—DEATH OF MR. GEORGE T. PICKERING—It was with sincere regret that news of the death of Mr. George T. Pickering was heard of the sudden passing of Mr. George T. Pickering, at his home on Convent Street on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Pickering had been in poor health for some time but was about as usual and had been down to Borden on Sunday. On his return he went to the bath to look after his horse and then attended the furnace. He came upstairs and was warming himself over the register when he took a sudden stroke and expired. Mr. Pickering was born at Sherbrooke in 1872 and was the son of the late William and Carolyn Pickering. For many years Mr. Pickering farmed at Sherbrooke, but ill health caused him to give up the farm and he moved to Summerside where he and his family have since resided. Mr. Pickering was of a retiring disposition but made many friends who will extend sympathy to his wife and family in their sudden bereavement. There are left to mourn besides his widow (formerly Miss Mildred Phillips); three daughters, Mrs. Alfred E. Colwell, Northern; Mrs. N. Compton, St. Leonards; Jean at home, and one son, William, also at home. The funeral will be held at the Presbyterian Church this afternoon at two o'clock. — S.

Spencer Tracy In 'Stanley and Livingstone'

One of the greatest human stories and greatest adventures known to man is that of the missionary and explorer, Dr. Livingstone, who gave his life in the cause of humanity in the dark continent of Africa. The story is told in the picture "Stanley and Livingstone", which opened last night at the Capitol Theatre. The picture has the approval of the packed house. Spencer Tracy in the role of Henry M. Stanley, crack reporter of the Century Magazine, is superb. Darryl F. Zanuck's production is a true and authentic story of this great adventure.

The film was written by his publisher, James Gordon Bennett of the Herald to give the story of Livingstone. The film shows Stanley first as he was in 1869, a hard-boiled reporter of bulldog tenacity who will risk his neck to get his story.

It follows him through all the thrills and dangers of his great adventure and shows with great dramatic force his influence on his meeting and subsequent friendship with the great missionary explorer, Stanley, who had buried himself in the heart of unknown Africa to serve humanity. For when Livingstone died, young Stanley picked up the torch and became one of the greatest men of his day.

The chief romantic interest of the story is carried by Nancy Kelly, as the lovely daughter of the English agent at Zanzibar, and Richard Greene, as the son of Lord Tyce. Walter Brennan is grand as the old Indian scout who accompanies Stanley; Charles Coburn is splendid as Lord Tyce, the pompous publisher of the London Globe; Sir Cedric Hardwicke offers a truly great portrayal of Dr. Livingstone; Henry Hull brings James Gordon Bennett back to vivid life; and Henry Travers is superb as the English consul agent in unknown Africa has aged before his time.

Three years in the making, much of the film was shot in the actual locale in Africa.

Sudden Death Of Mrs. Cotton At St. Eleanor's

Friends were shocked and grieved yesterday to learn of the death of Mrs. Harry Cotton, who has passed very suddenly at her home in St. Eleanor's, Monday morning. Mrs. Cotton had not been feeling well and was preparing to come into Summerside to see a doctor when she suddenly collapsed and passed away almost at once. Mrs. Cotton had a charming personality, pitiable and kind and her passing will be a great loss not only to her family but to her neighbours and friends. Mrs. Cotton was 61 years of age and was born in St. Nicholas on June 6th, 1878. Her maiden name was Ida Bearlato and she was kindly remembered by many friends in St. Nicholas. She leaves to mourn her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Norman Wood, Tryon, three sons, Gordon in Charlottetown, Archibald in the Canadian Artillery at Halifax, also one step-son, Miss Sophie Bearlato, Cambridge, Mass., to whom the deepest sympathy is extended. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon from her late residence to the Peoples Cemetery, Summerside. — S.

PRAGUE

"I was standing so near I could see the faces of the students at the shattered windows. Guns but they boys must have had. They hadn't a very very few. They hadn't a chance.

"It was magnificent but crazy. They tumbled down desks and cupboards on their backs and the machine-guns of the armored cars spurted into action.

"It took the steel-helmeted Nazis two hours to take the building. The students fought from floor to floor. About 30 were shot and injured before they were over-powered and the flag was torn down.

"Eighteen more students were identified by the Nazi professors as ringleaders and were shot on the spot.

