MALPEQUE

A shower was tendered Miss Grace MacGougan of Malpeque, on Friday evening, April 9th, previous to her marriage on Wednesday, April 14th. Relatives, neighbors, and friends, numbering in all about seventy-five, laden with baskets and gifts gathered at her home on this occasion. An address was read by Miss Millicent MacNutt, Darnley, and the gifts which were principally in money were many, and the accompanying verses were read and gifts presented by Mrs. Roy Woodside, and Miss Millicent MacNutt and the bride-to-be expressed her appreciation of all. The evening passed very pleasantly with music, cards and dancing, which were carried on to the full enjoyment of the young folk. Later the baskets were examined and the contents partaken of. The company dispersed at an early hour in the morning after having extended in a very real way their felicitations to the bride-to-be. Malpeque can ill-afford to lose any of the younger members of the community, but there is somewhat of compensation when as in this case, happiness and good fortune are anticipated for the future.

The missionary collection for Princeton congregation during the past fifteen months ending March 31st, reached the very creditable amount of $1074.78, of which $1070.00 has been forwarded to the General Treasurer. When it is considered that the amount has exceeded the objective which was $1062.50 it is surely praise-worthy. With a leader as thoroughly imbued with the missionary spirit as Mr. Gillis is, it is believed that the congregation will more than maintain its record as a missionary church.

Mr. Alfred MacGougan has returned to Boston after a pleasant visit at his old home in Malpeque. Woodenware should not be placed near the fire to dry, as it will crack.

A New Heavy-Weight Champion?

Charlie Penwill, former member of the famous Coldstream Guards and Imperial Service heavy-weight champion for three years, was among the 2,800 settlers who arrived in Canada recently. The ex-guardian, who would make a good double for Dempsey, so great is the physical likeness, hopes to do some boxing in Canada when he gets in shape again and his idea of training in practical farm work having been raised on a Devonshire farm and done a little agriculture on his own since the war, Mr. Penwill is not a stranger to the industry and looks forward with keen interest to his first job on a prairie farm.

Big Leaguers Have Age Average of 28

NEW YORK, April 13.—Rosters of the sixteen major league baseball clubs, containing more than 350 prospective starters in the 1926 pennant race, reveal the average player as an athlete of 28 years, 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighing 172 pounds.
Definite physical requirements of the game have not eliminated the performer who takes a mark of deviation from these figures, however, for nearly every club has its midget and its giant, its promising youth and its veteran warrior.

The little man of baseball, nevertheless, is a rarity, and the rosters reveal a mere handful of players whose height is less than 5 feet, 6 inches.
The outstanding exception has brought to the Boston Braves its brilliant young second baseman, Walter (Doc) Gautreau, one of the curiosities of the major leagues. Gautreau, who leaped from the keystone sack of a sensational Holy Cross nine to fame with the Boston club, is the smallest man in baseball, a midget of 5 feet, 2 1/2 inches, weighing approximately 132 pounds.

At the other end of the line towering 6 feet, 6 inches from his cleated boots, is Connie Mack's pitching lath, Bryan Harris, revealed in the rosters as the tallest man on the major league diamond.
Bryan, however, has only one inch on Eppa Rixey, of the Red's hurling staff. There are several players of 6 feet 4 inches, including Leo Dickerman, of the Cards; Bill Jacobson, of the Browns and Earl Sheehey of the White Sox.
Seven of the teams have at least one player who tips the beam beyond the 200-pound mark, with Buckeye, the Cleveland hurler at the head of the diamond "whales" with a generous lead at 225 pounds.

Babe Ruth, erstwhile home run king of the Yankees, is not far behind at 215, while "Tiny" Osborne, of the Robins, Rixey, of the Reds, and Oscar Melillo, new outfielding find of the Indians each weighs 210, according to the club rosters.
Although Gautreau holds the midget honors in both weight and height, Rabbit Maraville, who makes his start as a Robin this year, still is one of the smallest players in the game at 147 pounds. The Rabbit's height is given as 5 feet 5 inches, half an inch greater than that of Earl Adams, the Cub infielder. Charlie Dressen, of the Reds, Max Flack, of the Cards, Jack Tavenor, of the Tigers and Roman Herrera of the Red Sox each weighs less than 150.

