LEGISLATURE WILL RE-ENACT TAX MEASURES

Segregation Of Income Tax Act Proposed To Facilitate Collections By Federal Government.

Provincial Legislature, March 29.

The House met at 4 p. m.

The following petitions were presented:

From the Mayor and Councillors of the Town of Montague for an Act to further amend the town's Incorporation Act. (Mr. Mustard).

From Frederick Holland Champlen and others for an act to Incorporate Champion Electric Company Limited. (Mr. Barbour).

From the Mayor and Council of the Town of Borden; for an Act to amend the town's Incorporation Act. (Mr. Wright).

Bills in accordance with the petitions were read.

Mr. Wright explained in connection with the bill to amend the Town of Borden Incorporation Act that he had received a petition requesting that the amendment be not passed. In the circumstances he moved the first reading with the object of having a full discussion in committee.

Premier Campbell introduced a bill intituled The Mechanics Lien Act, which was given first reading.

Income Tax Act

The Premier gave notice that he will move, seconded by the Hon. Mr. MacIntyre, the following resolution:

"Whereas an agreement has been made between the Government of this Province and the Department of National Revenue of the Government of Canada for the collection by the said Department of National Revenue of the Income Tax of Prince Edward Island;

"And Whereas it is expedient that the Income and Personal Property Taxation Act, 1934, be re-enacted in the form of two separate statutes, in order that the provisions regarding Income Tax may be segregated in a single comprehensive statute;

"Therefore Resolved that the Hon. Thane A. Campbell have leave to introduce two Bills intituled respectively: (a) An Act to authorize the levying of a Tax upon certain Incomes; and (b) The Personal Property and Special Companies' Taxation Act."

The Premier explained that at the last session an amendment was proposed to the Income and Personal Property Tax Act, authorizing the Governor-in-Council to enter into an agreement with the Dominion Government whereby the latter could collect the income taxes imposed by this Province. A similar agreement had been made by the Province of Quebec, and subsequently by Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Other provinces were negotiating along the same lines.

The Minister of National Revenue and the officials of his department would thereupon be the agents for the collection of this tax. In order that the new system may work out expeditiously, it is necessary to take out of our present Act those provisions which deal specifically with the Income Tax.

The present proposal is to re-enact the Income Tax provisions in a separate statute. This will achieve the object of making the length and definitions of the Act correspond with those of the Dominion Income Tax Act.

"Substantially," said Premier Campbell, "those definitions already correspond, but small differences in wording might lead to difficulties of interpretation, and it is therefore proposed to use the form of words which we now have in the Dominion Act and in the Acts of certain provinces.

"I may say that there is no increase, either in the taxes or in the rate of taxation to be imposed by the new Income Tax Act. In fact there is one very definite reduction to be made over the present scale. That reduction is in the allowances to be deducted for dependents. Up to the present time single men are exempted who are receiving under $750 income, and married men up to $1,000. The new Act makes provision for exemption of married men or persons in loco parentis to the amount of an additional $200 for each child or other dependent actually supported by the taxpayer.

"There remain two main taxes, the personal property tax and the special company taxation which was principally contained in section 68 of the old Act. Now it is proposed to gather up those residuary enactments concerning personal property, banks, insurance companies, express companies, etc., which were specifically taxed under section 68 and re-enact those provisions in another new Act to be known as the Personal Property and Special Company Taxation Act, the intention being that the collection of those taxes shall not be transferred to Ottawa but shall continue to be administered by the Provincial Treasury."

MANY CALL ON CANDIDATE—About 200 people called on Mr. J. Lester Douglas last night to congratulate him on his nomination as Liberal candidate for Queen's County in the House of Commons.

FUNERAL YESTERDAY — The funeral of the late Mr. John Stockman, Highfield, was held yesterday afternoon from his residence where a short service was conducted before proceeding to St. John's Church in Milton, Rev Mr. Lancaster conducting the services. The pall bearers were: Messrs. Samuel Kennedy, Lemuel Frizzell, Murdock Nicholson, Leith Stewart, James Swan. Interment Milton Cemetery.

