The 6th Charlottetown Troop of the Holy Redeemer Church

A round of singing and games was then enjoyed by all present. Following this a campfire scene was staged, which proved very entertaining. One of the most interesting events of the evening was the investiture of Bernard McDonald into the Crow Patrol by the scoutmaster, Mr. Fred Driscoll. The honor flag, awarded to the patrol having the most points for the evening and which affords keen competition, was awarded to the Owl Patrol, under Patrol leader Dick Hennessey. The meeting closed with the National Anthem and Scout silence.

Zion Cubs

A real Wolf Cub feed was held in the kitchen of Zion Church on Tuesday last. Creamed potatoes with sausages proved very popular with these young wolves, who proved themselves to be real chefs and dishwashers. Twenty Cubs were there anxious to help their leaders and the Janitor who is very popular with the boys. After the meal, while several of the Cubs were cleaning up, the others had a sing song and played games, and were joined by the others when the work was done. The Cubs have decided to adopt a Family in P. E. I. and see that Santa Claus does not pass their chimney on Christmas Eve. The gifts are being brought to the next Wolf Cub meeting. On Monday next Neil McEneaney, Roy Whitlock, Philip Compton and Fulton Proud will be invited. The parents of these boys will be very welcome at this meeting.

MR. JOHN ALEX. MCBETH

John Alex McBeth departed this life at his home in Bellevue, Nov. 6th, 1932, aged 27 years and ten months, after 9 months of much suffering borne with rare christian patience. Leading an exemplary christian life from his youth he appeared in his sickness to be fast ripening for the heavenly home. As we mortals think and say his death was untimely, too early, but God knows infinitely best and we bow in resignation to His holy will.

For years he was a member of the Caledonia C. E. Society, a member in full fellowship in the congregation, taking a deep interest in all its work, doing what he could for the furtherance of the Kingdom of his Lord and Redeemer through his own church. One day as he neared the end of his life on earth, his devoted, sorrowing mother watching by his bedside asked him if he wanted anything. Yes he said, but I have to wait for it. Evidently meaning that he wanted to be for ever with his Lord. Shortly after that his minister parting with him after one of his pastoral visits, gently stroking his emaciated shoulder said to him the Lord will be with you dear John. The reply came clear and emphatic, "He is with me." The church militant can ill afford to lose bright, promising lives like that of John Alex. McBeth, especially in an age of declension like the present. It makes too big and prominent gaps in our ranks. Who will volunteer to step in? There are left to mourn a most dutiful son and beloved brother, his parents, two brothers, John Hughie and Kenneth, three sisters, Mrs. Mary Bell Morini, Boston, Mass.; Misses Effie Catherine and Jessie Margaret at home. The bearers were James and Beaton Stewart, A. McEachern, J. McLean Stewart, McPherson and W. R. McPhee. The funeral services, the largest seen in many years in Caledonia, testifying to the esteem in which he was held, were conducted at the home, the church and the grave by his Minister, Rev. Alister Murray. The interment was in Caledonia Cemetery until the trumpet shall sound and the dead in Christ shall rise first.

Address And Presentation To Mr. L. L. Jenkins

On the eve of his departure from North Wilshire to take up residence in Charlottetown Mr. L. L. Jenkins was waited upon by over 100 friends and neighbors from Wilshire, Darlington and Hampshire, and was presented with a case of silk handkerchiefs. Following was the text of the address:

"Dear Sir:

"We, your old friends and neighbors, meet with you here tonight, not merely to say good-by, but to let you know that we really will miss you. For over forty years this has been your home. During that time you have always freely given of your time and means to advance every modern improvement, and to give a helping hand in sickness and distress.

"For several years you were elected member for West Queens as our representative, and for at least four years of that time you had the high honour of being appointed Presiding Officer or Speaker of the House, duties which you very impartially performed.

"Over a year ago you had the misfortune of losing your dearly beloved wife; one who had endeared herself to every home in the district. This sore bereavement, along with a severe accident, has necessitated the selling of the old home and your removal to Charlottetown.

"In leaving we trust you will carry away fond memories of the people of North Wilshire.

"Kindly accept this token of remembrance, not for its value but just a way of showing our respect for you.

"And to you, Miss Holroyd, who have so very capably presided over this house for many months and made yourself so agreeable to all, please accept this gift."

(Signed on behalf of the citizens of North Wilshire.)
Mr. Jenkins, who was taken completely by surprise, made a suitable reply, in which he expressed deep appreciation of this fine token of his neighbors' affection and regard.

He pointed out, however, that he had no intention of saying "Good-bye," that he had spent forty of the happiest years of his life in North Wilshire and would always remain in touch with the community, personally or by correspondence, as long as he lived. His political career having been referred to, Mr. Jenkins said he was proud of the fact that he had always received the support, not only of Conservatives, but of some of the strongest Liberals in the District especially of the Hon. John Balderson, who was president of the Legislative Council for many years. Mr. Balderson had voted for Mr. Jenkins at every election during his lifetime, and his descendants were present on this occasion, a fact which gave Mr. Jenkins very great pleasure.

The remainder of the evening was enjoyably spent in card games and dancing.

Peasants Warned Against Hoarding

MOSCOW, Dec. 9.—Sharp warning to peasants against grain hoarding was issued today by the most powerful Soviet newspapers, Izvestia and Pravda, simultaneously with revelation of stiff sentences meted to a Kulak and his wife for slaying a Government grain collector.

The Kulak, or wealthy farmer, was sentenced to death, and his wife to 10 years' imprisonment for the killing. The Government agent went to the Village Belokolodsk, in Moscow Province, to seize grain the Kulak owed the Government. The latter attacked the president of the village Soviet and shot the agent. As a side issue, a village doctor who refused to treat the wounded official was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

The newspapers in leading editorials took cognizance of the possibility of widespread hoarding. They admitted the Government's grain collections, as a whole are so far "unsatisfactory," and said that such important producing regions as the Ukraine and Volga are still much behind. Only Moscow Province and the Tartar Republic, two relatively unimportant factors, have delivered their full quotas to the Government.

In an effort to improve collections elsewhere, the Government has just announced that privileges recently accorded Moscow Province and the Tartar Republic, will be extended to other regions. These privileges permit farmers to sell surplus grain in a private market as soon as they
