BRITAIN CANNOT LISTEN TO PEACE PROPOSALS NOW

Statement That United States Suggests Compromise Has Created Amazement.

THIS MUST BE LAST BIG WAR
And Only When German Militarism is Utterly Crushed Will Peace Come.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Until Prussian militarism is crushed for all time both on land and sea, Britain will refuse to even consider propositions of peace. This was the emphatic position taken by the British officials here today, as they were asked by suggestions that the United States wants to propose a compromise for the immediate ending of the war. It is felt that the position of the Allies must be greatly misunderstood if it is believed that any peace proposal would even be received at this time.

Were the war ended to-day, even though Belgium were indemnified and France received back Alsace-Lorraine, the great German fleet would remain as a menace to the peace of Europe. England is determined that this shall be the last war. Its officials, from the King down, insist that the real cause of the war was the German dream of world power. A compromise now, it is claimed, would mean that at a later date Germany would renew the attempt and this time the Allies might be the last to present their present unbroken front. So it is the intention of England to fight on until Germany is forced to consent to a peace that will make her a party for all time to treaties that she will be compelled to respect and not regard as "mere scraps of paper" to be disregarded at will.

Must Sign in Berlin.
The Times to-day, commenting on the outlook, declares that only peace concluded in Berlin and the dispersal of the German fleet, will be acceptable to the British people. It declares that any official who would consent to any lesser humiliation of Germany could not withstand the upheaval of popular disapproval.

The agreement between the Allies that peace would only be concluded by an agreement satisfactory to all ended for all time, officials say, the possibility that Germany might be able to make individual terms which would permit her to retain her present status. France wants Alsace-Lorraine back and with it the enormous indemnity that Bismarck wrung from her in 1871. But even though that were offered her by Germany right now, she could not accept it, as England and Russia have tied her hands. The same is true of any suggestions that might be made acceptable to Russia and England.

May Be Revolution.
It is admitted that peace may be hastened by the defeat of the Germans in France and by the crushing of the Austrians by the Russians. There has been a strong under-current in Germany against the war. Only in Prussia was it popular with the people. The majority of the other German states had no liking for conflict, so far as the rank and file of the people was concerned. Now that Germany is on the defensive, that the attempt to take Paris has proven abortive, and above all, since the losses to the Fatherland have been so enormous, there is real danger of a popular uprising which will change the present German system of Government. The Germans as a people seldom forgive mistakes, and they are certain to consider a criminal mistake the inauguration of a war that ranged almost the entire world against the German Government.

Suggestions that the Kaiser may yet be forced to abdicate are made in certain quarters usually familiar with what is going on in Germany. They are as yet only suggestions, but when the truth is known in Germany those making them here say they may become realities. Meanwhile the British officials are, but emphatically, say peace suggestions at present are out of the question.

BELGIUM'S PROTEST AGAINST GERMAN CRUELTY PRESENTED AT WASHINGTON

(Special to the Guardian.)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Belgium's bill of complaint against the German army was this afternoon laid before President Wilson in the historic East Room of the White House. The president received the delegation of commissioners appointed by the King of Belgium to protest against alleged outrages in Belgium by German troops.

ENGLAND IN RESPECT TO NEUTRALITY

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The Official Press Bureau announced the statement issued with authority by Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for foreign affairs, with regard to the communication made by Dr. Von Bethmann Holweg, Imperial German Chancellor to the Press:—"Does anyone believe," asks the German Chancellor "that England would have interfered to protect Belgium freedom against France?"

The answer is that she would unless in 1914, Prince Bismarck met us in 1870. The Imperial Chancellor finds it strange that Prince Asquith in his questionably have done so. Sir Edward Grey as reported in the White Paper, asked the Government whether it was prepared to engage to respect the neutrality of Belgium so long as no other power violated it. The French Government replied they were resolved to respect it. This assurance, it was added, had been given on several times and had formed the subject of conversation between President Poincare and the German Chancellor, who was entirely ignorant of the fact that England took the same line about Belgium neutrality in 1870 that she has taken now.

