HEROIC RESCUE AT GEORGETOWN
 (Special to the Guardian)
 GEORGETOWN, P. E. I., Oct. 29.—What might be called a miraculous escape from death was the unusual experience of little George Stewart, aged four, of this town Wednesday. The little chap who is a son of Mr. Allister Stewart, followed his brothers to the ferry wharf to watch them fishing smelts. Unnoticed by the older boys, he in some way fell over the wharf and drifted out some distance. A young man named Louis Victor, who is only in his teens, realizing the situation, came on the run from his work in the vicinity, removed his outer clothing as he ran, kicked off his rubber boots and plunged into the river. Carrying the unconscious boy under one arm, he was able to reach the wharf where eager hands assisted in completing the rescue. First aid was at once resorted to and in a short time the efforts of the rescue party were rewarded by evidences of life restored. Doctor Grant who had been telephoned for arrived on the scene shortly after and the patient was given every attention, and at the present feels none the worse for his experience. Great praise is due Mr. Victor for his act of heroism and the townspeople intend making vigorous overtures to those in authority for suitable recognition.

A NIGHT WITH BURNS—A very entertaining and instructive "Night with Burns" was passed last evening in Zion Church Hall by a large crowd who gathered to hear Rev. Dr. Ashdown discuss the different phases of the poetry written by Scotland's bard. Rev. R. M. Legate was in the chair. During the lecture four musical numbers were rendered, with Professor Thompson accompanying. A bass solo, "Annie MacDonald" was sung by Mr. Malcolm McKinnon. Burns' song "Flow Gently Sweet Afton" was rendered in quartette by Miss Flo Campbell, Mrs. Rogerson, and Messrs. Harry Craswell and Malcolm McKinnon. "Bonnie Doone" was sung by Mrs. Sutherland McLean, Miss Margaret Ross, and Mrs. Walter Brown. A tenor solo, "Braw Highland John" was rendered by Mr. Harry Craswell. Dr. Ashdown dealt with four phases of Burns' poems, the first, Burns desire to sing the songs of Scotland; second, Burns' kindness to animals as shown in his poem on the old farmer's greeting to his mare, and the poem to the mouse; third, the poet's scorn of hypocrisy as evident in "The Two Dogs"; fourth, Burns affectionate remembrance and farewell to his friends, as to Jean, his wife, Clarinda, John Anderson.

Large List of Entries For Amherst Fair

AMHERST, Oct. 29.—At least two hundred and fifty foxes will be shown at the first Maritime Fox Show and with entries good up until midnight the number will be increased considerably. Close onto a thousand head of beef and dairy cattle will be in the show, according to the summary checkup this afternoon by A. W. MacKenzie, Secretary-Manager. One of the leading entries in beef cattle will be Amos and Black of Moffatt, who in recent years have been among the prize winners at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto. The Ontario breeders will bring a herd of short horns to the Eastern Exhibition. Competition in the beef class will be provided by Charles R. Trenholme, of Fort Lawrence, who is top liner for the winter show with a herd of forty-six. M. L. MacCarthy, of Sussex, will lead in the dairy classes with 29 head of Holsteins. Other veteran exhibitors such as MacIntyre Bros. of Sussex, J. R. Semple, and Hon. Bruce P. W. Swindells, Princeport; J. E. Baker and Son, Barronfield; W. A. Fleming, M.L.A., Truro; Woodford Stevens, Sackville, will all be present while the Island will have strong representations in Edgar, Easter, Stead Bros., George Boswell, Keith Boswell, Ernest Houston, Cecil Murray, Edward Reid, and others. Scores of new exhibitors have been reported. Mr. MacKenzie stated, tonight, that the big dairy entry was due to the competition of the county herds, an innovation this year. Twenty-two herds will be shown at the winter fair, a bull and five females from each county. A partial list of herds by counties will be Colchester 3, Cumberland 2, Annapolis 2, Yarmouth 1, Westmorland 2, Kings Co. N. B. 1, York 2, St. John 2. The other herds will come from Prince Edward Island.

