NERVE-RACKED CHILDREN

Made Bright and Well by Dr. Cassell's Tablets.

Used to Scream Terribly for no reason whatever.

Just a bundle of Nerves.

Weak, Wasting away, and Digestive Troubles.

Thought she could never recover.

Now cured and happy through

DR. CASSELL'S TABLETS.

Canadian mothers of little weak or nervous children should read this testimony to Dr. Cassell's Tablets, given out of simple gratitude by Mrs. Worrall, 32, Alt-street, Liverpool, England. They will then see what a valuable health-builder they have in this great remedy.

Mrs. Worrall says: "Dr. Cassell's Tablets have quite cured my little girl, Gladys, of extreme nervousness and digestive troubles, and I think it only right you should publish the story for the benefit of other mothers whose children may be delicate.

"Gladys began to ail when she was only two years old, and steadily grew worse, though we did all we could think of to get her well. She was very peevish, and cried dreadfully. Sometimes she would scream for no reason at all that we could discover, and nothing would pacify her. She was just a little bundle of nerves. Her appetite was very poor, and naturally she got quite thin and weak, and her little cheeks fell in dreadfully. Indeed, she hardly ate anything, and seemed just wasting away. We tried a lot of different things that did no good at all. Then we had advice and treatment for Gladys, but that, too, was of very little use. We were told she was suffering from nervous breakdown and enlarged liver. After that we took her to an institution, where for nine months she was treated as an out-patient. Perhaps she was a little better for a time, but was soon as ill as ever. Next we took her to Ireland for three months, and that seemed to help her. But almost at once she relapsed into the old weak state.

"For four years this had gone on, and the child was as far from health as ever. In fact, she was so ill that we thought she could never recover. One day, however, I was advised to give her Dr. Cassell's Tablets, and then, what an improvement! The child became stronger and not nearly so nervous. Her appetite returned, she brightened up wonderfully, and rapidly put on flesh. Now, in her seventh year, she is completely cured. She goes to school, and is just as well and happy as any child could be."

Save the children. Do not let them suffer when the remedy that has saved life in cases unnumbered is ready to your hand in Dr. Cassell's Tablets. This great medicine for the people has been most successful in the treatment of weakness and wasting, whether in old or young.

WASTED TO A SKELETON.

"Nerves" and Bowel Trouble.

Mrs. Lewis, of 14, Lyon-street, Vernon-street, Bolton, Lancs., England, says:—"Dr. Cassell's Tablets saved my baby's life when he had been given up, and I was just waiting for the end. He was a fine baby when born, but very soon he was taken with bowel weakness, and began to waste away. The food he had either returned or set up severe diarrhoea, which caused the poor little thing terrible pain. He cried a lot, and his sleep was very disturbed. He would wake up suddenly with violent attacks of sickness, and evidently in great pain, and I was at my wits' end to know what to do. Poor baby had wasted until he was only a frame of bones, and he looked almost as though he would fall to pieces, he was so appallingly thin. We could count every rib, every bone of his backbone.

"Of course, I tried everything I could think of, and also took baby to an institution, but no sort of treatment did any good at all. By this time he was so far spent that we were waiting for the end. Once I was told that he could not live till Monday—that was on a Saturday. But in the end we got Dr. Cassell's Tablets, and the improvement was immediate. The diarrhoea and sickness ceased, and from that time my child never looked back. Now, at thirteen months, he is a fine, big healthy baby. He has cut five teeth, and is just a picture of health."

GOD'S CARE FOR ELIJAH.

I. Kings 17: 1-16.

Golden Text: "Casting all your anxiety upon him, because he careth for you." I. Pet. 5: 7.

