—LETTER FROM MINISTER OF NATIONAL DEFENCE — The following letter in part from Ian MacKenzie, Minister of National Defence at Ottawa was read at the regular meeting of the Summerside Board of Trade. Last year a letter was sent to Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce and other organizations through which could be reached those who employ members of the Non Permanent Defence Forces. The letter stressed the need for trained man power in time of war or emergency, real or apprehended, and the methods by which this Department carries out this needed training. The letter also solicited the sympathetic co-operation of employers in making it possible for men on the Non Permanent Active Militia to train without feeling their positions might be adversely affected by such patriotic action. The response to the letter was most encouraging. There was a marked increase in the interest taken by employers and militia units throughout the country have expressed their gratitude, in which expression Mr. MacKenzie heartily joined. In many cases employers not only permitted but urged their employees to attend training camps In view of world conditions, the need for efficient defence forces in Canada has become no less acute than a year ago, and the same co-operation and support is requested again this year.—S.

Mr. Taylor was 83 years of age and had resided all his life on the old Taylor homestead, which was part of the original farm of 178 acres purchased by his father the late Donald Taylor about the year 1838.

Mr. Taylor was an excellent farmer and had one of the nicest farms in the district. He had many fine qualities of heart and mind and his death is a distinct loss to the community. He leaves to mourn his widow formerly Fanny Ives of Ives Point. Two daughters, Geneva and Jenny and an adopted son, Charles Drewett to whom much sympathy is extended. The funeral is to be held on Friday at 2 o'clock from his late residence.—S.

S'side High Beats Borden

The hockey season drew to a close last night at Borden when a band of pucksters from Summerside High School defeated Borden High School by a score of 7-5. The boys produced plenty of speed and clever passing plays and even joined in a free for all in the 1st period, fists flying in all directions as curley-headed Bill Wood and Chas. Love put on a Joe Louis-Tony Galento fixture. The Summerside line of Boates, Deighan and Morrison dazzled the crowd at times with their spectacular passing plays, this trio figured in all but one of their teams goals. Chas Love, Oatway and Rogers were the pick of the Borden team. The game was capably handled by O. Campbell and A. Morrison.

Tastes Differ, And In Adjudicating It Is No Exception

By WILLIAM H. HOGG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Ont., Apr. 12—"What's one man's meat is another man's poison." This was proved long before the Dominion Drama Festival was heard of, but its truth has again been illustrated.

Take "The Valiant" for example. When the Kingston, Ont., drama group gave it in regional competition Adjudicator George Skillan was lavish in his praise. He liked the play and the way it was acted. Some say he rated it above all the other 77 plays he saw in his Canadian tour.

Kingston brought "The Valiant" to London for the finals. It was given last night. Adjudicator Samuel R. Littlewood didn't like the play and he was critical of the acting of two principal characters, Harry Curtis whose portrayal of the Warden won him the "best actor" award in Eastern Ontario, and the Priest, played by Thomas G. Adams.

Yet, some who saw both performances say they were done about equally well. Both Skillan and Littlewood were agreed on the excellence of Ellinore Stuart in the role of The Girl.

Incidentally, Mr. Littlewood has indicated it is sometimes good policy to pan the play you're going to mark the highest. He didn't say, however, that he himself was following this procedure. We won't know until Saturday night.

Samuel Robinson Littlewood (known to his intimates in Fleet Street as "Robin") writes fairy stories.

The man who is judging this week's festival of plays has been a celebrated drama critic in London since the late 90's. His books include "The Story of Pierrot," "Perrault's Fairy Tales," "The Story of Santa Claus," "The Fairies — Here and Now", and several more.

It isn't the play, but the players Mr. Littlewood is appraising. Naturally, a good play makes for good acting, but the system of marking recognizes only the actual performance. Here's how it works out:

Fifty marks are given for acting —including characterization, emphasis, gesture, make-up, diction and audibility.

Thirty marks are for production —including team work, interpretation, tempo and grouping.

And the other 20 are for stage presentation — including setting, properties, lighting and costumes.

Germans Flee Polish "Terror"

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, April 12—(A P)—The official German news agency today reported approximately 100 Germans had fled Poland into Danzig because of anti-German "excesses" along the Polish Corridor to the Baltic.

The refugees were housed in a school in the Praust district of Danzig and cared for by the Nazi welfare organization.

The German agency said "the fugitives report there have been repeated outrages in the border regions recently" and blamed the "Polish west federation which always has been prominent in anti-German politics".

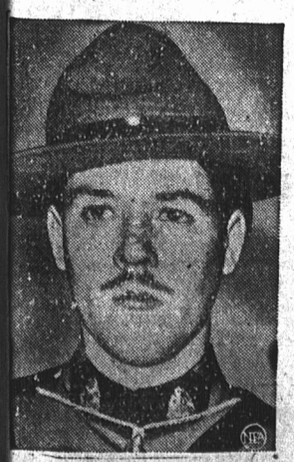
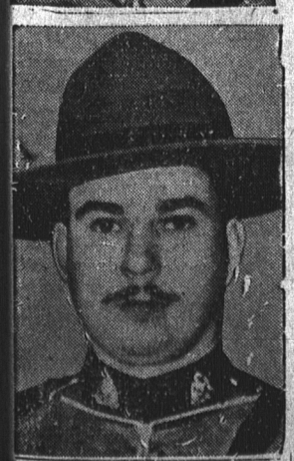
Canada Will "Play It Safe" with an Elaborate System of Safeguards for the King and Queen





Special precautions to King George and Queen Elizabeth during their Dominion visit will be these two Royal Canadian Mounted Policemen. Above, Constable Robert Portelance; below, Constable Sylvio Langlois.

