What a pity we can't sell all the clothing in town! We'd like to, first-rate, but some people want more show than quality. Other people have their friends; and friends are nice, too, if they are in the way at times. And others are hypnotized by higher prices—"must be better"—or lower prices—"it is nice to save money", if you really save it.

And yet we are growing every year.

If you don't know what this means, bring your little or grown-up boy here and see.

MONDAY MORNING, AUGUST 7, 1905

THE STATION SITE.

It is announced that the Minister, Deputy Minister, General Manager, General Traffic Manager and the Chief Engineer of Government Railways will arrive tonight to make an inspection of the Island Railways and to settle the site for the new railway station in Charlottetown. It is the latter object that possesses the chief interest for the citizens of Charlottetown and to a large extent for those in all parts of the Island who make use of the railway. There has indeed been a long delay, needlessly long we think, in settling this matter. It is now over five years and a half since the official correspondence on the subject began.

The first proposal made in January 1900 by the Chief Engineer was to place the new passenger station on its present site with a covered platform extending up to Prince Street. Two years later, as the official correspondence shows, the General Manager had plans prepared to place the station at the corner of Prince and Water streets. Then came the Board of Trade meeting in November 1902 pronouncing in favor of the George Street site, and of this late Mr. Farquharson, M. P., wrote the General Manager, "We were as one man and our whole city is the same." A week later he wrote: "The Board of Trade meeting was very large showing the interest taken and they are backed up by an unanimous people. We are called upon only once in a lifetime to build a station; let us make it a monument to the intelligence of our people and also to the Government whose worthy Manager you are."

The people have never changed their minds but constantly re-affirmed their first decision. The recent extension of the track westward to the Government wharf has removed one strong objection to the George Street site. The people have waited long and patiently, and it seems incredible that after so long delay their wishes can be deliberately thwarted. We notice that The Patriot mentions four sites as possible of consideration, respectively on the Hillsboro, Prince, George and Queen Streets intersection with Water Street, and that it "does not make a tremendous difference" which is selected. But it will make a tremendous difference. The adoption of the Hillsboro street site would be looked upon as a job and would be strongly resented. The Prince Street site would not be nearly so bad, but would be viewed as a compromise that could only be accepted with reluctance. It would pay the Government to yield to the popular will and give the people the station where they want, it between George and Prince Streets. This we hope may be done.

A PRESBYTERIAN LITURGY.

The Chicago Evening Post takes notice of the introduction of a prayer book and a liturgical form of worship among the Presbyterians of that city. The prayer book is entitled "The Book of Common Worship" and was prepared by a committee of ministers and elders, and is issued for use by such congregations as may elect to hold liturgical services. It is noted by the Post that "the departure from custom marked by the book is such as to be startling to conservative Presbyterians of the old school." Complete forms of service are given for public worship morning and evening, for Holy Communion, Advent, Christmas Day, Good Friday and Easter, for the administration of the baptism, the burial of the dead and the solemnisation of marriage, the usual promise of the bride to "obey" being omitted from the latter.

In the form for celebrating Holy Communion provision is made for the laying of hands by the minister upon the plate and the cup. In the burial service are prayers for "fellowship with the saints" and for "grace to imitate the righteous dead." While the order for morning and evening service corresponds in its general features to the Anglican form, the prayers are mainly different in their phraseology. The general confession of sins is not followed by absolution. But for these differences and the absence of vestments, of altar and choir boys, the stranger within a Presbyterian church might think he had entered an Episcopal sanctuary by mistake. Chicago Presbyterians are a good way in advance of the Presbyterians of Canada in these matters, but there seems to be a general tendency in almost all non-episcopal Protestant churches toward the adoption of a more formal, stately and ornate system of public worship. It is among the signs of the times in which we live.

MESSRS. C. C. RICHARDS & CO.
Gentlemen,—In June, '98, I had my hand and wrist bitten and badly mangled by a vicious horse. I suffered greatly for several days and the lacerated refused to heal until your agent gave me a bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT which I began using. The effect was magical, in five hours the pain had ceased and in two weeks the wounds had completely healed and my hand and arm were as well as ever.

THE CITY LIGHTING.

The City Council and the Light and Power Company having come to an agreement as to the rate for street and commercial lighting for a term of five years from August next, the Mayor and Council have called a public meeting for tomorrow, Tuesday evening at the Market Hall in order that the views of the citizens may be then expressed in regard to this agreement. The consultation of the citizens in the matter was strongly advised by this journal in case it should be decided to renew the contract with the Company, and of course we cannot do less than commend the Council's action in that regard. It seemed the more necessary in this case to call for popular ratification because, although under somewhat different conditions, a plebiscite had some time ago decided in favor of civic ownership.

We trust there may be a large attendance of citizens, as the matter is one of great importance. We are of opinion that while there are no doubt differences of opinion on the subject, the majority of our people feel disposed to accept the new agreement as a judicious one in view of all the circumstances. Many no doubt hoped that under civic ownership or otherwise somewhat lower rates might be obtained, but on the other hand the city does not need two electric plants, and if a new plant were installed one, or the other or both would suffer loss. We will not at present argue the case, however, further than to urge our citizens to attend the meeting, whether they are in favor of the agreement or not. As those who are opposed to it are pretty sure to be present, those who favor the agreement will do well to attend also in order that there may be a fair representation from all sides.

We think it a good thing for our citizens to get together once in a while and give some attention to civic affairs. Public apathy is a fruitful source of civic misgovernment. If the people are unwilling to give up one or two evenings of the year to a consideration of public matters they will have only themselves to blame when such matters are found to go wrong. Besides a public discussion is educative to the people themselves as well as affording to their representatives in the Council a better knowledge of public opinion than they might otherwise have. So far we have not noticed any strong expression of opinion in the press, either editorially or by correspondence against the ratification of the agreement and under ordinary circumstances this would indicate a passive acceptance of what the Council has done. Whether or not this apparent calm is truly expressive of the public mind we shall probably learn at the meeting tomorrow night.