Verses 1. The message of Elijah was addressed to Ahab. The exact time of the crisis that called it forth is not given. Ahab was of Omri and reigned twenty-two years from 875 to 853 B. C., He was a man of strong and independent character. When he ascended the throne of Israel the nation was subject to Syria and the court of Damascus dictated its policy. Ahab secured its independance at the battle of Aphek (1 Kiings 20: 4.) Among other measures designed to strengthen the Kingdom of Israel Ahab entered into alliance with the King of Phoenicia, taking Jezebel his daughter as his wife. But Jezebel brought the worship of the Phonecian Baal into Israel. To please the queen Ahab went so far as to build a temple and erect an altar to Baal in the capital city of Samaria. From what appears in the letter account Ahab was not an apostate from the religion of Jehovah, but a lukewarm adherent who saw no harm in yielding to the scruples of Jezebel. The prophets looked upon his conduct differently. They were lamenting Jeroboam's corruption of the worship of Jehovah through the introduction of the calves of Dan and Bethel. They were impatiently waiting for a return to the purer worship of Jerusalem. Instead of this Abad had sanctioned and helped a further departure from the ancestral path through the introduction of Baal worship. It must have been some years after his accession to the throne and when his attitude and policy had been fully revealed that Elijah finally presented himself before the king, and delivered the ominous message that a prolonged drought was to come on the land as a scourge from Jehovah. The prophet's appearance and words do not seem to have impressed Ahab. At all events he neither heeded him nor showed irritation at his sinister prediction. In all probability he looked upon him as a mad and irresponsible person, whose words and action were unworthy of notice. Elijah was allowed to withdraw unmolested.

Verse 2-7. The truth of the word of Elijah could not be proved with the lapse of time. And during that time it was necessary for Elijah to exercise patience and keep out of public life. Meanwhile the world would apparently move on as it had always moved. Perhaps even the words and his appearance would be forgotten. It requires a strong conviction indeed to enable one bodly to preach God's will to men with the prospect that many years may elapse before any sign of the truth of one's words can appear. To withdraw into obscurity and risk being neglected and forgotten is no easy task. But Elijah faced it and went into retirement. The place of his retirement was "the brook Cherith." This stream runs down from the heights of Upper Judaea to the plains of Jericho through a precipitous country. Among the natural caverns of the ravine, Elijah probably found one in which he might lodge awaiting the call of Jehovah to the next public duty. Elijah's life in retirement was not only one of separation from his fellow beings, but also of physical privation. Men have often chosen the solitary life. But they have done so because of indifference to public affairs. Elijah was not indifferent to the fate of his people. Men have preferred to live as ascetics denying their bodies the fuller nourishment designed by nature in order to win eternal salvation for their souls. Elijah showed no sign of concern concerning his soul. He submitted to solitude and privation in obedience to God's will. The drought he predicted came and grew severer and severer. But the God who directed Elijah to deliver his message provided for his support through the streamlet of Cherith and the "bread and flesh" which the "ravens" brought him. The natural curiosity regarding the "ravens" and the food they brought to Elijah and the manner in which they secured it is not easily satisfied. But the lesson is clear. God furnishes strength and support to those who do his will.

Verse 8-16. The severity of the drought finally caused the water of even the brook Cherith to fail Elijah saw himself forced to seek a new refuge. This, under divine directions, be found in the country of these very Phoenicians, whose religion had invaded and corrupted his own beloved Israel. In the town of Zarephath near Sidon there lived an unnamed widow with her young son. Into her house Elijah now came asking for that morsel of bread which oriental hospitality of bread which orientl hospitality denies to no one. The famine had waxed strong indeed since this widow in answer to the prophet's request found herself obliged to explain that her provisions were exhausted. But the prophet had come not only to ask, but also to bestow a favor. The widow's extremity was Elijah's opportunity. It is a parable of life. Everyone who stimulates the benevolence of others by appealing to them in this time of need may receive something for his need, but he has bestowed more than he has received. He has opened the springs of good will by stimulating benevolence. And good will, though perhaps in a different sense from the case of the widow, is itself "the jar of meal" that "wasted not" and the "cruse of oil" that did not fail. God works his miracles in different ways in different ages and under different conditions. He may not create material meal and oil when the sources of these demands are yielding them abundantly in the ordinary ways of nature; but he works the miracle of the unexhausted jar of meal and of the unfailing cruse of oil when he leads the sluggish and indolent to work in order that they may have wherewith to meet their own and their neighbor's need. It is significant too that when the prophet asked the widow for the first cake to be made out of our meal, he accompanied the request with a revelation of the power of Jehovah, the God of Israel, and the promise of his blessing. The times were hard and very trying, and it must have been difficult to exercise faith. But faith in Jehovah, the God of Israel, was rewarded as it always has been, and will be.

