London Acclaimed Bride's Costumer
LONDON, Oct. 23.—(C.P.)—While London dressmakers are greatly excited over the news that Lady Alice Scott has chosen the young English designer, Norman Hartnell (who is a graduate of Cambridge, by the way) to dress her wedding, the rumor goes round that not until a bridesmaid arrived in his salon to be measured did Mr. Hartnell know of his distinction. London is delighted with the news. It is the first real acknowledgment of England's new place in the fashion world, a place that has so frightened Paris that several of the big French dressmakers (who until a year or two ago sat regally in their Paris stronghold and patronizingly sold their creations to English copyists) opened houses in London and are trying to disguise their foreign origin by covering their floors with Bradford woolens and Scottish tweeds.

POLICE COURT.—At the Police Court Wednesday Magistrate Martin sentenced Andrew McLeod and Patrick Lougheed to jail for a charge of escaping from Queens County jail, to two years in Dorchester Penitentiary. A common assault case was heard and adjourned until Monday. A vagrancy case was also adjourned until Monday. Three drunks appeared. One was sentenced to fifteen and another to ten days in jail while the third was remanded until the 25th.

AT MOUNT ALLISON.—A concert group directed by Prof. J. N. Brunton, Dean of Mount Allison Conservatory, visited Saint Stephen and presented a delightful performance. Included in the personnel were—Vocalists, The Misses Margaret Coffin, Montague, P. E. I. Pauline Winters, Lunenburg, N. S. and Frances Elliott, Halifax, N. S., Pianists, Miss Bessie Bell, Amherst, N. S. and Ira Spencer, New York; Violinist, Miss Gertrude Hicks, Sackville, N. B.; Reader, Miss Marion Purdy, Amherst, N. S. Miss Ruth Miller, Director of the Art Guild, returned from Halifax where she superintended the Mount Allison Art Exhibit. She was assisted by the Executive of the Mount Allison Society of which Miss Elizabeth Brown is President and Mr. J. P. Scott, Dartmouth is Secretary. The Theological Society of Mount Allison opened its program for the year with a Communion Service Sunday, October 27. Dr. F. W. DesBarres, Secretary, President, conducted the service. Lewis Murray of York, P. E. I. is President of the Society. Donald Boothroyd of Hunter River, P. E. I., a new student presided at the organ. A Tuck Shop has been added to the Academy, accompanied by Wallace Mathew of Montreal and Walter Cox of Charlottetown in charge.

THE LANGHAM, LONDON'S OLD ART CLUB, NOW LOOKING FOR NEW HOME
Many happy memories are revived by the news that The Langham, the oldest and most celebrated of London sketching clubs, will soon be forced to leave the rooms which it has occupied in All Souls' place, Portico place, for seventy-five years, writes the art critic of the Morning Post. The members were the tenants of the late Sir David Murray, R. A., who held the lease of the premises at 1, Langham Chambers, which are about to be demolished. This is the reason for the Club's removal.

The Langham was founded in 1838, but the parent institution, "The Artists' Society for the Study of Historical Poetical and Rustic Figure," was formed in 1830 by a now forgotten R. A. Art at that period had generally become conventionalized, in spite of the influence of Turner, Constable and Wilkie, and the Society's purpose was to vitalize figure painting by serious study of the living model. This endeavor, and the efforts of the Sketching Club, played an important part in helping to create the great school of draughtsmanship of the 1860's. It is supposed that young enthusiasts who established the society first met so where in Gray's Inn lane (now Gray's Inn road), but it is actually known that they worked in the evenings by candlelight in an old coach house in Clipstone street, Marylebone.

The more brilliant of the band in those early days included Fred Walker (the original of "Little Billie" of Du Maurier's "Tribby"), Pinwell, Sir John Tenniel, and Charles Keene, whose wonderful drawings won the admiration of the great art-workers although the noise of his "squeaky pen" frequently irritated them. The constitution of the society has not changed. The members still meet weekly on certain nights to work from the model, and the Fridays are reserved for the meet of the Sketching Club who are given a subject which they have to realize in two hours in any medium they may choose. The memory sketches thus produced are then exhibited and freely criticized, after which a humble supper and cheery gossip are enjoyed.