"In 1870 Prince Bismarck, when approached by England on the subject, admitted and respected treaty obligations in relation to Belgium. The British Government stands in 1914 as it stood in 1870. It is Herr Von Bethmann Holweg who refused to accept the Guildhall speech did not mention the neutrality of the Scandinavian Countries, and suggests that the reason for the omission was a sinister design on England's part. It is impossible that any public speaker could cover the whole ground in each speech. The German Chancellor's reference to Denmark and other Scandinavian Countries could hardly be considered with regard to Denmark. The Danes are not likely to have forgotten the part played by Russia and England, respectively, in 1863 and 1864 when the Kingdom of Denmark was dismembered and the integrity of Norway and Sweden guaranteed by England and France in the Treaty of Stockholm in 1865.

The Imperial Chancellor refers to the dealings of Great Britain with the Boer Republic and suggests that she had been false therein to the causes of freedom. Without going into controversies, now happily past, we may recall what General Botha said in the South African Parliament a few days ago, when expressing his conviction of the righteousness of Great Britain's cause, and explaining the firm resolve of the South African Union to aid in every possible way.

Great Britain had given them a constitution under which they could create a Great Nationality, and had ever since regarded them as free people and a sister State. Although there might be many who, in the past, had been hostile to the British flag. He could vouch for it that they would think twice rather than under the British flag under the German flag.

The German Chancellor was equally unfortunate in reference to the Colonial Empire. So far from British policy having been recklessly egotistic, it has resulted in a great rally of affecting and common interest by all the British Dominions among which there is not one which is not doing Great Britain by soldiers or other contributions, or both in this war, with regard to the matter of Treaty obligations generally, the German Chancellor excuses the breach of Belgium's neutrality by military necessity at the same time making a virtue of having respected the neutrality of Holland and Switzerland and saying it does not enter his head to touch the neutrality of Scandinavian Countries. Virtue which admittedly is only practiced in the absence of temptation from self-interest, military advantage, does not seem greatly worth vaunting. To the Chancellor's concluding statement that to the German sword is entrusted the care of freedom for Europe the populace and the State's treatment of Belgium is a sufficient answer.

"To stop and whip out an emergency bandage which the prince, like every officer and private, carries sewed inside the blouse, and bind it around the thigh to check the bleeding was the work of but a moment. It was a long and dangerous task, however, to get him back to the first bandaging station, about a mile to the rear, under fire, and from there he was transported to the advanced hospital at Allenstein, where he remained until he was able to travel.

ISLAND HORSES AT HALIFAX

The day, the field being lunched together and a hard fight for places was maintained. In the last few strides, Addie B. surprised everybody by leaping forward from fifth place to third. Lady Myron was drawn after the second heat. Many of the horses seemed to run did not participate in the races, owing to various causes.

YESTERDAY'S EVENTS.
(From Our Own Correspondent)
HALIFAX, Sept. 17.—The grandstand was packed to-day, it being a half-holiday, and the greatest interest centered in the races on the Exhibition ground. The 2.30 race had an island entry, Alfred K., owned by the MacKinnon Drug Co. He surprised his friends by his speed, finishing very close in fast time. The free-for-all pace was most exciting. Jas K. Newbro, the Frederick entry, captured the first heat and looked good for more. In the second heat his saddle broke down, throwing the driver, but he escaped injury. Newbro was distanced. Hilda S., the speedy Southport mare, well teamed by Peter Conroy, captured the race after a good contest with Walter J. and Spoony Boy. As the result of her win Hilda carries a new record of 2:17 1/2. The 2:19 pace was won by Prince Wilkes, 2:16. It was a great race, three or four horses being bunched at each finish. Iona Girl, the island representative, went a good race for the amount of track she had, but missed the money by inches.

BRITISH INQUIRY INTO CHARGES OF GERMAN ATROCITIES.
LONDON, Sept. 16.—Premier Asquith announced in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon that the Government has begun formal steps to investigate the charges of German atrocities in Belgium.

A PROPHECY NOT COME TRUE.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Telegraphing from Rome the correspondent of the Daily Express says:—"The surrender of the Austrian army, led by Generals Dankl and Von Auffenberg is imminent, the heir to the Austrian throne Arch-Duke Charles Francis, is with Dankl's army and which is entirely cut off from communication. The five German army corps marching to the relief of the Austrians has been checked at Grodek by the Third Russian Corps. General Dankl's army is caught in the morass west of the River San. The last hope of the Austrians is to concentrate between the triangular fortress works of Przemysl, Cracow and Jaroslau. They can accomplish this, if at all, only by tremendous losses."

