Another Day of Intolerable Heat In Toronto

(Special to The Guardian)

TORONTO, July 5—One more intolerable day with the birds panting with open bills and business men, even, experimenting with bare feet for relief, wrapped the city in its heavy humid volcanic heat. At noon the weatherman whose office is perhaps the coolest place with the exception of ice storage, issued the official temperature as 93 degrees in the shade and, somewhat despondent himself, today announced that the best he could do was stationary or a little lower temperature with no rain of any account in sight.

"THEIR NAME LIVETH FOREVERMORE"

Canada's Premier Unveils The Cross of Sacrifice at Historic Vimy Ridge.

VIMY RIDGE, France, July 3.—Hard by Thelus where stupendous French industry despite the magnitude of the task and despite this year's almost unexampled drought has turned the blasted and bleached surface of the ridge to fresh greens of growth, and mellowy yellows of an oncoming harvest, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, premier of Canada, this morning unveiled the cross of sacrifice, erected in the cemetery where rest hundreds of Canadian dead, who fell at the capture of this famous height four years ago. The site of the monument is distinguished. It crowns the ridge and looking west across the valley one sees the white tower of the church of St. Eloi, westward stretches the gentle slope of Douai plain, the cemetery is but one of hundreds dotting the whole countryside which when completed will be places of pilgrimage and devotion for generations to come. Here, mingled in dust officers and rankers, English, Scotch, Canadians Australians and South Africans, beneath uniform headstones, under the shadow of St. Reginald Bloomfield's magnificent cross of sacrifice and the Massey stone of remembrance, both exquisite in line and proportion, worthy memorials of the immortals below. Some of the cemeteries are completed and when the whole great task is accomplished, the result will be one which the British people may well regard with pride. This morning's ceremony was held, while the church bells in nearby villages were summoning the faithful to mass. It was befitting solemn setting. Number present which included the chairman of the Imperial War Graves commission, General Sir Fabian Ware, commander of the British troops in France, the French general commanding the Arras division, the prefect of Pas De Calais, the Mayors of surrounding towns and villages, and a number of British and Canadian visitors stood with bowed heads and Premier Meighen, who with more emotion than is his wont, delivered the oration.

His address afterwards repeated in French, followed:

"The Great War is past. The war that tried through and through every quality and mystery of human mind and might of human spirit; the war that closed, we hope forever, the long story of the arbitratment of men's differences by force.

"The last clash and crash of earth's millions is over now. There can be heard only the sporadic conflicts, the moan of prostrate nations, the cries of the bereaved, and desolate, the struggling of exhausted peoples to rise and stand and move onward.

"We live among the ruins and echoes of Armageddon. Its shadow is receeding backward into history.

"At this time the proper occupation of the living is first, to honor the dead; next to repair the havoc human and material that surrounds us, and lastly to learn a right and apply with courage the lessons of the war.

"Here in the heart of Europe we meet to unveil the memorial to our country's dead. In the earth which has resounded to the drums and the tramplings of many contests, these rest in the quiet of God's acre, with the brave of all the world. At death they sheathed their hearts' sword of devotion and now from oft stricken fields they held aloft the cross of sacrifice mutely beckoning to those who would share their immortality.

"France lives and France is free and Canada is better because she did something worth while to help free France to live. In many hundreds of plots throughout these hills and valleys all the way from Flanders to Pickardy, lie fifty thousand of our dead. Their resting places have been dedicated to their memory forever by the kindly and grateful heart of France and will be tended and cared for by us in the measure of love we bear them.

"Around and over all are being planted the maple trees of Canada. In thought her sons will rest the better under the trees which they knew so well in life. Across the leagues of the Atlantic the heart strings of our Canadian nation will reach through all time to these graves in France. We shall never let pass away the spirit bequeathed to us by those who fell—THEIR NAME LIVETH FOR EVER MORE."

P. E. I. Light Horse Made Fine Showing At Inspection

The crisis arrived yesterday for the Island Cavalry when Major General Thacker, C. B., C. M. G., D. S. O., G. O. C. District No. 6 inspected the unit. The regiment paraded at 2.15 in Victoria Park. Personal inspection was made of each man and horse before the march-past took place which was done in Columns of troops. Following this, regimental movements were made under the Commanding Officer, Col. W. C. Cook.

The Inspecting Officer then asked the various squadrons be drilled by the squadron commanders. When this was completed the regiment was drawn up in mass and addressed by Gen. Thacker.

He expressed his pleasure upon the excellent proficiency attained after so short a period of training. He was pleased to find so many of his old comrades-in-arms who had served in the great war not only among the officers but in all ranks.

He then rode off with Col. Cook to the Exhibition Grounds to inspect the Lines, Orderly Rooms, and Records. While going about he stopped to speak with various troopers asking them how they liked the camp and if they intended to come back again. In every case he was answered in the affirmative.

At six o'clock the competition for the best horse in camp was held. There was keen competition among the other ranks for the prize of twenty-five dollars which was offered by Lt. Col. J. D. Jenkins, D. S. O., "for the best saddle horse." It was won by Edward Lowery of "C" Squadron (Montague) with R. S. M. Harper and Trooper James Murphy very close second and third.

