

Mfld. Minister Of Fisheries & Co-ops On Visit To P. E. I.

Hon. W. J. Keough who holds the important position of Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives in the Newfoundland Government, arrived in Charlottetown on the noon plane yesterday and will be here until Saturday afternoon. Mr. Keough has been in Ottawa with Premier J. R. Smallwood attending conferences and also visited a number of important co-operative centres in Quebec.

While here Mr. Keough will meet with Premier Jones and with Mr. J. O. Campbell, Deputy Minister of Industry and Natural Resources in connection with a number of fisheries and inter-provincial matters. Later in the day he will hold a conference with Mr. J. G. Dennis, Mr. Eugene Gorman, Mr. Leo MacIsaac, Mr. Jerome O'Brien in connection with co-operative work.

of the increase. Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan called the rate decision a "real victory" for Provincial Governments and other organizations which opposed the railways' request for a 20-per-cent rate increase.

Seven Provinces — all except Ontario and Quebec — opposed the railways' application for the original 20-per-cent hike, which was approved in March, 1948. Eight Provinces — including Newfoundland when that Island became Canada's 10th province — fought against the carriers' request for a further 10-per-cent increase.

Premier D.L. Campbell of Manitoba said his Government is "against any increase whatsoever." He said Manitoba feels that there should be no increase until the Royal Commission on Transportation has reviewed the entire situation.

Premier E.C. Manning of Alberta declined to comment until he has received a report from J.P. Rawley, special counsel for Alberta on freight-rate problems, who is on his way to Eastern Canada.

The first comment from railway spokesmen came from R.C. Vaughan, president of Canadian National Railways, in Calgary on an annual tour of C.N.R. lines. Said Mr. Vaughan: "Horn, City, something." He said he wanted a fuller report before he commented further.

Central Rally Of P. E. I. Presbyterial At Trinity Church

A large central rally of the Prince Edward Island Presbyterial was held in Trinity United Church, Charlottetown yesterday, with sessions at 2:30 p.m. and at 8 p.m. Mrs. J.D. MacFarlane of Crapaud, president of the Presbyterial presided. The guest speakers were Dr. Catherine Whittier and Miss Beryl Morson, missionaries on furlough from Central India. Miss Elma Inman brought greetings from Trinidad. These missionaries, and several retired missionaries in the congregation were warmly welcomed by Mrs. MacFarlane.

One hundred and forty-nine delegates, representing thirty-six Auxiliaries, and fourteen guests were selected by Mrs. Stanley Thompson of Charlottetown and Mrs. J.F. Easton of New Westshore made gracious reply. The treasurer, Mrs. J.S. MacLeod of Hunter River reported that giving to date were more than three hundred dollars in excess of givings for the same period last year.

The opening worship was led by Mr. J. Green of Alberton whose message was that the Way of the Lord must be prepared in individual hearts, in each congregation and throughout the world.

Worship a sacred time those worn daily by the village women among whom she works in Central India, Miss Beryl Morson, in vivid word pictures, described the life of the people there and some of the problems which confront the Christian worker. The area in which the United Church Mission is located extends about two hundred miles from east to west.

In so large an area there is much diversity. The language is Hindi but there are many dialects which cause difficulties for the missionary to whom each seems like a different language. The people differ in other ways. The Bhils are an aboriginal people and live in rocky, hilly country. They do not live in villages as so many people in India do, but in homes scattered through the country much as our Canadian farm homes are. Their land is not very fertile and they live mainly on corn. Most of them observe the Hindu customs but many have turned to Christianity.

In Indian society there are four castes and below these are four sub-castes. The Brahmins, among whom Miss Morson has done most of her work in India, are outcastes. The fact that Christians live among Hindus makes it very hard for them to live as Christians, especially if part of the family is Hindu and Hindu customs are bound to be carried out in the home.

Polygamy Still Common

Polygamy is common but public opinion is turning against this practice. Economies are being observed among the Bhils as very poor. Most of them depend on daily labor for their livelihood and continued rain or crop failures may bring real hardship. For people living on so low an economic level, support of the church and Christian work is difficult, but it has been said that no one is so poor he should be denied the joy of giving, so they are learning to give.

An evil which is widespread is going into debt, sometimes for necessities. The rate of interest is very high and money lenders will take advantage of the ignorance of their clients. Miss Morson says that the Hindu caste is slowly being broken. She describes the Bhils as a friendly, lovable people. "If you could see some of the things among which they struggle to live," Miss Morson said in closing, "you would sympathize with them. When you pray for the Church of Christ, remember that they are part of the Church."

During a fifteen-minute intermission delegates had opportunity to see a most interesting and varied exhibit of articles and handicrafts. Among them were a beautiful camel's hair rug from Kashmir, samples of Kashmir embroidery, beautiful saris and other articles of clothing, brackets, finger rings, toe rings and bone, a sample of marble inlaid with semi-precious stones which is a type of that used in articles.

Dr. Whittier's Address

Dr. Whittier told of several joint missionary projects that are being carried on in Central India. First, she spoke of the "Mission to the Poor" which is helping to treat victims of tuberculosis of which there are many in India. At Madras Women's Christian College one of our United Church missionaries, Miss Dorothy Pearson is doing a splendid work in the Economics Department. Speaking of the medical work, Dr. Whittier said that the difficulty of securing personnel. There is great need for more doctors and nurses.

Missionaries and native colleagues working together. Native students and compounders are being trained. Compounders take courses in pharmacy, anaesthesia, laboratory work, learn to help with minor operations and to do dressings. During the past few years Dr. Whittier has been translating textbooks into Hindi. The hospital in which she works is the first to give a post-graduate course for nurses in Hindi. This year they start a Public Health course in Hindi. Both these courses have been available before in English but not in Hindi.

Finally, Dr. Whittier spoke of the great co-operative work in medical education being carried on at Vellore where there is a 500 bed hospital and where 200 young men and women are studying medicine. It is necessary that the nursing profession keep pace with the medical. "It would be hard to compute the influence Miss Florence Taylor has had on the nursing profession in India," was the tribute paid by Dr. Whittier to one of our missionaries who is giving

To Represent Rustico In Central Competition

Oswald Gallant and Alice Dulong have been named to represent the Rustico Boys and Girls Poultry Club in the central competition in Charlottetown for the right to represent the Province at the national judging competitions at Toronto in November.

Orswald placed first in the aggregate standing at the Achievement Day held on Wednesday. Miss Dulong placed fourth but was chosen instead of either the second or third place winners because they were too young for the final.

Basil Gallant placed second. His age is 11. The third place winner, Claire Dulong, is thirteen. Bernadette Pineau was fifth, Ronald Doucette sixth, Pauline Doucette seventh, Lorraine Blanchard was eighth.

Bernadette Pineau had the best cockerel and Oswald Gallant the best pullet at the exhibition of club poultry. Other of the top place winners included Claire Dulong, Pauline Doucette and Alice Dulong in that order with cockerels and pullets.

S. C. Scranton and Hugh MacLean conducted the achievement day program.

The widow of Joseph T. McCulloch, who died 25 years ago, she came to Sydney 12 years ago.

ing outstanding leadership in this field. Dr. Whittier closed her address with these words: "We missionaries are the privileged ones but we could not go out without you at home who are so faithful and provide funds. I hope you will find joy and satisfaction and continue to advance so that the Kingdom of God may come in this world."

In the evening a very large congregation assembled in Trinity Church and again interesting and stirring messages were given by Dr. Whittier and Miss Morson.