"The armored cars and lorries then had to be used to break up angry crowds who dragged down a Nazi motorcycle scout and kicked him to death.

"The demonstrations soon began all over the city. Despite the rigid curfew order, despite bullets, singing crowds headed by women and children in many instances paraded the streets.

"As soon as the Gestapo broke up one group another formed. Czech police refused to act against the people and have been dismissed. The police chiefs were shot in Prague alone.

"The informant said that next day the crash of shells drowned machine-gun fire. The Germans were using light guns to shift rifles from some of the narrow streets and the working class quarters of the capital."

spectacular, attractive and educational exhibition ever to be held in Canada.

"This year a total of seventeen silver trophies are up for competition. They include one from the Government of New Brunswick for the grand champion fox of the show. Last year's winner was W. B. McArthur of Kensington.

Another cup, donated by the City of Charlottetown, for the senior hunt went to Stewart & Lewis, Summerside. They were winners, too, of a cup donated by the then Lieutenant Governor of the Province, George D. DeBios. It is for the best sire and three of his get.

Other trophies are donated by commercial houses. One is from the Canadian National Bank. The Breders' Association for the champion male pup, Walter in 1938 was Roy Woodside, Malpeque.

Big event of the show from a social point of view is the foxmen's banquet Wednesday night.

Trial Ends As Jury Is Discharged

WINNIPEG, Nov. 20 (CP)—"Trial of eight men charged with conspiracy to defraud the federal government ended abruptly here today when Mr. Justice A. K. Dwyer announced he would discharge the jury because one of the jurors had violated his oath.

Justice Dwyer's announcement closed the trial of William Wolcott, Sam Armour, Frank McGill, Ned and Ben Balakowski and Eugene Cass, and Jules Mourant, who are accused of conspiracy to defraud the Dominion government of $100,000 by operating an illicit liquor still at Prairie Grove, Man.

The eight defendants will be held in custody until new bail bonds can be arranged. The case will be re-tried in the spring assizes.

In announcing his intention to discharge the jury, Justice Dwyer said that a week-end investigation had revealed that jurymen D. I. Thompson, Winnipeg electric contractor, had violated his oath by discussing the case with an outsider and making known his intention.

The members of the C. W. L. had the honor of having their Diocesan President, Mrs. Leslie Ramsay, Indian River, speak to them on Sunday, November 12th.

Mrs. Ramsay's talk was mostly on C. W. L. work and the importance of unity and good fellowship among the members. They should do their utmost to combat Communism and all other isms. Mrs. Ramsay deplored the fact that there is such a lack of modesty or decency in the most of the magazines and even in some of the books found in the public libraries. They should try to distribute among their members some good decent reading material. The formation of Study Clubs to educate people to the menace of the present day, was also dealt with and in conclusion she urged them to do all they could to assist the Red Cross work. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Ramsay by the chairman, Miss Annie O'Connor for her interesting talk which was enjoyed by all present.

City, Kings, York, Albert, Queens and Resignations.

Three members of the cabinet were defeated. Hon. A. F. Paterson, minister of education, federal and municipal relations, and Hon. E. J. Henneberry, president of the Executive Council, left out in Saint John City. Attorney-General J. B. McNair was defeated in York.

Agriculture Minister A. C. Taylor was returned in Westmorland by a wide majority. In Northumberland, Hon. W. B. Anderson, Minister of Public Works, was successful in his contest for re-election. Hon. F. W. Pirie, minister of lands and mines, was returned in Victoria, and the fourth cabinet minister to be re-elected, in addition to Premier Dwyer, was Provincial Secretary, Treasurer Hon. C. H. Blakeney, Speaker of the last House, was elected in Moncton City.

Main Issue

The Government's record during the last four and a half years was the main issue in the campaign. The Conservatives campaigned on a "No more taxes" platform, particularly attacking the Government for alleged extravagance.

Both parties affirmed the loyalty and co-operation of the loyalists with the Dominion and Empire in prosecution of the war. Premier Dwyer stated the election was called this fall so that war organization work would not be interrupted by the coming of an early summer of next year, when the Government's term of office would have expired.

He declared the Government's future agricultural policy would be based largely on the Empire's war needs.

In his manifesto the Premier promised further efforts to secure new industries and to aid those engaged in the mining industry. Improvements in various public services also were stated as part of the government's policy for the future.