PREPARE FOR FISHING SEASON—Fishermen of Aberton district today were busy building and repairing gear preparatory to the opening of the spring season. Prospects for high lobster prices here were considered poor and many fishermen were optimistic concerning the price of cod and contemplated devoting more time to this branch of the industry. Mr. Samuel Frazer expected to have his new mackerel boat ready for the water within two weeks. Constructed by Mr. William Aubrey, the craft is one of the finest fishing boats ever built at Alberton.

HORSE PLUNGES THROUGH ICE—A horse with a sleigh attached, driven by Mr. Fred Trowsdale, en route to his home at Mt. Albion, broke through Charlottetown harbor ice a short distance off the Ferry Wharf last evening. The animal kicked clear of the sleigh and with some assistance reached solid footing. Mr. Trowsdale and his wife escaped without any injury from their rather precarious situation in the sleigh. They returned to Charlottetown and later started to their home, this time by way of Hillsborough Bridge, apparently little the worse for their experience on the ice. Mr. Trowsdale is a Great War veteran and lost a leg overseas.

MEMORABLE COINCIDENCE—In a booklet recently issued by A. E. O'Leary, of Richibucto, N.B., entitled "Rambles Through Memory Lane," the writer tells of a trip made to Prince Edward Island in which he was accompanied, among others, by his brothers, Henry O'Leary, the late Archbishop of Edmonton and Louis, late Bishop of Charlottetown. They were entertained at Senator Arsenault's home, and as the author says, "I have always thought it was an odd coincidence that Henry and Louis should be seated at a table with Bishop MacDonald of Charlottetown who happened to be there on that day," because both of them later occupied the exalted position of Bishop of Charlottetown.

PORTION OF HIGHWAY OPENED—The highway between Summerside and Borden was cleared for motor traffic yesterday, it was learned last night. Two commercial travellers arrived in the western capital by motor car, one from New Brunswick and the other from Nova Scotia. A crew of shovellers including men supplied by several business firms in Summerside and prisoners from the Prince County Jail were said to have opened the road, shovelling a track through the banks where they blocked wheled traffic. Meanwhile the road between Hunter River and Summerside remained blocked for traffic although short stretches were completely clear of snow. The highway between Charlottetown and Hunter River and the Rustico highway as far as New Glasgow was said to be open to motor traffic.

PRESENT FIVE-ACT COMEDY—"The Gamblers' Quarrel," five-act comedy-drama, was staged in the Little Theatre playhouse for a second time last night by the amateur comedy club. The cast included: Harold Donovan, Fred Martin, Jack McCourt, Ray Perry, James Savidant, E. Hardy, R. Gallant, Fred McIsaac, James Kenslow, Emett Trainor, Joseph Drain, Mrs. H. Donovan, Miss Esther Donovan and Mrs. Alex Pineau. Music was supplied by Albert Blanchard's orchestra. Specialties included vocal solos by Miss Esther Donovan and Miss Rita McGee, tap dancing by Milly and Shirley Rush, vocal solos by James Donovan, comedy sketch by J. McCourt and James Savidant, musical acts, Messrs. McDonald, Donovan and Perry and the "buttermilk baby" featuring Master Frederick.

Draft Address Debate Launched

Three Speakers Heard Yesterday, Preceding Premier Campbell Who Will Continue The Debate Today.

Hon. Thane A. Campbell, Premier, was speaking on the Draft Address when the Legislature adjourned yesterday afternoon, after sitting an hour and a half.

Preceding the Premier in the debate were Messrs. George E. Saville, Aeneas Gallant, and Wade Hughes, the latter speaking only for a few minutes and on the one subject of freer world trade.

Educational reformers seeking to abolish Latin, French, geometry and algebra in the common schools came in for ridicule from Mr. Saville, who also contributed the suggestion that the dispossessed property owners in the National Park had no constitutional grievance because they could appeal, by petition, to the Legislature.

"Merchants and business men" were subjected to a barrage from Mr. Gallant for allegedly exploiting the needs of the farmers, particularly in the matter of the present seed oats shortage.

