B. F. KEITH'S, UNION SQUARE THEATRE, NEW YORK, WEEK OF DECEMBER 16.

No theatre in New York City can boast of a bigger or brighter show than the one arranged for the week of December 16th at B. F. Keith's Union Square Theatre, which contains many headliners, stars who have headed their own companies, several favorites and, as usual, several novel features, new to vaudeville.

The shining light of this monster program will be the first appearance here of Madame Olga Petrova, the artist who became famous overnight and whose meteoric rise was one of the sensations of New York not long ago. This versatile and beautiful woman, with her striking gowns, compelling personality and charm, portrays in the few minutes she occupies the stage, a gamut of emotions ranging from farce to comedy, comedy to tragedy, and also gives some clever imitations that alone would challenge attention.

The famous American humorist James Thornton, after two years absence from New York, spent largely in the West, will regale with new anecdotes of his own making. Mr. Thornton may be remembered as the composer of "When You Were Sweet Sixteen," "My Sweetheart's the Man in the Moon" and numerous other ballads.

THE CURE OF WORRY

How may worry be cured? First by realizing the utter, absolute uselessness of worry. If you were to spend a dozen eternities in worry, you could not change a single fact. The only way that you can change a circumstance is by hard work, and you cannot work hard with a clear head and a steady hand if you worry. You may cure worry by taking a larger view of life. We are so taken up with our own little affairs that we sometimes forget that there is a big world beyond us. And when things go wrong, without looking out upon it, we imagine that the world is just a great black, sunless, heartless sphere.

It is a great thing sometimes to forget yourself and to try to remember that your work and your life are just a part of God's great plan for the betterment of the world; but do not forget that they are a part, and then tackle the job bravely, doing your best. That is all God asks of any man. No one can do more. King Solomon had riches, culture, and power. These are most sought after to-day. Each one is legitimate if properly used; but after having experienced them all this wise man said, "Vanity of vanities. All is vanity." Note Jesus' comment upon Solomon's glory: "Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin; and yet I say unto you that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these. Here is the idea: It is not one's outward circumstances nor one's accomplishments that drive away worry; it is what one is.

This week Mr. Thornton will tell only new stories—stories funnier and with greater humorous pith than ever before. This gifted genius will certainly receive a warm reception.

Europe has sent many sensational acts, but none more so than the famous equestrian feature, Ella Bradna and Fred Derrick, who are known abroad as the absolute rulers of the reins in the realm of the circus ring. Madame Bradna will use four horses and will give a most thrilling double riding specialty which is the greatest and most graceful exhibition ever presented.

The balance of the bill will contain many surprises including Leona Thurber and Harry Madison in their amusing skit, called, on a Shopping Tour. Three wonderful singers will be presented by Mr. Hart, who will sing some of the sweetest songs ever written. A delightful rural comedy will be offered by Mr. and Mrs. Perkins Fisher called The Half-Way House. Another laughable farce, A Horse on Hogan, will be given by Walter Le Roy and his company. The Dolce Sisters are a trio of charming young ladies, who will present a musical surprise, while the comedy acrobatic feature of the program will be Leonard and Louie, who will give a wonderful gymnastic performance and at the same time keep everybody amused.

SWALE HAY UNFIT FOR HORSES

ary science at the University of Wisconsin, gives the following warning with respect of the feeding of swale or marsh hay:

Beware of swale hay for horse feeding, if it is seen to contain horsetail (Equisetum palustre). At best much swale or marsh hay is unfit for horse feeding, and should be used for the packing of iron castings or crockery. Horses have small stomachs and need nutritious food in small quantities often. Swale hay is bulky, woody, indigestible and lacking in nutriment. When infested with horsetail it is positively poisonous. Recently in a country of Wisconsin where much swale hay had been fed this season many horses have died. They became partially crazy, seemed to be drunk, went down paralyzed before death. We found that horsetail was the cause and the trouble has ceased since this poisonous weed had been removed from the hay or other hayfed. In other cases of trouble, from feeding swale hay that had not had time to sweat or ripen in the mow or stack, animals also became partially crazy, but they did not die. The irritant in the hay was successfully antidoted by giving a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda twice daily in the food or drinking water. Thus far, however, no antidote has been found for horsetail poisoning.

