

Better, Healthier Women

are known to exist in this country by thousands because freed from pain and suffering by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Could such a record be made without actual and superior merit? Read what this woman says, and realize that the results secured in her case could not have been made except by a very good medicine.

Winnipeg, Man.—"Eleven years ago I went to the Victoria Hospital, Montreal, suffering with a growth in the uterus. The doctors said it was a tumor, and could not be removed, as it would cause instant death. They found that other organs were affected and said I could not live more than six months in the condition I was in. After I came home I saw your advertisement in the paper and commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it constantly for two years, and still take it at times, and both my husband and myself claim that it was the means of saving my life. I highly recommend it to suffering women."—Mrs. Orilla Bradley, 284 Johnson Ave., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Science in surgery and electricity has advanced much in the past 30 years, but the treatment of disease by the old fashioned roots and herbs method has never been improved upon. The fact that this leader of them all—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—is to-day the largest seller of any similar medicine in the world, is proof positive of its value and superiority, for with all our enterprise and advertising we could not keep fooling the people for 30 years. Merit and merit alone is what has made Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the standard medicine for treating diseases peculiar to women.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

THE GUARDIAN'S WEEK END SERMON

Much interest is manifested in Dr. S. Parkes Cadman's recent sermon preached in Brooklyn, N. Y. Dr. Cadman talked on "God in the Home."

In the course of his remarks he said: "A man's true home, his real residence, the unchanging place where he is always to be found, is his own personality, everything else changes; circumstances, conditions, environment, but a man's personality is the one abiding fact amid universal change; it is the one great home of the soul, and whatever comes in time or eternity, that remains, you and I are self-perpetuating beings by the will of God and our own personality. Personality is the one rock in the morass of fluctuation; to it all other things give in their allegiance and render it their support. What is the practical relation of this truth to life? Jesus said: 'As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he.' But He also said that God was a God of love and the Father of man, which is the other side of this great truth, the supremacy of personality. Whatever you think about life! I say hang your social theories to the nearest tree when their theories defile motherhood and destroy the purity of the home and rob us of their essential contribution to the stability and purity of life itself. We have erred in this respect more, perhaps, than any other nation laying claim to as high a type of civilization. I urge you men, therefore, not only to give Christ his rightful place in your individual lives, but also to give Him in the social life of the home. I have known men who were held in honor at their clubs who were hogs at their hearthstones and others who were grand at the Masonic fraternity who never gave anything to their homes but a groan. I belong to the club, and the Masonic order, and I esteem them highly, but they do not make men lovers of the home. If any of you are such men, just go home and kiss the woman you call your wife; don't say you are going to do it, but just do it—and then keep up the dose for three weeks and note the result!"

The taking of Christ into your hearts will mean the taking of Christ into your homes. That's the hook to my address; I would not give a fig for a sermon that did not have a hook to it, and bait on the hook, and it is a good thing to occasionally put up the hook and see if the bait has been taken. Sometimes it is taken when we do not know it. I was preaching one summer at Summer Grove before ten thousand people. I was not fit, and I felt that I had failed, and I said so to my wife afterwards. But the hook had been taken, and the bait had been taken, though I did not know it till a year later, when a little woman in a Paisley shawl awaited me after the service and told me that her man John, who had taken the hook, or the bait, had taken her, and she had gone home and kissed her, and had begun to show an interest in her life and care to such an extent that she said to her daughter, "I'm afraid that John is going to die!" But John didn't die, though he hadn't done his duty in the home for forty years till then. Then, lastly, the influence of a because it is already filled; there is no room for Him; it is filled with other guests, with worldliness, with sin. You will not invite the Heavenly Guest into that dirty room; you, conscience tells you that you should first turn out the moral filth and the enemies that crowd the guest chamber, and I am glad that it is so! You say that you cannot admit Him till you truly believe; but I tell you that it is not your doubt that keeps Christ out; no man ever truly believed but that he had some doubt which it is the office and within the power of the once-admitted Saviour to remove.

Again, Christ should be admitted to your social life, it is true that the American home was re-established, and that it was made more free from the taint of divorce. The home where the children ask where their father or their mother is is no true home. The time has come, too, when the ravisher laws should be made against the ravisher of women, the man who would take her honor but not her life! I say hang your social theories to the nearest tree when their theories defile motherhood and destroy the purity of the home and rob us of their essential contribution to the stability and purity of life itself. We have erred in this respect more, perhaps, than any other nation laying claim to as high a type of civilization. I urge you men, therefore, not only to give Christ his rightful place in your individual lives, but also to give Him in the social life of the home. I have known men who were held in honor at their clubs who were hogs at their hearthstones and others who were grand at the Masonic fraternity who never gave anything to their homes but a groan. I belong to the club, and the Masonic order, and I esteem them highly, but they do not make men lovers of the home. If any of you are such men, just go home and kiss the woman you call your wife; don't say you are going to do it, but just do it—and then keep up the dose for three weeks and note the result!"

There is another great law of personality, the law of growth, the law of progress and development. Just as the Hudson River pushes its way to the Atlantic Ocean, so you and I push our way up and out into the personality of the Supreme Being, the supreme personality; but if we allow the world to become choked up with the worldliness and sin, then hear we the moanings of God's justice awaiting us at the "bar." The fact of personality in the life to come needs no argument by me; the lives of men are full of its forebodings and its power. When I was a young man it was one of my delights to go to the House of Commons and listen to Gladstone. When his Greek-line head appeared in that great assembly I said to myself: "There is the head I will first recognize in the day of judgment," the whole atmosphere of the House seemed surcharged with him as by a galvanic battery. When he sat listening to one of his opponents—who referred to him as "The Grand Old Maniac," instead of "The Grand Old Man," as the world was accustomed to think of him—he was with one of those wonderful eyes of his, translating one of the Greek poets, the other and both ears attentive to the speaker whose opposition he was presenting to demolish. He was then 75 years of age, and it was my privilege to hear him speak in the Turkish atrocities in Armenia in terms that thrilled and convinced mankind; and I said, "If he can do that at his age, what great things will he not do beyond the River of Death!"

This great man lived and toiled with the immanence of God in his very soul; his personality was shot through and through with the conceptions of right and justice, which have their origin in the personality of God. That God is, the whole visible creation in solemn psalmody doth declare. But it is more important to know what God is than simply to know that He is, and this knowledge comes to us alone through Jesus Christ, a fact, which I challenge any man, to dispute. Night unto night I sterteth wisdom, but we can know nothing of the Divine Personality apart from the revelation of Jesus Christ. It is for this reason that I plead with you for the presence of Jesus Christ in your personality, in your heart. He says, "Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any man will open the door, I will come in unto him." When He comes in He brings the feast with Him, for He is charged with the great commission to tell the world that God is the everlasting lover of your soul.

Between the personality of God and the personality of man we must put the mediocrity of Jesus Christ. Indeed, I question if God could reveal Himself to you and you still live; that old sage was right when he said that no man could look upon the face of God and live; Jesus declared that "no man hath seen the Father at any time." But the personality of God is in Christ, and through His human nature it comes to us as well. We may well sing, "Thou, O Christ, art all I want; and in all in Thee find." For He is the God-Man and the Elder Brother of the race. I tell you that the evangelized position in Christianity is not one that is but feebly sustained; it is backed by the personality of God in Jesus Christ. I plead with you to give Christ a larger place in your life; He is the God in the home, and real home of every man's life, his personality and his consciousness. He pleads to be admitted to your heart, because He knows it is the center of your life. It remains for you to open the door. Why do you not do it? It is not because your heart's door is, as it is represented in Holman Hut's famous picture, entranced about with vines, but