In the evening Col. Cook and his officers entertained at dinner in the mess tent Lt. Governor Murdock McKinnon, Gen. Thacker, some former militia officers, and friends of the regiment among whom were Mr. F. R. Heartz and W. L. Poole of Montague.

On Monday evening in the Y. M. C. A. tent a concert was rendered under the direction of Prof. Fletcher, assisted by Mrs. Seth Henderson, Mrs. Fletcher, Mr. J. C. Gallagher, Mr. H. G. Gorbell, and Lt A. W. Williamson of P. E. I. L. H. The concert was of a high character and greatly appreciated by a large attendance. Sandy McGregor was present and in his inimitable way gave an excellent entertainment to the troops.

Today being the last day of camp the various squadrons will return to their headquarters during the afternoon, taking with them the good wishes of all our citizens. During their stay in the capitol the conduct of all ranks has been most admirable. The reorganized Light Horse is a valuable addition to our system of defence.

Meanest Man on Earth

KANASAS CITY, Mo., July 4—The meanest white man out of captivity is the husband of a woman who has just told her troubles to W. J. Burke, attorney for the Legal Aid Society.

"My husband hasn't worked for months," she said, "but just wastes his time. He is always going to dances and when he wanted to go to one the other night, he took the only pair of silk stockings I had and cut the tops off so he could wear them for socks."

Premier Meighen Praised In English Pulpit

(Special to The Guardian)

CORNWALL, July 4—In delivering a Dominion Day sermon to the united congregation of Knox and St. John's churches, in the latter church, this morning, the Rev. Hugh Munro, B. A., minister of St. John's, took as his text, "Whosoever will save his life shall lose it, and whosoever will lose his life for My sake, shall find it." This truth he took as applying to nations as well as to individuals. After showing the marvelous growth of the Dominion since Confederation, especially in the western provinces, he referred to the conference of colonial prime ministers at present meeting in London, and said, "Canada has special reasons for thanksgiving today that we are represented in the Imperial conference by so true and sound a Canadian as the Prime Minister, Hon. Jack Dempsey Sees Himself In Action

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 4.—Jack Dempsey, the heavyweight champion of the world, celebrated the fourth of July in addition to celebrating his victory over Georges Carpentier, the European champion, Saturday. Dempsey plans to remain in this vicinity for several days, when he will go to Salt Lake City, his home for a vacation and rest from his long training grind. The champion yesterday saw himself in action. He motored to a motion picture theatre that was showing pictures of the great encounter. Huddled in a back seat alongside of Jack Kearns, manager, and Mike Trent, the Chicago detective sergeant who has been his bodyguard, he watched the punch that enabled him to retain the championship. He also saw the punches that in the second round caused the mass of humanity in the arena to gasp in the belief that the blonde Frenchmen was to make good his threat to carry the title across the seas. Dempsey saw himself totter and sway as the Frenchman sent those punches to his Jaw. Perhaps not until he saw the picture did he realize just how near he had been to dropping to the canvas floor, for after the fight Dempsey declared the blows had not bothered him. As Dempsey saw himself on the screen inflicting punishment upon his lighter opponent, his eyes sparkled and, he leaned forward eagerly and uttered an exclamation of admiration for the way Carpentier gamely came back. "He did take it, Mike, now didn't he?" whispered the champion to Trent, and his husky bodyguard assented with: "He did that Jack, he did that."

Mercier an ardent supporter of Carpentier, Amos Seguin and Lorenzo Lafleur, both second year men at Osgoode Hall, and followers of Dempsey put up the sporting offer to roll a peanut along a route to be selected "the roller" depending on the result of the big contest. The police say that traffic would be absolutely disorganized by the tedious operation, and that under no circumstances could they permit it to be held.

In submitting the annual budget to the Legislature recently Government officials estimated that colonial revenue from all sources for the year would be eight million dollars, resulting in a deficit of three millions, as compared with a surplus of one and one-third millions last year. The treasury reserve has been exhausted and the colony will operate in part during the coming year on a loan of six millions floated this spring in the United States.

As the greater part of the proceeds of this loan is to be devoted to special purposes, the Government has imposed additional taxes for the purpose of raising revenue to meet general expenses. The total public debt of the colony is now fifty-one million dollars.

Coats Off in Church

TORONTO, July 5.—Rev. P. MacDonald of St. Paul's Presbyterian church made an announcement yesterday morning that was like a polar breeze to his perspiring congregation.

The question has been raised at the Assembly, said Dr. MacDonald, about the propriety of those in attendance removing their coats, and the Moderator had ruled that there was no ecclesiastical law against such a practice. Mr. MacDonald said he was not speaking in any humorous vein, when he wished to point out to the congregation that the men could remove their coats during the service with the full approval of the pulpit.

Immediately after the offering one of the officials of the church set the example. It is the custom of this man to shake hands with members as they leave the church at the close of the service and this he did yesterday in his shirt sleeves.