BY THOMAS WAYLING
NEA Service Special Correspondent

OTTAWA, Canada.— The Canadian government will "play it safe" when King George and Queen Elizabeth make their transcontinental tour of the Dominion in May and June.

Many of the safety precautions being taken in connection with the visit are just those which any nation makes for a travelling head of state. But others come under the heading of added precautions and the reason for them, it is reported, is the fear that Irish terrorists might extend their recent British bombing activities to this country.

Dominion officials publicly have not stressed the fact that any "unusual" steps are being taken, but a recapitulation shows just how far they are going to insure the safety of the royal couple. The measures include:

1. A search by the government for designs for armored motor cars for the King and Queen to use on their tour.

2. A picked body of Canadian war veterans to supplement the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Scotland Yard in guarding the party.

3. Canada's immigration list, including newcomers from the United States as well as Europe, will be carefully checked from now until the King and Queen have finally said goodbye to the Dominion.

4. Switches along the 6,000-mile railroad journey will be spiked in place and special patrols will guard the tracks.

5. Every mile, a green or red light will shine, either to give the engineer the "go ahead" or to warn him to stop.

6. The special train will travel only during the day—except on the long gaps north of the Great Lakes—and only five times during the trip will Their Majesties leave their cars to sleep elsewhere at night.

7. The engineers on their train will have perfect vision of the track ahead, seeing it through the "speeding porthole", a swiftly whirling disc of plate glass.

8. A pilot train will at all times run a short distance ahead of the royal special.

9. The H. M. S. Repulse, which is bringing the party here from England, will enter Canadian waters south of Newfoundland to avoid ice and will proceed slowly nearing Canada as a precaution against possible fog.

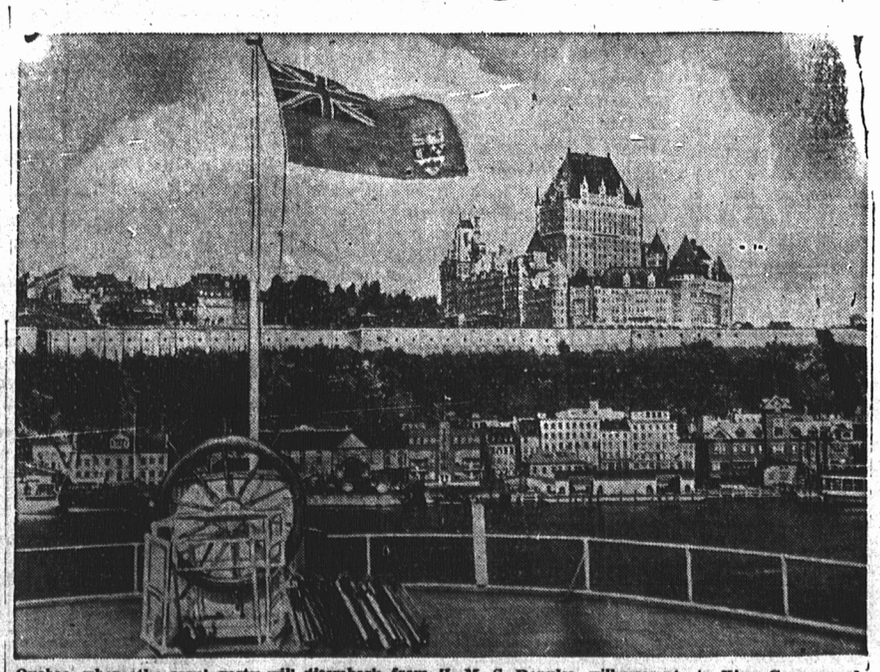
10. To have a guard close to Their Majesties at all times, the government has assigned four of its crack "Mounties" as personal orderlies to the sovereigns. They will maintain their famed vigilance 24 hours a day.

The Royal party will get its first glimpse of Canadian soil when they arise for breakfast on May 15. The Repulse, arriving off Father Point during the night, will be met by the Canadian destroyers, Skeena and Saguenay. But by morning the King and Queen will have the beautiful scenery of the St. Lawrence Valley on either hand—to the north the towering Laurentian Mountains, blanketed with deep evergreens and dotted with the myriad colors of spring. To the south the narrow, fertile fields of the old Quebec settlers, each farm with its frontage on the river.

Their Majesties will disembark at Quebec and from there on the journey is by train. They will use two private cars, built for Lord Willingdon when he was governor-general. Other private cars will be added to the train to accommodate the Royal party, Scotland Yard and Canadian "Mounty" officers and various railroad officials.

The Dominion government already is deluged with applications of Canadian, British and American newspapermen, photographers, newsreel cameramen and radio broadcasters to accompany the party. Because of the limited space on the Royal Special, they will travel on the pilot train which precedes it.

In eastern Canada the locomotives will be great coal burners with automatic stokers. Through the Rocky Mountains, oil burners will provide the power. On the westbound trip the King and Queen will travel over the Canadian Pacific Railway and return via the Canadian National.



Quebec, where the royal party will disembark from H. M. S. Repulse, will present to King George and Queen Elizabeth one of the most majestic sights in the picturesque St. Lawrence Valley.

Crippling Rheumatism

Rheumatism leaves in its train distorted joints, crooked limbs, crippled hands, and the intense pain is almost unendurable.

In the beginning rheumatism is often due to dyspepsia or indigestion, for if the digestive organs did their duty there would not be any poisonous uric acid in the blood to sow the seeds of rheumatism.

Burdock Blood Bitters invigorates the system, and helps to eradicate the uric acid from the blood which is the cause of the inflammation and pain.

Give B.B.B. a chance to help you rid your system of rheumatism.