All but two of the clubs have at least one player over 35 years of age and all have at least one starter under 25. Outstanding veterans are Babe Adams, of the Pirates, 43; Ty Cobb, of the Tigers, Walter Johnson, of the Senators and Grover Alexander, of the Cubs, each 39; Zach Wheat, of the Robins, Fred Williams, of the Phillies, Tris Speaker, of the Indians, Eddie Collins, of the White Sox, and Grover Hartley of the Giants, each 38.
Leading players in the early twenties are Charley Ruffing, Red Sox pitcher, Gautreau, of the Braves, Gordon Cochrane, Athletics' catcher; Wayland Dean, Phillies pitcher; Flint Rhem, Cardinal hurler, and Lou Gehrig, Yankee first sacker.

Tales Big Leaguers Tell When They Become Coaches

NEW ORLEANS, April 16.—In the spring the fancy of fans turns to thoughts of baseball and sometimes older men think of tales of baseball and baseball players.
A former pitcher for the New York Giants has been a successful college coach in the South for several years. A South Carolina institution honored the visiting team, coached by the former Giant, with a dance and much against his will the pitcher, a southpaw by the way, was prevailed on to attend.
"I was dancing with one of the girls," he said, "when some guy steps up and takes her away from me."
"I didn't want to walk over to the bench like I was struck out, so I grab her another one."
"Have you ever been to New York, Coach?" she asks me.
"That was it," he laughs. "I didn't have the heart to tell her I had been all around the world with the Joins."
Another former big leaguer changed coaching jobs and was telling a friend about his new assignment.
"This is the finest place you ever heard of," he said. "Believe me or not you can dress in this gym and go out to practice and when you come back every stitch of your clothes will be right where you left 'em."
A third coach was complaining to a newspaper man that the college players do not think from a baseball standpoint. "Of course," said he, "I don't expect these lads to be as smart as I am, but I leave it to you, they don't have to be as dumb as they are."

Modern Japanese Girl Against Marriage Mode

TOKYO, April 13.—The modern Japanese girl—a canvass at a girls' high school disclosed does not favor the present day system under which most of the marriages are "arranged."
In opposition to the prevailing mode, fifty-three girls in one school said that to marry men of whom they had no previous knowledge was dangerous. Sixteen were opposed because the present custom ignores the sentiments of the ones to be married. Ten objected to the use of a go-between to make arrangements and all agreed that the marriage question should be more seriously considered.
Ranking preferences for husbands were: government officials first and then in order, businessmen, educators, farmers, physicians and army officers.

Jones And Hagen Favored To Win

NEW YORK, April 16.—The dominating positions that Walter Hagen and Bobby Jones occupy in golf stand out in striking relief as the 1926 campaign spreads its frontiers Northward.
Nowhere among the deeds of knights of the niblick here or abroad, has there been a record to surpass the achievements of these two stars over the past four years.
In a sport conspicuous for its inconsistencies, where champions rise to dizzy heights one day and "flop" with a dull thud the next, the reign of Hagen and Jones gained lustre by contrast.
Here and in other countries during the last four seasons, Hagen twice lifted the British open cham-

Largest Field Of Entries Wait Start Of Ohio Relays

COLUMBUS, April 15.—Athletes of the colder track cooped indoors all winter, will stretch themselves under the open sky when the Ohio Relays are held Saturday, at Ohio State University stadium.
The first annual meeting will find greater representation than ever before. Invitations were extended to nearly 400 universities and colleges and to 300 Ohio high schools.
For the first time, the high school events will be open also to teams outside the state. Thirty-eight events comprise the relay program. Twenty-eight of the events are for university, college and normal school athletes, and the remainder for high school performers.

Busy Summer Ahead For Big Time Boxing Bouts

NEW YORK, April 16.—Whether or not heavyweight activity is revived this summer by Jack Dempsey's proposed defense of his title against Gene Tunney, the outdoor boxing campaign centering about the metropolitan area promises to be the most spectacular since 1923. That was the brilliant year culminating in the historic Dempsey-Firpo struggle.
The "ballyhoo" for an affair between Dempsey and Tunney has been on for some time with its consequent side-tracking of the challenge of the erstwhile Harry Wills. The bona fide observers believe, will take place in August "somewhere in the metropolitan district."