DANGEROUS NITROGLYCERIN.

Nitroglycerin is a fearfully dangerous explosive and at a temperature of only 100 degrees—that is, very little more than the warmth of the human body—it begins to decompose.

Tons of nitroglycerin are turned out every day, for it is the explosive from which guncotton is made. But all the mixing vats are artificially cooled by coils of cold water pipes.

The cleaner nitroglycerin is made the less the danger. Consequently it undergoes any number of washings before it is fit for use. In the earlier days of its manufacture nitroglycerin waste water was allowed to run away through open drains, or into steams through open drains, or into streams. It was not realized that this waste constituted a source of danger until, one day, a flash of lighting, striking ground near a factory, which was soaked with this compound, caused a fearful explosion. A cavity twenty feet deep was blown in the earth and the factory itself, although fully 200 yards away, was practically demolished.—London Answers.

HIS BEST.

A small boy, who had been allowed to run much in the streets, had so improved his opportunities that before he was five years old it was commonly said by neighbors that he swore like a little pirate. Parental discipline did not avail to break him of the habit. One day when he was to visit his grandmother in the next street he was implored by his mother to behave himself properly, and especially not to indulge in bad language. He promised to try to remember. On his return at night the anxious mother asked if he had been a good boy. He replied emphatically that he had, clinching the statement by adding:

"I only called grandma an old devil twice all day."—New York Post.

GROG WAS FIRST USED IN 1740.

See Daniels' order prohibiting alcoholic liquors on board ships of the navy and at navy yards has given rise to the question regarding the origin of the word "grog."

Vice-Admiral Vernon of the British squadron operating in the West Indies in 1740, the man for whom Washington's home was named, issued an order from which the word "grog" originated. His purpose was to regulate the personnel, to remedy existing conditions and promote temperance.

Because of the demoralization of the men brought through over indulgence in rum, the order providing for the use of diluted liquor was given. According to this order a quart of water had to be mixed with each pint of the West Indian beverage, and the usual ration was divided, half to be given before eleven o'clock in the forenoon and the other half to be given late in the afternoon.

The men in their resentment at the interference on the part of their superior, ironically dubbed the diluted drink "grog" in his honor. Admiral Vernon had been nicknamed "Old Grog," because it was his custom to wear a heavy storm coat of "grossgrain," or, as the common Engl ish form was, "grogram."—Kansas City Star.

The Only Cure For A Weak Stomach

INDIGESTION AND SIMILAR TROUBLES MUST BE TREATED THROUGH THE BLOOD.

Indigestion can be treated in many ways, but it can only be cured in one way—through the blood. Purgatives cannot cure indigestion. By main force they move on the food still undigested. That weakens the whole system, u ses up the natural juices and leaves the stomach and bowels parched and sore. It is actually a cause of indigestion— not a cure Others try pre-digested foods and peptonized drugs. But drugs which digest the food for the stomach really weakens its power and makes the trouble chronic. The digestive organs can never do the work properly until they are strong enough to do it themselves. Nothing can give the stomach that power but the new, rich, red blood so abundantly supplied by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. So the reason for the success of his medicine is plain. Nothing can stimulate the glands and nothing can absorb the nourishment from the food but pure red blood. And Dr. Williams' Pink Pills surpass all other medicines in giving that new, rich blood. Miss B. E. Johnson, Hemford, N. S., says: "For months I was a great sufferer from indigestion; food of any kind was distasteful to me, and after eating I would suffer much. Naturally I grew weak and was but a shadow of my former self. I was taking a doctor's prescription, but it did not help me in the least. Then I read of a case similar to my own cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try the medicine. By the time I had taken six boxes the trouble had entirely disappeared, and I could eat heartily of all kinds of food. More than this I found my general health greatly improved through the use of the Pills. I can therefore strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a cure for indigestion."

You can get these Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail, postpaid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
