in the snow without painful chapping.

See that they smooth a few drops of Hinds Honey & Almond Cream on their hands before they go out to play, again after they come in, and again after you wash them up for bed at night. Hinds contains real skin softeners—the kind that penetrate deeply. Hinds goes in quickly, works right away and leaves not a trace of stickiness.

HINDS HONEY & ALMOND CREAM

Trade Mark Registered in Canada

SMART CLOTHES FOR THE HOME DRESSMAKER

There are so many delightful new woolens—thin "neutral" woolen in beige or grey for mid-season wear. And how fascinating they would make up into today's model.

And I'll let you in on a secret—beige or grey in thin woolen or in crepe silk, is quite the smartest idea for spring.

Checked angora woolen is another very smart choice. It is especially nice for school or office wear.

You'll enjoy sewing it for the charming result gained and the tremendous saving in cost.

Style No. 398 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15 and 17 years. Size 15 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 1-inch ribbon for bow.

Price of PATTERN 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred.) Wrap coin carefully.

No. 398 Size .....

.....
Name

.....
Street Address

.....
City State

WOMEN OF IRAN MAY NOW UNVEIL

The emperor of Iran, Reza Shah Pahlevi, has consented to the women in his realm unveiling if they wish.

They are not compelled to discard the veil, but those who wish to discard this age-old custom may do so without hindrance.

A new era for the women of Iran is hailed, as this innovation marks the end of their seclusion.