The Greek Version. A young Greek merchant of Washington, who has been taking lessons in English from a private tutor, has so far advanced that his teacher recently introduced him to the beauties—and perplexities—of Shakespeare. He was instructed to read a passage several times until he had the ideas firmly fixed in his mind and then, closing the book, to put those ideas into his own English, following as closely as his memory permitted the author's text. He had read over a soliloquy of Othello's several times and was reproducing the Moor's somber thoughts with pretty fair approximation to the poet's words, but when he reached the last line, "Farewell, Othello's occupation's gone!" he stopped short, utterly at a loss. The original phrasing had quite escaped him. However, he had grasped the idea, for after a few seconds of frowning perplexity his brow cleared. "Ah, I haf eet!" he exclaimed. "Eet ees this: 'So long! Othello's lost hees jop!'"—New York Post.

A Trifler Caught. "I don't believe everything young men tell me," she said. "But you believe I tell you the truth when I say that you are the most beautiful girl I have ever seen, don't you?" "Why should I? You have probably said the same thing to many another girl." "No; I have never said that to any other girl." "Really?" "I swear it." "But will you think that in a year from now?" "It will depend on you." "Why should it depend on me?" "If you refuse me I shall continue to think you are beautiful. I always admire the things I can't have." "Oh, well, I shouldn't wish to have you admiring me if I were not yours, anyhow."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Mighty Nickels. "I know I ought to begin saving money against a rainy day," said a salaried man with a wife and two children, "but it's mighty hard. The best I can seem to do is to squeeze out a nickel here and there, and that hardly seems worth while."

How many more are there like that? And what do they expect the years will bring them? What of old age and what of the misfortunes that may come before age chills their blood, slows their hands and makes their steps lagged? Their trouble is that they underestimate the value of the nickels and the importance of making a beginning. A nickel is a little thing, sure enough, but twenty of them make a dollar. The commonest mistake, and the worst, is to forget that despised nickels and dimes are what make dollars.—Duluth Herald.

Golfer and Caster. A quaint match took place on a Shropshire (England) golf course between a golfer using the usual clubs and a ball and an angler with his rod and a two and a half ounce fishing weight. A large crowd watched, while the angler endeavored to get round the course in fewer casts than the golfer made strokes. The angler started favorite, and, of course, bunkers had no terrors for him. But he lost heavily on the longer holes, though some of his best casts were more than a hundred yards, and was well beaten on the round, taking 102 casts against his opponent's 87 strokes.

The Richest Country. This "richest country in the world" is this one of ours—the United States of America. There is no other country that can hold a candle to this. France is rich, Great Britain is rich, but the United States is richer than France and Great Britain combined, with many billions to spare.—New York American.

For New Pens. To "break in" a new pen point quickly dip it in ink and hold it in the flame of a lighted match for a second. Wipe and dry with a cloth and then it will hold ink as well as one much older.

Chilly Text. Mother—Tommy, what was the golden text at Sunday school today? Tommy (who lives in Alaska)—Let me see. Oh, yes! "Many are cold, but few are frozen."—Judge.

HE WHO LAUGHS LAST, ETC.

Showing That We're Not Always as Funny as We Think We Are.

Among the sitting passengers was a young fellow of twenty perhaps. He was with a young woman, who seemed much impressed by his flow of slangy humor. Directly in front of him stood a somewhat carelessly dressed young man. Presently the exuberant one looked up. "Say," he said to the other young man, "tell th' lady she can have my seat."

The other young man touched the woman's arm and pointed to the polite sifter. But the latter had his gaze fixed on an advertising card and gave no heed. The other young man touched him on the shoulder. "Why don't you give th' lady th' seat?" he asked. "The smarty looked up in feigned surprise. "Why should I give her my seat?" he mildly asked. "An' what business is it of yours?"

The other young man hesitated and then turned to the woman. "He's changed his mind, ma'am," he said, and the woman, her face red, resumed her hold on the nearest strap.

The young woman on the seat let out an explosive giggle, but the young man who was standing made no comment. A little later, however, when the car went round a curve he fell heavily on the cutup, his shoulder colliding sharply with the funny lad's prominent nose and his elbow digging him savagely in the diaphragm. There were tears in the cutup's eyes, and he massaged his battered nose with a gentle hand.

"You done that a-purpose," he spluttered. "I've a good mind to knock your block off."

The other young man bent down until his face was offensively near the face of his victim. "You're a great little joker," he said, "an', of course, you're only jokin' when you talk about knockin' 'em the block."

He put his face still closer. "I'm something of a joker myself," he said, "an' there are two more curves on th' road."

PROSPECTUS OF THE Glenaladale Silver Black Ox Company, Limited

CAPITALIZATION $300,000 SHARES $25.00 EACH

Directors PRESIDENT—JOHN J. McDONALD Merchant, Tracadie Cross, P. E. I. VICE-PRESIDENT—JOSEPH EGAN Farmer, Scotchfort, P. E. I.

SECRETARY-TREASURER—MAJOR C. MCKINNON Farmer, Real Estate and Trader, Glenaladale, P. E. I. RANCH MANAGER—ARTHUR W. MCKINNON Farmer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

WILLIAM HENRY TOWNSEND General Contractor, Rollo Bay, P. E. I.

INTRODUCTION The Glenaladale Silver Black Ox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs —All young foxes—good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of the year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals. The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching before a company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

NOTICE When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such a company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

FOX DIVIDENDS DECLARED TO DATE.

Table with 4 columns: No. of Skins, Kind, Price, and Average. Rows include Silver, Damaged, and various other categories with prices ranging from $210 to $600.

These figures may be verified by E. C. enquiry to Messrs. C. M. Lamspon & Company, 64 Queen Street, London, to have been paid by some of the (companies as stated by one of the Charlottetown daily newspapers 1913.

Table with 4 columns: Ranch, Authorized Capital, Cash Dividend, and Per Cent. Lists various ranches like Bunbury, Spring Park, Peerless, etc., with their respective financial details.

SHARES Shares are selling at $25.00 each; 20 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914. Simply fill out the application from and mail to Major C. McKinnon Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale.

A POINTER Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you. We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes. This is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per pair it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we should have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

APPLICATION FORM. I hereby subscribe for _____ Shares in "THE GLENALADALE SILVER BLACK FOX COMPANY, LIMITED," and agree to pay 25 per cent. on application; the balance to be paid on or before September 1st, 1914.