TEMPERANCE INQUIRY CONCLUDED AT SUMMERSIDE

their own course, and from the very first the attitude of the counsel was not that of men who were carrying on a bona fide inquiry into the conduct of officials, but was an endeavour to twist the thing around and find out where they could throw any discredit on the Government in connection with the administration of justice. They completely lost sight of what the true object of the inquiry was. The main object of the inquiry was to find out what caused the grave miscarriage of justice in Summerside, when some 14 prosecutions brought in the Courts were dropped. In regard to expenses, on Monday last, two days ago, he received a letter dated September 12, signed by Z. L. Fash, President, and D. Schurman, secretary-treasurer of the Temperance Alliance. Judge McLeod had applied to the Government without success in Charlottetown instead of Summerside, but had been refused. The letter further stated that the Alliance must decline to proceed with the charges against the Kings and Queens County officials unless the Government would pay the extra expenses incurred by having the investigation held in Summerside instead of Charlottetown. The Attorney General, the same day on which he received the Alliance's letter, replied, inter alia, that in respect of the charges against Stipendiary Magistrate Martin and Prosecutor Boisner the Government were desirous of affording every facility to the complainants to prove the same, but could not consent that the complainants should be allowed to incur costs against the Government without limit. The Government were willing to pay extra expenses which might be caused by the investigation being held in Summerside instead of Charlottetown, in the case of all necessary and material witnesses which might be examined. What more did the Alliance expect? The Attorney General asked. The Government, as trustees of the public funds, could not throw open to any group of persons the privilege of incurring against it all costs they pleased without limitation. On Tuesday the Attorney General received another letter from the Alliance, in reply to his, stating that the Alliance had seventeen witnesses and that unless the Government were prepared to pay their railway fares and hotel expenses, they could not proceed further. In answer to this Mr. Mathieson on the same day sent a letter to Mr. Bentley referring him to his (Mr. Mathieson's) previous letter, which covered the question completely.

It is not thought for one moment, continued the Attorney General, that information of any considerable value could be obtained by granting them further time and opportunity to bring their witnesses he would support the

Mr. Bell said he wanted to be clear in regard to what were and were not "material witnesses." He was not satisfied to leave the distinction with the Attorney General. Judge McLeod said that his understanding of the Attorney General's offer was to leave it to the court to decide what witnesses were necessary. To this the Attorney General assented. The court was at this stage adjourned to 2 p. m.

On the resumption the Attorney General stated that the Court should have a definite declaration from Mr. Bell as to what he proposed to do. Mr. Bell again pressed his application for postponement for one, two or three weeks as convenient. His Honor declined to grant the postponement for three weeks as the County Court would be sitting at that time. Next week to the exhibition would interfere with the proceedings.

It was decided that Mr. Bell should communicate with Mr. Bentley by telephone and report to the Court later whether the prosecution would go on with the case on Thursday, having as many witnesses as possible come up on the train. Mr. Bell accordingly left the Court to go into communication with Mr. Bentley.

In the meantime Mr. K. J. Martin took the stand. He gave evidence rebutting all the charges which had been brought against him, dealing with the charges clause by clause. Mr. Boisner also gave clear evidence in denial of the allegations against him.

The examination of the witnesses was concluded at half-past three and the Court adjourned until six o'clock to allow Mr. Bell to consult Mr. Bentley. At six o'clock Mr. Bell appeared and stated that in compliance with His Honor's suggestion he had communicated with Mr. Bentley and was instructed by him to state that the Alliance withdrew from the present investigation into charges against Stipendiary Magistrate Martin and Prosecutor Boisner and to give in writing the reasons for the withdrawal. Accordingly he had endeavoured to put down as near as possible the reasons for the withdrawal.

The Attorney General stated that it was immaterial to the Court what the reasons for withdrawal were. Mr. Bell asked the court to listen to those reasons.

His Honor stated in reply that the reasons, whatever they were, might be of interest to the Alliance but had no bearing on the case. He declined to hear them.

The Court then adjourned.
