International Good Roads Movement

"Highways have become an urgent problem everywhere with the advent of the automobile and its transition from a luxury to an economic necessity" says the Commerce Monthly published by the National Bank of Commerce in New York. In the March issue the bank says:

"Trunk highway development was practically neglected during the last half of the nineteenth century when railroads were thought to have supplanted roads permanently."

"Existing roads, except those built primarily for automobiles, were intended for horse-drawn vehicles and have deteriorated rapidly under the speed and weight of the automobile. In those countries possessing good systems, the problem has been to reserve the present highways and make them equal to the demands of modern traffic. Never and less developed regions, such as Australia and South America, must answer the demand for improved highway transportation by building new roads."

"France, well known for its fine roads, and a pioneer in their construction, drainage and maintenance, has excellent national highways and the road problem there is largely a matter of dealing upon the most suitable surface. English roads in general compare favourably with the French. Striking unanimity prevails in reports from all parts of the world of increased registration of motor vehicles, and interest in, and plans for, road building. In Scandinavia roads are now deemed so essential to the country's development that it is realized that future appropriations must be greatly increased to keep up with the growing volume of motor traffic. Poland has recently adopted an ambitious road program and Finland expects soon to have 30,000 miles of improved highways."

"Development of good roads in Egypt is making rapid progress. Further south in Africa, in Nigeria, in Southern Rhodesia and in the Union of South Africa there is public interest in the road problem. Despite political upheavals China is showing a genuine enthusiasm for road building and a growing realization of the necessity of highway development. Australia is planning to spend over $16,000,000 on highway development this year and will devote $100,000,000 to be expended on roads in the next ten years. New Zealand's highway development is going ahead rapidly."

"However, it is in Latin America that the most striking movement is taking place. Transportation means of any kind are inadequate in Latin America. Railroads have been built at heavy cost of money and energy but expansion of the highway system will probably come more rapidly because the public is at once converted to the use of motor service. Several Latin American republics have ambitious programs many of them being already under way. Increasing ownership of automobiles, bringing the inevitable demand for good roads, has generally been responsible for the good roads movement in South American countries."

"Highway expansion stands as the most significant transportation development since the advent of the railroads. Increasing motor vehicle registration is the best indication of the wide sweep of this movement as a good road program usually accompanies extended use of the automobile, although in turn, increased traffic follows improved highways. Among the incalculable economic benefits of good roads to a community are cheaper transportation costs, better standards of living, the opening up of potentially rich and unexploited districts formerly inaccessible, improvement of regions already served and a general increase of commercial activity."

Residential Building accounts for 33.1 per cent of the February total amounting to $4,170,200. Business Building amounted to $2,751,000 or 22.1 per cent; Industrial Building $3,790,000 or 30.2 per cent and Public Works and Utilities $2,496,400 or 19.8 per cent.

In Memoriam

HUGH MCEACHERN

At 29 Marion Ave., Campello, Mass., Hugh McEachern. The deceased was a son of the late Donald McEachern, Elder of the Church of Scotland of Rice Point, Lot 65, Prince Edward Island, where he was born on the 4th day of February 1852. He went to Campello, Mass. in 1884 where he has lived until the time of his death. He leaves two brothers of the old homestead, Neil and James at Rice Point; a brother Donald in Jersey City, a brother John in Providence, R. I., a sister Mrs. Mary MacQuarrie, 85 Gerald St., Charlottetown, P. E. I. A wife, son and three daughters in Campello, Mass. He took sick last September and died on the 14th of February and was buried on 16th of February. He was a man of sterling character, highly respected in the place where he lived. The floral tribute sent to his funeral by his many friends and the church testified to the respect that he was held in the place of his adoption. The clergyman who officiated at the service spoke highly of him as a man to be admired and respected, and that the place where he lived lost a noble man and upright citizen.

The writer visited him a few weeks before he died, and it was with great joy and pleasure to hear him talk on the faith that he had in his Lord and Saviour, knowing when his time ended here below he knew that God would receive him into His glorious habitation. The place where the inhabitants thereof shall say we are never sick."

It was a great blessing to anyone to be born in a christian country and especially in a christian home of godly parents. He knew that the prayers of a godly and christian father offered up in his behalf and others had followed him as a beacon light all the days of his life to warn him from the pitfalls of sin and Satan where poor sinful men are often tempted to wander.

"And they shall be mine saith the Lord of hosts in that day when I make up my jewels, and I will spare them as a man spareth his own son that serveth him. They shall we return and discern between the righteous and the wicked, between him that serveth God and him that serveth him not. Malachi 3:16,17,18.

Earlier predictions that 1926 promised to be a good building year have so far been well substantiated. The increase in dollar value of contracts awarded this year over last is not likely to continue in the same proportion as it has during the first two months, but this increase may be taken as an indicator of the general trend of construction for this year.

Contemplated work continues to appear in good volume. The total value of construction reported as contemplated during February was $23,222,100. This makes the total of $72,346,200, for the first two months of this year.