Admission that "many farmers" had received loans they were not entitled to under the Fishermen's Loan Act, on recommendations of "men who apparently were seeking to make a sale," was made by Mr. Gallant. He believed that Mr. LePage, like himself, had been "fooled" in this matter, but the Board had done the best they could.

MR. G. E. SAVILLE

Belief in the freest possible trade relations with all countries as a means of promoting world peace was expressed by Mr. George E. Saville, Fifth Kings, in moving the Address. Mr. Saville was referring particularly to the trade negotiations by the Canadian Government with the governments of Great Britain and the United States, mentioned approvingly in the Throne Speech.

"In some ways," Mr. Saville maintained, the condition of our farmers is better than it was a year ago due, he believed, to the existing Canada-U.S. trade treaty.

Properly conducted dairying and hog raising he said were two of the most profitable forms of agriculture in this Province. With regard to the latter industry, Mr. Saville paid tribute to the beneficial results of the Empire trade pacts.

The need of proper soil fertilization was emphasized at some length. This was a subject, he suggested, which should be taught in the common schools.

Mr. Saville was frankly disappointed in the report on education at the recent Dairymen's Association convention. He could not agree with the suggestion that French, Latin, geometry and algebra should be eliminated from the common school curriculum. These subjects were of practical importance, particularly the latter two; and to deprive our pupils of the opportunity of studying them was ridiculous. He ridiculed the proposed emphasis on English literature to the detriment of these subjects. It might be wise to make them optional, but they should be retained for those who wish to take them up.

Mr. Saville complimented the Minister of Agriculture (Hon. Mr. Dennis) on the work he was doing, and also the Fishermen's Loan Board on building a fish house at Boughton Island.

The Government's road work last year, he believed, had been well distributed.

He strongly urged that the road be paved between Cardigan and Rollo Bay. He had never opposed the building of paved roads in other sections and hoped his own request would meet with Government approval. Altogether, he believed it will require not less than 400 miles of paved roads to meet the Province's requirements. In view of the expenditure in the last twenty-five years on auto traffic—which he estimated at $25,000,000—there was no doubt that we could afford the necessary highway paving.

With regard to the National Park, Mr. Saville thought the Government had dealt "in a constitutional manner" with the dispossessed property owners. "The people," he said, "have the right to place their case, by petition, before this Legislature, and we should have power to deal with those petitions. This House in all matters it legislates on is a high court of appeal."

Had the County Courts been given jurisdiction to make awards, Mr. Saville argued, no one could dispute that if this Legislature was asked to vote money to pay such awards it could refuse to do so if it thought the taxpayers were being asked to pay too much. "If this contention of mine is right," he added, "then it proves that this House has the closing word in the matter."

Referring to troubled conditions in Europe, Mr. Saville regretted that "the spirit of Mars and not that of Eros" was in the ascendant, and repeated what he had said two years ago about the need of world leadership for peace.

MR. AENEAS GALLANT

The serious situation, in many sections, owing to the shortage of seed oats was emphasized by the seconder of the Address, Mr. Aeneas Gallant, First Prince, who is Premier Campbell's colleague in the House. In his own district, Mr. Gallant said, about 20,000 bushels of oats will be required.

He severely denounced merchants who had purchased oats cheaply in the spring and were selling them now at exorbitant prices. Business men, he maintained, sought to cooperate with the farmers to the extent of entertaining them at banquets but they were exploiting the farmers in their business transactions. In the last year or two the merchants showed a greater desire to cooperate, but this Mr. Gallant attributed to the development of Credit Unions. As a result of these unions the merchants have been "brought to their knees."

Mr. Hughes, Fifth Kings: "That would be German influence."

Mr. Gallant: "I am proud of the stand the farmers are taking in this matter."

It had taken the farmers a long time, he said, to realize the benefits of cooperation. Every cooperative movement they had launched had been "knocked by the merchants." He cited the Livestock Marketing Board and, in former years, the Cooperative Egg and Poultry Association. He commended both these organizations on the work they were doing.

The Government was congratulated by Mr. Gallant on its efforts to develop youth training. In the matter of agricultural courses, he believed the students should be more carefully chosen from among those who are able to put their theoretical knowledge to practical use. Means should be provided, he suggested, to enable these students to take over unoccupied farms.

