The pall-bearers were Judge McLeod, Neil McQuarrie, K. C., Thomas Robins, John McCallum, John Henderson, Artemas Leard. Remains were laid to rest at the cemetery in Bedouque.

—To night will be a red letter one in the history of Summerside. Fairlyland as one of the very strongest possible programmes will be shown. The headline is the famous dramatic subject which has been making such a hit in St. John during the past week. It is as good as going to a play you will say after seeing it. The opening scene shows the blacksmith at his work, while the contented and happy wife is watching him with pride in her fine dark eyes. The dark cloud on the horizon of the couple's happiness appears in the person of a young lord, who calls at the shop to have his horse attended to. The aristocrat immediately becomes enamored of the handsome young wife, who in turn is foolish enough to agree to meet him that evening at the end of the lane. The couple are tracked by the errand husband, who forces his rival to return to the shop and fight him. After an exciting struggle the aristocrat falls dead at the feet of the blacksmith as a result of a blow with a heavy hammer. The Grand Canyon of Arizona, is a magnificent picture, showing some glimpses of scenery that thousands spend hundreds of dollars and much valuable time to see. The Baffled Burglar, and The Smoking Chimney, are two comedy subjects that are calculated to make even the disinclined laugh. Don't miss tonight at Fairyland.
