In Memoriam

MRS. PERCY POPE

There passed to her eternal rest on Sept. 12th of this year in the Charlotte Residence an honorable and gracious lady in the person of Mrs. Percy Pope — a woman of keenest discernment and the highest intellectual attainments, widely read in all that was best in literature.

She was born Mary Louise MacGowan, daughter of Mr. John MacGowan of Gowan Brae, Prince Edward Island, and his wife, formerly Jane MacCallum of St. Peter's Bay, Prince Edward Island. Other children were her brothers, Daniel Hodgson MacGowan, Stainforth MacGowan and Mrs. Thomas Morris, all deceased.

Her husband, Mr. Percy Pope, for many years Assistant Receiver General for Prince Edward Island, died some years ago. Of their children Mrs. M. D. Sheehan was drowned while fishing on a lake in Maine in 1939 and another daughter, Mrs. M. Farrer Cochrane, died in Ottawa in 1915. Their son, Mr. Percy Pope, resides in Charlottetown. One grandchild, Mrs. John Arnold of Sydney, Cape Breton, and two step-grandchildren Mr. Robert Sheehan of the United States Diplomatic Service, stationed in Sicily, and Mrs Arthur Morrill of Washington, D. C., survive.

Mrs. Pope's funeral was held from the residence of Mrs. Geo. J Rogers to Sherwood cemetery on Friday, Sept. 14th, Rev. Canon Malone conducting the service. The pall-bearers were Hon. George D. DeBlois, Major T. E. MacNutt, and Messrs. W. H. V. Dunbar, D. A MacKinnon, H. A. Messervey and J. A. Webster.

Baha'i Educational Seminar Continues

Mrs. Robert Lee Moffett of Chicago states that, "The confused conditions of the post-war world constitute the greatest challenge man has ever known and call for the best thought that one can give. The greater the number of informed citizens of the world the quicker and less painful will be the necessary international adjustments."

Professor Hutchins of the University of Chicago said, "We are now facing World Suicide or World Unity and there is no time to lose." To help meet the crying need for better world understanding a Baha'i Educational Seminar is being conducted in this city, the general title of which is "Patterns of the New World Order." The third course of consecutive lectures relating to the spiritual solution of individual and world problems, begins Sunday, December 2, at 8.30 p m , and continues daily at 3, 7 and 8.30 p.m. for two weeks.

There will be two panel discussions on world topics with several interesting speakers and some illustrated lectures during this course.

Wendell Wilkie has stated, "Our way of living together is a strong but delicate fabric. It is made of many threads. It has been woven over many centuries by the patience and sacrifice of countless liberty-loving men and women. Let us not tear it asunder. For no man knows, once it is destroyed, where or when man will find its protective warmth again." Because of the great world emergency there will be a prayer service each afternoon between 3 and 4 p.m Fervent prayer is the greatest need of the world to-day

There will be a radio broadcast on "Patterns of the New World Order" over CFCY each Sunday at 3 15 p.m.

It is a rare privilege for Prince Edward Island to have a world traveller and educator with the rich experience of Mrs. Robert Lee Moffett of Chicago, who is conducting this Educational Seminar at the Queen Hotel

Our Northern Land

(Written more than 30 years ago)

God bless our Northern Land:
Firm we will ever stand,
To guard it sure.
May peace with us e'er be,
And dwell from sea to sea,
Among a people free,
And reign secure.

But should a foreign foe,
With hostile spear and bow,
Our land invade;
Shades of our patriot dead,
Whom Brock the hero led,
Inspire our martial tread,
And whet our blade.

We love the Union Jack;
It's wave dispels the black
Harsh despot's sway.
For British laws we'll cheer,
For Canada ne'er fear;
We're growing year by year,
And day by day.

THE SIXTH

On November 7th, the first Court of Honor of the Troop since it returned to the Holy Redeemer Hall was held at the home of the Scoutmaster.