Last year the money voted for the upkeep of the fishery industry had been used chiefly to erect buildings to take care of the fish as it came to the shore, Mr. Gallant continued. Himself a member of the Fishermen's Loan Board, he complimented the chairman, Hon. B. W. LePage, on the work achieved.

"We have been criticised throughout the Province," Mr. Gallant added, "for many of these loans going to farmers who are not fishermen. Personally I made it a point in all cases that no man received one dollar of that loan who was not a bona fide fisherman. Many of the farmers of the Province, I believe, have received that loan and many of those applications have been recommended by men who, apparently, were seeking to make a sale. They got by my hands and I believe in some cases Mr. LePage, like myself, has been fooled. But nevertheless, we have done the best we could."

The outlook for the lobster fishery is not as bright as in other lines, Mr. Gallant continued. "We are not encouraging them to spend too much to go into this industry, but we are encouraging them to go into trawling more than they have done in the past."

Opposed to Road Paving

Mr. Gallant frankly confessed that he had never been in favour of hard-surfacing the roads. He would not regard it favorably until we had our own experts and our own companies doing the work. However, he understood the Government had used "good judgment" in awarding the paving contracts. The accepted tenders were at such a low rate that "we will have to see that these companies don't put anything over on us," he cautioned.

Mr. Gallant concluded with another appeal to "protect the farmers in every way" and see that they are furnished with seed oats as cheaply as possible.

MR. WADE HUGHES

In the absence of an Opposition the Premier, on previous occasions, has spoken immediately after the mover and seconder of the Draft Address, but yesterday this custom was not observed and the third speaker in the debate was Mr. Wade Hughes, Fifth District of Kings.

Mr. Hughes' address was very short. He said the other speakers had so well covered the field that there was little left to say.

Sections 3 and 5 of the Throne Speech, dealing respectively with disturbing world politics and with trade negotiations by Canada with Great Britain and the United States, Mr. Hughes suggested, should have been placed one after the other; they had a very real connection.

He voiced the hope that the trade negotiations would "promote harmony, reduce the tariff, enlarge the quotas and practically remove the embargoes in many cases."

Enlarging on the benefits of freer trade, he said that measures tending to reduce trade barriers were essential if civilization is to recover.

PREMIER CAMPBELL

Commencing at 5.25 p.m., Premier Campbell spoke for just five minutes. He congratulated the mover and seconder, expressed regret at the death of Mr. Peter Sinclair, M.P., and tendered the sympathy of the House to the bereaved family. He then moved the adjournment.

The House adjourned to meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Fierce Blizzard Blankets St. John's

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 29—(CP Cable)—St. John's dug itself out of snowbanks tonight after a 72-hour blizzard subsided. Automobiles were stalled on the streets and traffic generally held up by banks that reached as high as 16 feet in outlying districts.

The storm transported the district right back into winter after a week of mild weather in which crocuses began to bloom and spring was accepted as here.

Two "log-loaded"—filled to capacity—sealers, the Sagona and Ranger, homeward bound, took shelter before the storm broke. The remainder of the sealing fleet reported all well.

RETURN WEST AFTER VISIT TO PROVINCE

Mr. And Mrs. Malcolm MacCallum Spend Enjoyable Three Months Visit At Alliston.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm MacCallum left today for their home in Winnipeg after spending three months visiting at Mr. MacCallum's old home in Alliston, near Murray River.

It was Mr. MacCallum's first visit to his birthplace since he went to western Canada thirty-three years ago and he expressed a feeling of sadness at the large number of former friends and acquaintances whom he missed from his native district. Many, especially of the older people had died in the years that had passed and others had moved elsewhere. Included in those deceased was Mr. MacCallum's mother, who passed away last summer. His father, Mr. Obed MacCallum, is hale and hearty but, totally blind for several years, was unable to see his son who left home when little more than a boy to seek his fortune in the West.