The prospect of exciting activity is held forth in nearly every other fistic class with the light heavyweights, the 175-pounders, particularly in the Imelight. Paul Berlenbach, the present king of this division, has the formidable Jack Delaney as his outstanding rival and their third encounter is expected to "pack 'em in." Delaney has disposed of one persistent challenger by knocking out Mike McTigue but Young Stribling, the Georgia "strong boy," also is on Berlenbach's list.
Tiger Flowers, dusky holder of the middleweight crown, has promised a return match to the former champion, Harry Greb, who is confident he can regain the title. Delaney already has knocked out Flowers twice and if he cared to make the 160-pound limit again would be favored to dethrone the Georgia negro. Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo intends to fight in middle weight ranks henceforth, following disaster against heavier men, and may yet stage a comeback.
Mickey Walker, the welterweight champion, already is carded to defend his title against Pete Latzo at Scranton, Pa., May 17th. In addition to which, the rugged Jerseyman has prospective opponents in Joe Dundee of Baltimore, Willie Harmon of New York and Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh.
Rocky Kansas, Buffalo veteran, is likely to stake his lightweight title against either Sid Terris of Rockford, Ill., in a championship match here during the outdoor season, or Tod Morgan of Seattle, the junior or 130-pound champion, is matched to fight Joe Glick for the title and many experts expect the crown to change hands when they clash.
Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, ban-tam title-holder, has a corps of challengers on his trail, led by Eugene Graham of Utica, N. Y., while Fidel LaBarba (the young Los Angeles holder of the flyweight championship, is expected to engage in an active campaign.
Bidding will be keen for most of these prospective title fights in the metropolitan area with promoters of eight arenas, including the new Square Garden and the three major league ball parks, in the market.

Caves In Black Forest Give Up Many Relics

FREIBURG, Baden, April 13.—Relics of the glacial period estimated to be from 25,000 to 30,000 years old, have been discovered recently, in several caves of the Black Forest.
The historical treasures comprise the ossified parts of skeletons of the fauna of the glacial period, such as the cave lion, glacial fox, horse of the steppes, and reindeer, as well as numerous hand implements made of flint.

stroke on a third occasion and cap-tionship, missed it once by a tured the Professional Golfer's Association title for the past two years.
In the same span, Jones, confirming his activities chiefly to his homeland, has won the open championship once, finished second in his three other tries for it and gained the national amateur crown twice in succession.
Others have reaped laurels in this time, Sarazen in 1922, Walker in 1924 and Willie McFarlane last season carried off the open championship. Sarazen also held 1923, but none of these stars has the P. G. A. honors in 1922 and quite approached the all around, consistent brilliance of Hagen and Jones.

In the last six years of play in the American open championship, Jones has averaged 296 1/3 strokes for each 72-hole test, three strokes better than Hagen's average of 299 1/2. These marks top the performance of all rivals.
In the approaching renewals of championship events, no competitors will be more feared than these two. Hagen's recently a 72-hole test in Florida at match sensational victory over Jones in play, followed by a medal play victory over Jones in the West Coast open, have boosted Sir Walter's stock but the Georgian is likely to suffer no more than temporary loss of prestige on this account.
Such as Mac Smith, "Wild Bill" Meikhorn, Harry Cooper, George Von Elm, MacFarlane, Sarazen, Bobby Cruikshank, Johnny Farrell and Archie Compston, the British star will have their backers in forthcoming American title tournaments. The shortest odds, however, are likely to be on Jones and Hagen.

Mackerel Season Opened With Large Catches

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 13.—The seiner Killarney, with fifteen thousand mackerel in her hold and one of the forty seven New England fleet which passed this city last Thursday in the annual race to open the mackerel season, sailed into Cold Springs Inlet, Cape May County yesterday. She was followed into port by the Scher Helena, with eight thousand mackerel in her hold. The Killarney and Helena were followed into Cold Springs Inlet by others of the fishing fleet.

Trevor Sees Better Films So He Deserts Stage Roles

NEW YORK, April 13.—Norman Trevor, who has been before the footlights in England and this country many years, has left the stage "for good" and in the future will devote all his time to the movies.
Here are his reasons:
"I believe the movies are doing infinitely better work than is to be found in the legitimate theater. You can go to six motion picture houses in New York and the chances are you will see four good film plays. Go to as many legitimate theaters and you will be doing well if you see one or two good plays."
"In a way, this illustrates how far the movies are ahead of the stage now. The stage is drifting backward. Seldom do we find any good drama. On the other hand, I think the big film productions of the past few years hold definite promise that even better things will be accomplished."

Trevor did not start out to be an actor. He just drifted into the stage and when almost immediate success greeted him kept at it. The same is true of entrance into the movies. Paramount offered him a contract for five years he took it.