Small Vote

It was estimated that only about 45 per cent of the eligible voters turned out today in Saint John City where W. Grant Smith, Conservative, led the poll with 9,176.

J. C. Arrowsmith, the first Co-Operative Commonwealth candidate in a candidate to appear in New Brunswick, never was seriously in the running in Saint John City as votes were counted. He polled 702.

The only other candidate in addition to Conservatives and Liberals was Wilfrid Verret, an Independent Liberal in Madawaska. He also trailed in the returns, getting 568 votes. E. P. Nadeau, Liberal, led the Madawaska polls with 5,766.

Prominent among the elected Conservatives, in addition to Lewis Smith in Albert, is David Stewart, formerly a Minister of Public Works. He received 5,204 votes in Restigouche, leading the other three candidates.

OUTLAW SEA

moved from the war zones. Drifting with wind and currents, such mines could wander the seas for years, a peril to vessels rendered them harmless.

The Hague rules provide that unanchored mines must be exploded on contact, may be used by warning sea powers, but only if so safeguarded as to become harmless within an hour after they are anchored. A clause permitting short-lived mines was inserted to meet a special condition of warfare. It is designed to cover the case of "floaters" or "torpedoes" which are fitted with a stronger energy in close pursuit.

Floating mines, dumped overboard by the fleeing craft, offer an hour's warning to the pursuers. The pursuers would not dare close in from directly astern if they knew that floating mines might be awaiting them.

The Hague rules require that such "unanchored automatic contact mines" must be fitted to sink or become harmless within an hour after the "person" who laid them "cases to control them."

Anchored mines must be fitted with devices to sink them or disconnect their contact firing mechanism as soon as they go adrift. A torpedo must be similarly fitted to become harmless when it reaches the end of its run without hitting anything.

The Hague articles further provide, in any case, that contact mines shall not be laid "of the coast and ports of the enemy, with the sole object of intercepting commercial shipping." They require that "every precaution" be taken "for the safety of peaceful shipping" in the Hague conventions.

Stricken By Heart Attack At Polling Booth

MONCTON, N. B., Nov. 20 (CP)—Stricken, apparently by a heart attack, as he was about to enter a polling booth to cast his ballot in today's Provincial Election, Rev. Dr. H. R. Boyer, 61 died before a doctor could reach him.

Previously he had shown no sign of serious illness. He conducted services as usual in Main Street Baptist Church yesterday.

Born at East Florenceville N. B., a son of Edward and Grace (Boyes) Boyer, Henry Rosebrook Boyce became one of the most prominent Baptist clergymen in the Maritime Provinces.

He received his early education at the Fredericton public schools and the University of New Brunswick, where he finished in arts before leaving for Newton Theological College, Newton, Mass. At Newton he received the degree of bachelor of divinity, and later the degree of master of sacred theology from Acadia University.

During his student days he preached in various places in this Province. His first pastorate was at the pulpit of the First Free Baptist Church at East Cambridge, Mass., 1893-11.

Returning to New Brunswick he was pastor at Fairville, a suburb of Saint John, remaining there until 1914.

Dr. Boyer then retired from pastoral work to become secretary of the Canadian Auxiliary, British and Foreign Bible Society, his territory embracing the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland.

In 1919 he returned to a menial duty as minister of the Baptist Temple Church, Halifax. During that year he was appointed a member of the Nova Scotia representative on the Canadian Bible Society Board. He had served on other boards of the Church.

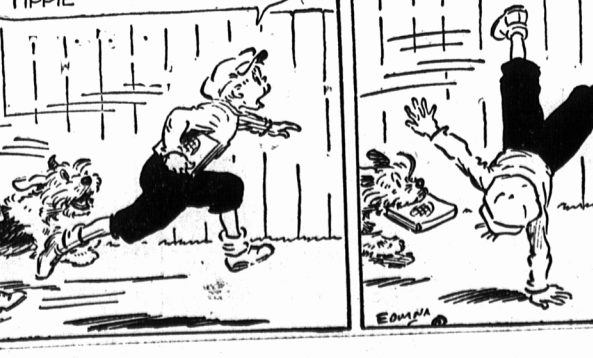

In 1901 Dr. Boyer married Ada Major Turner. She died two years ago.

One out of six deaths among men between 20 and 40 is caused by tuberculosis.