Mrs. MacCallum, a native of Western Canada, commenting on her welcome to this Province said, "we had a real good winter. We went to many places and were treated the very best. I think a great deal of the Island and of the people here and appreciate their kindness and generosity."

Both Mr. and Mrs. MacCallum had warm words of thanks for the people who gathered at the old home at Alliston Saturday night to say farewell. "They gave us a real good time and presented us with a very useful gift for which we thank them a thousand times," the couple said.

PEPPERMINT CREAMS MAY BE

While the white of one egg to a stiff froth. Add very gradually one teaspoonful peppermint essence. Then add, also gradually, one pound icing sugar, which must be quite free from lumps. When the mixture is well blended place it on a board, roll out to about 1-2 inch thick and stamp into rounds with a small cutter. Leave the creams for an hour or two to set.

Note—If the white or egg does not readily absorb the sugar a very few drops of milk may be added, but this should not be necessary.

Silver Wedding

On Friday evening, March 11, 1938, a large number of people from Riverdale, Churchill and surrounding districts gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman MacLeod, Riverdale, to celebrate with them the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. John A. MacKinnon, who in a few well chosen remarks explained the object of the gathering. He then called upon Mr. Andrew MacFadyen, who read an address while Miss Jane MacKinnon presented Mr. and Mrs. MacLeod with a chest of silver.

Mr. MacLeod, on behalf of himself and his wife, thanked the people for their kindness in remembering them on this occasion.

Lunch was served by some of the ladies present and the remainder of the evening was spent in social chat and dancing, music being furnished by Mr. Heber Campbell, Elmwood.

In the early hours of morning all departed for their homes leaving their best wishes with the bride and groom of twenty-five years.

The following is the address:

Mr. and Mrs. Norman MacLeod:

Dear Friends,—As we gather here in your spacious home this evening, it gives us unbounded pleasure and satisfaction to have the privilege of congratulating you on this, the twenty-fifth anniversary of your marriage.

We feel that it would be very unfeeling and thoughtless if we did not in some way show our appreciation of your sterling worth and unfaltering friendship which you have shown on many occasions. Your consideration for old and young has made for you both many friends who will long cherish your kind words and deeds.

As a group of relatives and friends we all accord you our best wishes for a long and peaceful journey through life and we pray that you may be blessed with health and strength and above all that you may always receive the blessing that comes from the Giver of all good. Our earnest desires are that you may both be spared to celebrate your "Golden Anniversary."

Now, we would ask you to accept this small gift, not for its intrinsic value but as a small token of our esteem, and as a proof of our friendship toward you.

With best wishes and regards for your future.

Signed on behalf of your friends of Riverdale and Churchill.

Measure To Protect Instalment Buyer

HALIFAX, March 29—(CP)—Legislation aimed at high pressure instalment salesmanship was introduced in Nova Scotia's Legislature by Attorney General J. H. MacQuarrie today.

Believed to be the most advanced measure of its kind in Canada, the bill would protect instalment buyers from repossession of the purchased goods when they were unable to continue payments through some misfortune such as illness. The courts would be allowed to decide on the merits of the case before the goods could be repossessed.

Another provision of the bill is to allow a buyer to return the goods he has bought on the plan after paying at least one third of the purchase price. One third of the price was set as a minimum in the bill, but the buyer might have to pay more the longer he kept the article.

The legislation would apply only to purchases between $25 and $500. The measure seeks to protect buyers against high pressure salesmanship but is not intended to interfere with the buyers who would use the instalment plan judiciously.

Tables Additional Estimates In House

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

OTTAWA, March 29—Government expenditures in connection with drought relief and feed and cattle salvage on the Prairies, particularly in Saskatchewan, accounted for the bulk of the further supplementary estimates, amounting to $36,717,668, tabled in the House of Commons tonight by Finance Minister Dunning.

This amount is additional to the $410,466,397 in the main estimates, and $11,339,955 in the supplementaries, voted at the last session of Parliament for the current fiscal year ending next March 31.

An additional $2,000,000 temporary grant to Saskatchewan to assist in meeting costs of Government pending improvement in the crop situation, was the outstanding large item apart from those expenditures necessary to meet drought relief and livestock feeding charges.
