43 New Cases Of Polio Are Reported

By The Canadian Press

Four deaths from infantile paralysis were reported Monday, Oct. 15, at Montreal, 19 in Prince Edward Island and 20 in Toronto, bringing the total fatalities in the summer outbreak across Canada to 66. Quebec province 29 new cases were reported, including 15 of Montreal origin, and there were 13 new cases in Ontario. Another nine cases were reported at Edmonton. Altogether about 860 cases have been reported across the Dominion, including those dead.

Catholic and Protestant school authorities respectively are conferring on the advisability of postponing the re-opening of schools in Quebec.

Cases under treatment are as follows with deaths shown in brackets:

Nova Scotia, six (one); New Brunswick, 14 (1); Prince Edward Island, 18 (four); Quebec, 27 (22); Ontario, 107 (eight); Manitoba, 15; Saskatchewan, two; Alberta, 22 (four); British Columbia, none.

All cases have been reported cured in Nova Scotia.

Preliminary to release of the official document, it was understood from diplomatic authorities that the note includes four principal points:

1. The United States cannot agree to Russia's proposal for a joint Soviet-Turkish defence of the Straits. This proposition is considered here as tantamount to a Soviet demand for military bases in the straits.

2. The United States cannot agree to Russia's proposal that control of the straits should be worked out by agreement only among the Black Sea powers.

3. On the contrary, the United States feels that the issues involved in future control and use of the Dardanelles should be settled in accordance with United Nations principles, that is, by broad international agreement along the lines of the present Dardanelles Commission.

4. The United States would be happy to attend any international conference which might be called to consider revising control of the straits, presumably in accord with provisions of the Montreux treaty.

British Cabinet Prepares To Tackle Palestine Problem

(By Tom Williams)

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP) - Britain prepared today to tackle the Palestine problem in a cabinet-level discussion, a senior official source said, the government probably would agree to a Jewish League proposal for a Jewish state in the Holy Land.

The source said the cabinet resigned to resolving the Palestine issue without delay. He said the cabinet would meet Wednesday to discuss the thorny question. President Truman said the United States will not participate immediately in the Holy Land federalization program.

As Prime Minister Attlee prepared to meet with his ministers, the Palestine problem emerged from the Jewish League proposal. The Jewish League in Tel Aviv declared Sunday's mass meeting and a Jewish League spokesman said the turning point in Jewish thinking—victory for moderation over extremism—was the fact that Jews were looking more and more to their political and diplomatic "saber-rattling" terrorist chiefs.

Roosevelt And Churchill Disagreed

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP) - Elliott Roosevelt says in his forthcoming book on his father, "As I Remember Him," that Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill disagreed on the subject of commonwealth trade agreements in the course of their Atlantic Charter conference in August, 1941.

In an foreword to the book, the younger Roosevelt says also that the path to world peace which the late President charted "was grievously and deliberately forsaken."

"I am sure that we are being shoved away from wartime England by men who should know better," he writes in the first of four chapters, to be published tomorrow by Look magazine. The complete book will be published in October by Duell, Sloan and Pearce.

Elliott Roosevelt identifies the "saboteurs of unity" generally; the men who do not recognize the United States, Britain and Russia "must work together in a common front against the aggressor men in the State Department," he says.

Mr. Roosevelt, "first and sharply, over my own head," he says, "is quoted as saying, 'England does not propose for a moment to lose its favored position among the Dominions.'"

Later Elliott says the late President referred to Mr. Churchill as "a real old Tory" and added: "His one big job is to see that Britain survives this war. His mind is perfect for that of a war leader. But will Winston Churchill lead England into the war? It would never work."

Prime Minister Lays Cornerstone For Dieppe Raid Monument

By ROSS MUNRO

Canadian Press Staff Writer

DIEPPE, France, Aug. 19 (CP Cable) - With 3,000 French men gathered on the beaches and cliffs where hundreds of Canadian soldiers were cut down by German guns four years ago today, Prime Minister Mackenzie King this afternoon laid the cornerstone for a large monument to the Dominion troops who made the historic Dieppe raid.

Mr. King was the chief speaker at the fourth anniversary of the raid by the 2nd Canadian Division Aug. 19, 1942, which cost 3,500 Canadian soldiers their lives, of 5,000 but which also provided valuable information on the technique of amphibious landings.

The Prime Minister's speech heard him refer to the raid as "a beacon light 'prophetic of victory' which only time could reveal the true significance."