The great attractions of the Langham from the public point of view are the biannual conversations. On those occasions the entertainment is wholly delightful. Guests are received at the door by a male model dressed usually in a Georgian costume and they and

Scout News and Notices
BORDEN SCOUT NEWS
Scout Master A. P. Ceretti recently held a colorful ceremony in the Abergweil Dance Hall, in which seven Tenderfoot and fourteen Cub Scouts were invested in the First Borden Boy Scout Troop. Scout Master Ceretti was assisted by Cub Master Mrs. R. Rogers, assistant Cub Masters Mrs. J. Campbell and Mrs. A. G. Jay, and Assistant Scout Master Ralph Tombs. The ceremony was conducted in a very solemn manner, and the candidates were very well prepared for enrollment.

Following are the Scouts invested: Tenderfoot Scouts: John Dalziel; Ralph Dorsey; Emery Richard; Norman Jay; Paul Gallant; Francis Bernard; Austin McInnis. Cubs: Roy MacKenzie; Raymond MacTavish; Walter Dorsey; George Jay; Jack McEwen; Gordon MacTavish; Albert MacLeod; Arthur Rogers; Harold Stewart; Frank Outway; Albert Jay; Harold Hogan; John Sherry; Arthur Jay. Mr. Ceretti is now drawing plans for a building to be used solely for Scout Headquarters. He has obtained a 'lease for the land on New York Street, but he is finding it very difficult to finance the project. However, with a determination such as his we can be assured that he will finally succeed in his undertaking.

NEW GLASGOW W.I.
Members and visitors of New Glasgow Women's Institute met for the October meeting at the home of Mrs. A. E. Stevenson, President. Mrs. A. E. Stevenson, President, presided over the meeting. "It's a Good Time to Get Acquainted," followed by creed and roll call. Minutes of previous meeting read and adopted. The reports of the sick and school committees were then heard and new ones appointed: Sick, Mrs. E. Highland Hill and Mrs. R. A. Houston, School, Mrs. J. B. Dickson, and Miss Esie Laird. After the correspondence a discussion took place regarding the Sewing Club in which members agreed to take turns in leading. Lunch, Mrs. Melvin McLeod, Mrs. Herbert Stevenson and Miss Ella Semple. Entertainment, Mrs. J. B. Dickson, Mrs. E. Highland Hill. A program followed: Opening chorus "Old Folks at Home"; Reading, Mrs. M. McLeod and Mrs. P. L. Campbell. Quartette, Misses Stevenson and Woolner. Recitation, Mrs. Harland Hill. Reading, Mrs. Mervyn Bulman. Instrumental music, Miss R. Dickson and Mrs. W. B. Bulman. Recitations, Miss Ella Semple and Mrs. E. Highland Hill. Also a concert. Thanksgiving. Closed with National Anthem. Refreshments were then served by the hostess. Next meeting at Mrs. M. McLeod's.

INFLUENCE OF OTHERS
How We React to It
When we come seriously to consider the matter, it is extraordinary the effect that some people can have on others. Most of us can recall some chance meeting, perhaps, or a visit of someone, which has had a decided effect upon us mentally so that we can still vividly recall it, which proves how great an effect it had upon us.

Some people seem to radiate happiness and good feeling when they enter a house, and they leave behind them a blessed feeling of peace and serenity. Some are in general optimists, who always firmly believe that things are not as bad as they appear, until by the time they depart we are also beginning to feel the same way. The visit of such an optimist often acts as a mental tonic.

Now we come to the other types of visitors whose effect upon us mentally is far from good. One of the members join in the festival on equal terms. The spirit of camaraderie quickens each and all. The studio becomes a theatre, the model's throne service as the stage and famous actors, singers, and other musicians are among the performers. About nine o'clock a great dish of cheese, bread and celery is brought into the library which has been converted into a tavern with two pretty models as barmaids, and there is a general scramble for the contents of the dish.

Both Society and Club are admirably conducted by Albert H. Collins, the president and Hely Smith and H. T. Jarman, respectively as hon. secretary and treasurer, so that the members are looking forward with satisfaction to continuation of its valuable services in the development of English art. A small sum as interest on a $3,000 bequest left by F. W. Reckitt, an old member, is the Club's only source of revenue apart from member's subscriptions.