At the meeting it was decided to reorganize the patrols in the Troop Troop since there were several boys wishing to join the Troop. Instead of having three Patrols in the Troop, there shall be four Patrols, each of which will include a membership of no more than six for the present. The Scout chosen by the Court of Honor to lead the new Patrol was Lawrence Gauthier who has been in the Sixth Troop for more than 2 1-2 years, and who has a very good record in the Troop. The names of the other Patrol Leaders in the Troop are John Walker, Don Bruce, and Alf Hennessey. The T L. is James Gauthier

It was decided by the Court of Honor that the proceeds which the Troop has received from Apple Day will go for the procuring of new uniforms for the Scouts in the Troop.

Several good laws regarding the behaviour, progress and attendance of the boys in the Troop were passed at this meeting.

It was decided also that the Court of Honor will meet once a month at the B.I.R.C.H Club to discuss matters pertaining to the welfare of the Troop.

The new slate of Officers for the Sixth's Court of Honor for the coming year is as follows: Hon. Pres. F J Costello, Hon. Vice-Pres L J MacDonald, Pres John Walker, Vice-Pres Don Bruce, Sec Allan MacDonald, Executive: Alf Hennessey, Lawrence Gauthier, Harold B'so, Lloyd DeRoche

Meeting Of Citizens Reception Committee

A meeting of the Citizens' Reception Committee was held in the City Hall Thursday night, with a good attendance. Business of a routine nature was discussed, and tentative plans made for the entertainment of service men early in the spring, when, it is hoped, the large majority will have arrived home, and received their discharges.

The Treasurer's report showed that the funds of the Committee were steadily growing less, and ways and means of increasing the balance were discussed.

Each night at least two members of the Committee meet the train. Frequently boys arrive, eager to reach their homes, and taxis must be hired to take them there, whether a long or short distance. It was pointed out that when the roads are no longer passable for cars, that particular expense would be eliminated, but it was brought to the attention of the chairman that when that happened it would be necessary to secure hotel accommodation for boys who could not reach their home. This procedure would also require funds.

Citizens who have not subscribed to this fund, and would care to do so, may send their subscriptions to the treasurer, Mr. W S MacLeod, National Employment Service Oddfellows Bldg, City.

Suggests Selective Sterilization Plan

REGINA, Nov. 29 — (CP) — A recommendation that selective sterilization be considered for mentally defective patients unfit for parenthood was among several proposals for the care and treatment of mentally ill, deficient and handicapped people in Saskatchewan advanced today by Dr. C.M. Hincks of Toronto, general director of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene (Canada).

"There is special indication for sterilization in connection with physically attractive moron girls prior to their discharge from the residential school," said Dr. Hincks in a report prepared for Saskatchewan's Health Minister, Premier T. C. Douglas.

About 17,000 persons, or two per cent of Saskatchewan's population are mentally deficient, and require specialized attention.

By an Island Farmer's Wife

leggy Heron primped or fished there. It was indeed as Madame Squirrel had just remarked "kind of a lonesome time of year."

The plowing at Alderlea was finished this week, this fact exceeding even my most wishful hopes, considering the lateness of the season. All day today—November 24th.—Jock kept at this work in the field below the houses, and beside the pond, where the turnips and "that acre" of potatoes grew. Many Island farmers worked at last scraps of work today,: manure spreading, plowing, threshing, potato-shipping, or perhaps at banking the house and barns, in preparation for the snowy days to come. Days, there were this last week, when rain and flurries of snow came to suspend these operations and streams and ponds were muddy troubled places and the water down at the over-flow was increased so that there was a tumult of sound from that escaping. An anniversary came to the family and I recalled the day Jeanie crossed the lane bridge, leaving all other like structures behind her, entering into a new and charming phase of life. She left a class room behind, but not I would say completely forgotten, for farm life is enriched because of the memories and experience gained there. These too, coming from the cares of public life, makes one more fully enjoy, the blessings, the security and the independence of life on a farm. Discomforts there are to be sure, as in every walk or calling but when farm folk stop to "count blessings" they find much to balance the scales in their favor. I, myself had cause to remember a first day in school at a country cross roads, when a man from that vicinity came visiting to Alderlea, one day this week, the same gentleman who built the house across the lane smaller than this "rugged pile" but more compact. A busy yet interesting Summer came back to mind while we chatted, a summer in which I found that he possessed more than a touch of genius in his make-up, his good fairy having gifted him at birth, with a liking and a reverence for working with wood. There were evenings recently which James and I spent pleasantly by the fire, slippered, with the Radio and Tabby, while pre-winter winds threatened and rain pattered down the panes. One afternoon, the sound and sight of the latter faded away—as well as the world at large and every care and anxiety was forgotten when a household slept.