Increased British Minister's Salary
 (Canadian Press)
 LONDON, Oct. 29.—The special House of Commons committee heard very interesting testimony from persons high in public life, including Prime Minister MacDonald, before it decided to recommend an increase in the salary of the Prime Minister from $25,000 to $35,000. It is revealed in a White Paper just issued. The leader of the opposition in the House of Commons will also receive a salary on account of that position, if the recommendations are acted upon. Testifying before the commission Premier MacDonald, Rt. Hon. Stanley Lloyd George, and Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin all made it clear that the cost of living at No. 10 Downing Street is so great the salary of $25,000 is insufficient. Speaking of the suggestion that a salary Mr. Baldwin said: "I regard it as of the first importance that a man who has been Prime Minister should be independent afterwards." With regard to residence at Downing Street, Mr. Baldwin said that, as to entertainment expenses, "if one had super-generous desires one could find an outlet for much more than $15,000 a year." It would, he added, be extraordinarily difficult for a Prime Minister to live in Downing Street on $25,000 a year. Mr. Lloyd George, who agreed that the pay of the various Ministers should be equalised, said he would exclude the Prime Minister from that arrangement. It was preposterous, he added, that a Lord Chancellor should be getting $50,000 while a Prime Minister was only getting $25,000. It was outrageous that the Attorney-General and the Solicitor-General should be getting something like $200,000 a year, one $125,000 and the other $75,000. The Prime Minister's salary of $25,000 was ludicrously inadequate, and was equal to $12,500 before the war. He thought that the cost of private hospitality to a Prime Minister would be $5,000 a year, but said: "My wife could tell you much better than I can." "How she managed it I don't know" he added. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald was against every member of the Cabinet receiving $25,000. With regard to the question of the payment of the leader of the Opposition, Mr. MacDonald said: "I think more and more that a Prime Minister who has perhaps got tired of party squabbling, and rather gets a little bit away from it and yet remains active in the service of the State, could be treated very much like a Lord Chancellor." As to the upkeep of No. 10 Downing Street, Mr. MacDonald said that "any Prime Minister without a private income would be on the Poor Law in two years after he left office unless he was an extremely careful person and unless he was supported by friends."

WHAT WOMEN WILL WEAR
 TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 28.—(By the Canadian Press)—"What will smart modern Canadian women wear this autumn?" A big question—but satisfactorily answered at a recent fashion tea by Mlle. A. d'Alroy assisted by members of the Junior League, of this city. The costumes for morning, afternoon and evening wear were selected by various members of the Junior League, and were worn in the exhibition by a group of attractive mannequins. A slender young brunette went back a generation or two when she donned a cerise silk evening gown, ruffled and bustled in a fashion reminiscent of the gay nineties, and several sun-tanned mannequins suggested the days of ancient Greece with their draped gown of which chiffon and satin. Again, "the Empress Eugenie" stepped from her frame and moved down the runway. Her gown of blue taffeta, with ruffles of chiffon, was caught with pink satin bows and clusters of pink roses on the bodice, and she had a knot of roses caught in her dark curls. A group of models were attired in adaptations of the coosack attire, which are a high fashion this season—belted coats, fur-trimmed suits, tunics and Russian blouses. Turquoise blue suede gloves added a touch of exquisite perfection to one costume. The gloves were a perfect match for the gracefully draped gown of turquoise chiffon, and were the only colored gloves worn in the show. Black, white and beige were the rule in the matter of gloves.

The course is open to the public on payment of a fee that is regarded as reasonable. The lecture in reading will be given in the Arts building of the University three afternoons a week and will occupy an hour each day. They will be given by four members of the Department of English staff, and will be divided into four sections of six weeks each. Prof. E. K. Broadus will take the first six weeks of lectures his subject being English poetry. Then Assistant Prof. J. T. Jones will lecture on the Drama, after which Joseph Fisher will deal with Biography and Essays, and then Prof. Robert K. Gordon will lecture on the Novel. A comprehensive list of authors will be drawn upon for the lectures, going back only to the year 1890 and dealing with authors up to the present time. He: "Didn't you once say there was something you liked about me?" She: "Yes, but you spent it all." Bill and Bob were engaged upon a little burglary job. Bill was keeping watch at the street corner, while Bob operated inside a large house. After being inside for only a few moments, however, Bob rejoined his pal at the corner. "Been quick, ain't yer?" the watchman asked. "Did yer get anyfink?" "No," Bob panted in reply. "But there 'ouse belongs to Grabbe—by big lawyer bloke, yer know?" "Old Grabbe's 'ouse?" Bill exclaimed in horror. "Did yer lose anyfink?"

Canadian Education For English Boys
 (Canadian Press)
 LONDON, Oct. 29.—A proposal that English public school boys be sent to Canadian Universities as the first step towards their settlement in that country was discussed at the Imperial Institute. L. Jacks, headmaster of Mill Hill, one of the 16 public headmasters who visited Canada last Easter, said he came to the conclusion that there was an avenue into Canadian life for the English public school boy. There were real opportunities for English boys of sound physique, who were willing to work at anything that came their way. The boys must be prepared to become Canadians, and not Englishmen in Canada. After the boys had been trained at a Canadian University there should be openings for them in science as applied to industry and in law and medicine. Many people had been accustomed to regard Canada as a place for boys who wanted to farm, but he would not recommend a boy to be backed by a great deal of capital. The scheme for sending boys to Canada is being considered by two committees.