Mr. King, who journeyed from the Paris peace conference for the occasion, said he hoped the foundation stone for the Canadian monument would be a symbol of the country and year in which the warring nations of our time had stood from diplomatic authority to spirit exemplified here of this service where we have people of different faiths commemorating together the memory of a common duty. It is to cultivate a spirit of amity and friendship as rapidly as possible.

After visiting a Canadian exhibition in Dieppe, Mr. King returned to Paris. He will fly to Berlin tomorrow and will visit the war graves there in Nuremberg later in the month.

After breakfast this morning, Mr. King was received by Mayor Pierre Bouchard at the city hall prior to his visit to the Canadian cemetery on the hill behind the town where soldiers of the Canadian division were killed.

Later guests were late on the Canadian war memorial and Mr. King and Maj.-Gen. Georges P. Vanier, Canadian expeditionary force, were made honorary citizens of Dieppe.

Mr. King said at the cemetery that there has been "far too much discussion at the peace conference" and that he had not enough of the spirit exemplified here of this service where we have people of different faiths commemorating together the memory of a common duty. It is to cultivate a spirit of amity and friendship as rapidly as possible.

CALGARY, Aug. 19 (CP) - The slide occurred late today in clearing the rock slide from the main C.P.R. track through the city, officials here expressed the hope that regular train service through the city would be resumed tomorrow.

The slide occurred late Friday afternoon when an avalanche of rock, mud and water cascaded down the mountain and covered the three levels of track at the spiral tunnel as well as a section of the trans-Canada highway.

The highway was cleared by noon yesterday for one-way traffic and a shuttle service of trains operating as far as the slide on the west and east side was arranged as Lake Louise and transported by bus to the other side of the slide where they boarded the train for field for the remainder of the weekend.

Passengers travelled for east-bound passengers.

Gallup Poll of Norway

NORWEGIANS GIVE RUSSIANS CREDIT FOR HITLER DEFEAT

From Norwegian Gallup Poll

TORONTO, Aug. 20 - Norwegians believe that Russia did more than any other country to prevent a German victory.

While it might be argued that the question as to which country did most to win the war was academic to the point of futility, the fact remains that public attitudes in various countries on this question have an important bearing on international politics.

The attitude of Norwegians was measured by the Norsk Gallup Institute, an affiliate of the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion, and polls in eight other countries, with the question: "IN YOUR OPINION, WHICH COUNTRY DID THE MOST TO PREVENT GERMANY'S VICTORY?"

The vote:

Russia 86%

Revert To Ancient Methods To Save British Harvests

By JAMES MCCOOK

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 19 (CP Cable) - British farmers, with four times as many tractors as in 1930 and with thousands of combines, have been forced to use scythes in harvesting heavy 1946 crops of wheat, barley and oats battered to the ground by storms in many districts.

Agriculture department spokesmen said today it appears that not so much destroyed vital crops as caused a delay of some weeks in harvesting, a most aggravating the serious labor problem.

Southern England, where most crops are ready for harvest, suffered heavily in the last week's storms. In Eastern districts prayers were said yesterday for fine weather. Farmers' tenants there weathered the wilder of any summer in 50 years. Sometimes the fields were so bogged that even men with scythes could do no work.

In Scotland bumper crops, some showing signs of rot, were cultivated after 70 years of idleness, were beaten down but may recover as the grain were not so far developed in England.

The delayed harvest may upset some food ministry calculations on wheat supplies to meet the British ration but authorities said no anxiety is felt because of good reports of the harvest in Canada and the United States.

United States Opposed To Soviet Demands

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP) - The United States informed today a Soviet official that it is opposed to Soviet demands for a share in military control of the Dardanelles.

Diplomatic authorities who disclosed this said a note setting forth this government's attitude toward the United States in Ankara, the Mediterranean and the Black Sea was handed to Fedor Gorkhov at the State Department yesterday.

Orskov is charge d'affaires at the Soviet Embassy.

At the same time, it was learned that the American Embassy in Ankara is informing the Turkish Government of this country's position in effect that the United States is strongly supporting Turkey's indicated intention to reject the Russian demands.

Britain, traditionally interested in control of the straits because of its importance to her Mediterranean interests and her friendship with Turkey, is reported to be taking the same attitude.

The American note is slated to be made public shortly.

May Leave Conference In Near Future

LONDON, Aug. 19 (CP Cable) - An indication that Prime Minister Mackenzie King may leave the Paris peace conference shortly was seen today in the Prime Minister's message to Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery on the latter's departure to visit Canada.

The plan for the new fleet arm, which would be capable of operating in the North Atlantic and United States navies.