Rob left his family of two with us one evening and Jamie stretched out on the couch fell fast asleep while I read "tories" to him, and there were occasions when Pard and I were left alone and I drew the arm-chair nearer the fire and read, so that the time flew past and in a short space, it seemed, my wanderer's returning footsteps were on the porch. It was the "Walkin' Preacher of the Ozarks" that held my attention, a book James and I are sharing. It is an autobiography of the writer, Guy Woward. A Minister, he tells of his work and life among the simple mountain folk, who after all are not so simple but shrewd, kindly and mainly good people. The author, became a widower early in the story, having left his young wife, the mother of his three, back home in an Iowa country churchyard, "Madge" was her name. After a number of lonely years, he became interested in (ahha!) a school ma'am in the hill country. One night this fair maiden accompanied him on foot to his speaking appointment. He tells it: "The four mile trail back through the wooded hills was illuminated by a rich harvest moon. The night was almost as light as day. At the crest of a ridge, we paused and stood in silent admiration of the scene that stretched below us." Then he continues: "I turned . . . and took her in my arms and whispered: 'Mary Louise, will you share these hills, these people and this work with me?' She replied with the age-old yet ever new and extremely satisfying response, for which men waited and continue to wait down every year of time quoting the significant words softly: 'Whither thou goest, I will go thy people shall be my people and thy God my God.'

Until tomorrow—Diary — Good night.

Accused Nazis Shown Films Of Terror Spots

Former German Overlords View Scenes With Mixed Reactions.

By DANIEL DE LUCE

NUERNBERG, Nov. 29 — (AP) — Twenty Nazi overlords viewed films of the horrors of German concentration camps with reactions ranging from tears to curt indifference at the Nuernberg war crimes trial today.

Fat Hermann Goering, mirthful earlier in the day, sat soberly. Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel wiped his mouth with a white handkerchief and stalked quickly from the courtroom.

The one-hour showing of the shocking pictures of starved, beaten and dead victims of Nazi persecutions followed the reading into the court record of Goering's threats and exultations in the Nazi seizure of Austria in 1933. Goering had been convulsed with laughter repeatedly as the transcript of his telephone conversations at that time was read by the prosecution.

Walter Funk, former Minister of Economics, brushed tears from the fleshy pockets under his eyes as he watched the films.

Unnerved by the show, the former Governor-General of Poland, Hans Frank, sat huddled in his seat without lifting his head for 10 minutes.

Rudolf Hess, the former No. 2 Deputy Fuehrer appearing more alert to his surroundings than on any occasion since the start of the trial, wiped his sweating palms.

Hjalmar Schacht, his pinch-penny mouth drawn to a narrow line, refused to look at any of the scenes, taken from official American documentary filmings at such terror spots as Dachau, Buchenwald and Belsen. Franz von Papen also refused to look.

Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, German Navy commander in chief, glanced only occasionally at the screen.

Not only Goering but others of the defendants grinned and laughed as Sidney Alderman, assistant United States prosecutor, disclosed the threats, bluffs and deceit with which Hitler softened up Austria for his unopposed invasion.

Goering was described as the man who directed by telephone the lightning invasion of Austria after Nazis in that country paved the way by deposing Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg.

The transcripts were introduced as evidence that Goering was successful in having Arthur Seyss-Inquart, also now on trial, installed as Austria's Chancellor, and that Goering dictated the telegram in which German troops were invited by Seyss-Inquart into Austria.
