WANTED TIME FOR THOUGHT.
 Arduous Duties Before the Head of the House Required His Entire Attention.
 The baby was ill, and the doctor ordered that he be taken to the sea. This involved the closing of the house until the little one should be well enough to return. After the wife had secured hotel accommodations by the long-distance telephone, the man of the house went to his room and slowly and thoughtfully spread the entire contents of his wardrobe upon his bed, that they might be convenient for his wife to pack.
 He stood surveying them, deep in meditation, when his wife came into the room and began to speak to him. He raised his hand rebukingly. "Don't talk to me now, Susie, don't talk to me! I have a great deal on my mind. If we are going to the seashore day after to-morrow there are many things to be done, and I must plan."
 His wife, who had already telephoned the butcher, milkman, baker, grocer, expressman and ticket office, and given the maid a month's vacation and arranged with a relative for the care of the dog, gazed at him in silence.
 "A great deal on my mind," he repeated. Then the interrogative nature of his wife's silence forced him to explain.
 "You see," he said, "I have got to put a nail in the cellar window and stop the newspaper."—Youth's Companion.

PECULIAR IDEAS OF AUTHORS.
 Varying Conditions Under Which the World's Great Writers Did Their Best Work.
 Alexander Pope, who was the literary pontiff of his time, thought best when in bed. Whenever a thought came to him he would jot it down on a scrap of paper. His servant often found bedclothes and floor covered with white bits containing aphorisms which have now become hackneyed quotations.
 Victor Hugo wrote "Les Miserables" standing up, an attitude which Hawthorne also assumed when he wrote many of his romances.
 One leg thrown over the arm of a chair or sitting on the arm of his secretary's chair were Napoleon's favorite positions while dictating to Bourrienne, a position which he varied now and then by patting that scribe on the head or pulling his ears.
 Sir Walter Scott could while reclining on a lounge dictate to two amanuenses, who frequently had to stop writing, so funny the dictated passages seemed to them.
 William Morris made one of his famous translations from the Greek while riding on the steam cars. Walt Whitman and Horace Traubel, original in all things, were most original in the position they took while thinking. They were wont, so Mr. Traubel says, to climb upon a pile of lumber and lie down upon their backs. In that way each found out what the other's best thoughts were.

Coming Down Easy.
 Inquiries after the welfare of Patrick Conroy were answered by his devoted friend, Terence Dolan, who was at the Conroy's in the double capacity of nurse and cook. "No, he's not dangerously hurt at all," was Mr. Dolan's reply to a solemnly whispered question at the door.
 "We heard he had a bad fall and was all broke to pieces," whispered the neighbor.
 "Tis a big story you've heard," said Mr. Dolan, in his cheerful roar. "Thru, he fell off'n the roof of the Brady stables, where he was shingling and he broke his lift leg, knocked out a couple of teeth and broke his collarbone."
 "Mind ye, if he'd have fell clear to the ground it might have hurted him bad, but sure there was a big pile of shingles and old lumber that broke his fall."—Youth's Companion.

Be Amiable and Retain Youth.
 As a charming woman once said: "To remain always young one must be always amiable." A melancholy face, a sullen, an evil look, is like coming in contact with winter; whereas a serene face, a gracious air, a kind and good expression, is like a spring day, and a smile on the lips like its sunshine. Sulky people, you may have remarked, always appear to be ten years older than they are. The face grows wrinkled from contracting the brows; the mouth projects disagreeably when sulking. Behold beside the portrait of the sullen woman the picture of the sweet and gracious woman; all her features are in repose, her lips form an adorable Cupid's bow, kindness softens her glance and goodness illuminates her brow. Perhaps she is the elder, but she will always appear young and charming.

The Ill-Natured Man.
 The ill-natured man, though but of equal parts with the good-natured man, gives himself a larger field to expatriate in. He exposes those failings in human nature which the other would cast a wall over; laughs at vices which the other either excuses or conceals; falls indifferently upon friends or enemies; exposes the person who has obliged him; and, in short, sticks at nothing that may establish his character of a wit.

Back to Earth.
 "Every cloud has a silver lining," said the ready-made philosopher.
 "Yes," answered Miss Cayenne.
 "The clouds are all right. But how about pocketbooks?"

Good Bread

is the keystone to the structure of health. It means vigor, bone and muscle to your growing children. It means nutrition to the whole family. But you cannot make good bread out of indifferent flour, no matter how you treat it, no matter how proficient you may be in baking. In her desire to make a loaf that looks and tastes well, the housewife is tempted to use flour that is almost devoid of gluten—the rich, strengthening constituent of flour that makes bread the staff of life.

"Beaver" Flour

alone—of all the flours on the market—makes a loaf that is rich in nutrition, and at the same time is white, light, pleasing to the palate. The reason is simple. "BEAVER FLOUR" is milled in carefully balanced proportions from the Manitoba Spring wheat and the Ontario Fall wheat—one with its powerfully nourishing qualities, the other with those properties which make the bread attractive to the eye and taste.

"BEAVER FLOUR" makes equally successful biscuits, cakes and pastry. One flour accomplishes all the requirements of baking, saving trouble, expense and uncertainty as to results. Try it. You will quickly appreciate its superiority. All the best grocers keep it.

Make Your Newspaper Advertising Profitable

Newspaper advertising costs too much for experimenting. It is mistaken economy to try it today and stop it tomorrow. The wheels of business should never stop and the whole machine is out of gear unless the big advertising wheel is always turning. A constant ad works all the time and charges no overtime.

You'll admit that the newspaper is the greatest medium of advertising, and if "any old kind" of advertising pays haven't you every reason to believe that with the attention of specialists your advertising would prove much more profitable. Advertising is our business—we know how to analyse your goods, to pick out their strong selling points, we understand the class of people you are catering to, then we prepared the advertising in an interesting "catchy" way that will beget confidence. With all we give the printer a design to follow—showing how to lay out the ads so that they will "stand out" from other ads—that will be attractive. The same as an architect gives plans for a building.

This service is a combination of newspapers and advertising specialists—the strongest forces known today in the mercantile world.

And, then, the very fact of our carrying a large list of clients enables us to quote merchants prices that would not permit them to even waste their time if they were specialists in advertising.

No advertising or printed matter too large or small to receive our attention—when you think of advertising, think of us. We'll take pleasure in quoting prices. Phone 123.