JESSE L. LASKY'S "IN THE BARRACKS" AT B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE, BOSTON.

Something decidedly new and novel in the way of vaudeville productions is announced for B. F. Keith's Theatre next week in Jesse L. Lasky's new opera, "In The Barracks." This production is a one-act military comic opera from the German, translated and Americanized by Cecil DeMillo, and Grant Stewart, with musical score by Robert Hood Bowers.

With its scene laid in the barracks of the Royal Prussian Hussars in an old castle near Berlin, the story affords exceptional opportunity for elaborate scenic and costume effects. The company is a large one, and is headed by Myles McCarthy, Nellie Brewster, and Frank Rushworth, with a chorus of twenty hussars and Viennese ladies. The martial music, the brilliant military uniforms, pretty girls, bright dialogue, lilting airs, and clever lyrics all go to make "In The Barracks" one of the best productions Mr. Lasky has ever turned out. The musical score is exceptionally tuneful, among the song hits being, "The Call to Arms," "The Emperor's Own Hussars," "I Love You Best of All," and "Farewell To The Flag." Edwin Ford and his big dancing carnival will be still another spectacular feature of the week. Assisted by a large troupe of dancers, Mr. Ford will present a dance review in four scenes, introducing all the various kinds of dancing, including a Scotch dance, a Quaker dance, a Wild West dance, and several eccentric solo numbers. Other big features of the bill will be Mack and Orch in their musical oddity, The Wrong Hero; Belle Story, the singing comedienne; Dolan and Lenharr in Almost a Mind Reader; Kitty Trahey and her trained horses and dogs; and Conrad and Wildden, two newcomers from the West.

OLD NEWSPAPERS.

What becomes of old newspapers? Many of them go back to the paper mills to be pulped again for new paper. But vast quantities go, oddly enough, to China.

It would be difficult to guess the purpose to which they are there put. A great number there used by the natives to paper their roofs. The newspaper is of stouter texture than ordinary Chinese paper, and perhaps is cheaper. But that is not the only use which the papers have to serve, for the Chinese cut out paper waistcoats from them to wear next their skins. Paper is an excellent substance for preventing the warmth of the body, and the poor Chinese, who cannot afford more costly garments, are glad to use up their newspapers in this way.

GRAPHIC SCENES.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The Telegraph's Tchatalja's correspondent gives a graphic account of the meeting of the plenipotentiaries of Turkey and allies to sign the armistice. When the strain was over and all were agreed emotion seized them and they embraced and kissed each other. Masim Pascha, pale but full of dignity, with a glass of champagne in his hand turned to the Bulgarian officers and said: "Gentlemen, I drink to the health of the valiant Bulgarian Army. His hand trembled as he raised the glass. The health of the valiant Ottoman Army, said the Bulgarian officers as they raised the glasses to their lips.

Pains in the Stomach That Yield to Nothing Else, Pass Away Quickly If Nerviline is Used.

READ MR. BRAUN'S STATEMENT.

"A few weeks ago I ate some green vegetables and some fruit that was not quite ripe. It first brought on a fit of indigestion, but unfortunately it developed into hiccoughs, accompanied by nausea and cramps. I was dreadfully ill for two days—my head ached and throbed; I belched gas continually, and I was unable to sleep at night. A neighbor happened in to see me and urged me to try Nerviline. Well, I wouldn't have believed that any preparation could help so quickly. It took half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in hot sweetened water, and my stomach felt better at once. I used Nerviline several times, and was completely restored."

The above is from a letter written by G. E. Braun, a well known stockman and farmer near Lettbridge, Alta., Mr. Braun's favorable opinion of the high merit of Nerviline is shared by thousands of Canadians, who have proved Nerviline is simply a marvel for cramps, diarrhoea, flatulence, nausea, and stomach disorders. Safe to use, guaranteed to cure—you can make no mistake in getting Nerviline for your family remedy. Large family size bottles 50c., trial size 25c. All dealers, or the Cattaraugus Co., Buffalo, N.
