fox demonstration week to be held there starting November 29th and continued during the week, a success. There will be amateur judging classes held every morning, which will give young foxmen an opportunity to obtain the very best kind of information in regard to real fox quality. Foxes will be domiciled in cages on the floor of the Curling Rink, and every effort will be taken to see that they are kept in best possible shape by reliable caretakers. Indications are that several hundred foxes will be available for demonstration purposes. Messrs. Fred Burke of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, and George Mayers, of Lampson, Fraser & Ruth, will act as judges and demonstrators and will give each exhibitor a card describing value of foxes, good and bad characteristics. The lighter side will be looked after by Lowell Hancock, who has arranged a big fox concert for Wednesday night, December 1st.

Hookworm eggs become dormant and inert when the ground freezes. Then is the time to dose your foxes that you intend to keep for breeding purposes. The great majority of foxes harbor some worms, either hookworms or round worms. By treating them now you will improve their health and condition, get better results from litters and produce stronger, healthier pups. The writer does not advise fox breeders later than the latter part of December, because there should be as little disturbance as possible with the foxes mated up after January 1st.

THE CALL OF YOUTH
You whose hearts possess a dream,
You whose vision still is true,
Will you follow still the gleam?
Will you build the world anew?

Patrie is the reign of hate,
Fated is the rule of gold;
On your deeds great issues wait,
Let your hearts with love be bold.

Vain are all the tools of war,
Vain the boastings of success;
These the dreams you battle for;
Faith and truth and righteousness.

Let who will despise your youth,
Let them trail your words in dust;
You shall conquer with the truth;
In your visions be the trust.

You whose hearts possess a dream,
God is God; His Word is true;
Follow still the luring gleam,
'Till the world is built anew.

THE PEACE GARDEN

(Radio Address: by Mrs. W. P. McKay, Halifax)
Can you think of a more beautiful memorial to Peace than a flower garden? Joyce Kilmer has made us see poems in trees. The garden of which I am about to tell you exemplifies the beauty and harmony of nature—and where there is harmony there is Peace. The idea of an International Peace Garden originated about seven years ago with Mr. Henry Moore of Islington, Ont. Mr. Moore is graduate of Kew Gardens, London, England, and previous to taking up residence in Canada had spent some time in the United States as a lecturer at Cornell University.

This beautiful thought of an International Peace Garden came to him in the desire to see a living symbol proclaiming the 115 years of peace which has existed between Canada, the Mother Country and the United States. To him nothing could be more suitable than a beautiful garden as a fitting abode for the spirit of peace. His first step was to propose this idea to the National Association of Gardeners of the United States, which met in Toronto in Expressions of opinion, suggestions and donations started coming in to the secretary. They received it with enthusiasm and pledged themselves to its promotion and development. Letters of incorporation were taken out and an international committee of prominent citizens appointed, consisting of Canadian and American men and women. Expressions of opinion, suggestions and donations started coming in to the secretary. Later the Canadian Florist and Gardeners' Association decided to sponsor the project for Canada.

Most vital of all was the interest shown in the selection of a suitable site. This was not finally decided on, however, until two years later in September of 1931. The offer, made by the Government of Manitoba, of 700 acres in the beautiful Turtle Mountains was the eventual selection of the committee, and this fixed the location near the centre of the North American continent, half in the Province of Manitoba and half in the State of North Dakota. It is situated on the "Canada to Canal" highway, which will eventually extend to South America, and is referred to as the "Main Street of the Americas." It will be the longest North to South highway in the world, and millions of people will travel over it in days to come.

Many other factors contributed to the selection of the Turtle Mountains site, in addition to its position near the centre of the continent and the highway. This tract of land when being viewed by Mr. Moore from an aeroplane was described to be nature's own offering. Undulating hills rising out of the vast prairie; myriads of lakes, many with lovely mercurial islands; wild life in profusion; greeted the eye. The soil is of the finest, as hundreds of species of shrubs and flowers testify.

In the Turtle Mountains there are nearly 100 lakes on both sides of the national boundary, all surrounded with natural life, birds, wild ducks, swans and deer. The birds and animals are to be protected where they will forever abound, out of danger of the guns and traps of vandals.

On July 14, 1932, the International Peace Garden was formally dedicated in the presence of a monster gathering of 50,000 people. A monument was unveiled by leading church dignitaries of Canada and the United States, before representatives of the government of both countries. The monument bears this inscription: "To God in His Glory we two nations dedicate this garden and do pledge ourselves that as long as men shall live we will not take up arms against one another." Fifty thousand people of all religious creeds pledged themselves that this prayer should never be violated.

Although the support of more than 200 organizations had been enlisted during the two years following the launching of the project, the campaign for funds by the Canadian committee was deliberately withheld during the dark days of the depression. The American committee, however, has been very active. They acquired in 1934 a State Parks Camp and a Civilian Conservation Camp unit, with 200 men who were employed continually in building roads, bridge paths and otherwise carrying out the plans of the landscape artist. The Canadian Government has lagged in its contribution towards the cost of the garden, but now that economic conditions are improving it has been announced that plans have been formulated for great activity and actual work.

The Week At S. D. U.

The first practice of the basketball team was held Thursday in the Holy Name Club gymnasium with a good number turning out to try for positions. Rev. George MacDonald will be coach again this year. It has not been decided yet whether the team will enter the City League. Exhibition games will certainly be arranged.

The student body joined in sympathy with the Rector, Rev. J. A. Murphy, at the death early in the week of his uncle, Rev. P. D. McGulgan, formerly parson priest at Vernon River. The school attended in a body a political requiem mass celebrated by Bishop O'Sullivan in St. Dunstan's Basilica Wednesday morning.

The First Team journeyed to Moncton November 13 to play the Moncton "Broncos." They were defeated, the score being 8-3. The Moncton team scored all their points during the first half on two tries and a penalty kick before the Saints really got their game under way. During the second half, the Saints scored two tries and crossed the Moncton line on two other occasions. Their reaction with the decisions of the referee.

The weekly debate of the St. John's Debating Society was postponed a week.

Rev. J. A. Sullivan, Prefect of Studies, left Thursday morning for Halifax, where he represented the College at a meeting of the Central Advisory Committee on Education for the Maritime Provinces.

Playing in a hampering drizzle, the Saints met defeat the next day when they played St. Joseph's College, about 15 miles from Moncton. The score was 5-3. Each team scored a try in the second half, but the New Brunswick team converted. The St. Dunstan's team were guests of the victors at supper.

Debating on: "Resolved: That Canada should adopt the metric system of weights and measures." S. Feehan, leading the negative team, gave the decision. With him were M. Murphy, B. White and R. Cyr. The affirmative team comprised C. Wisner, W. Murphy, E. Larkin and M. Berube. The debate was held at the meeting of the St. Augustin's Debating Society November 17th which was addressed by J. McCarville on "The Boy Scout Movement."

Under the direction and supervision of Mr. Moore, the founder.

ALCOHOL TELLS WHO HE IS

(By HOWARD E. HAMLIN, Assistant Professor of Physiology, Ohio State University.)
Youth, I am a clear, colorless liquid, with a characteristic odor by which I am recognized by those who know me. My full name is Ethyl Alcohol.
I am a narcotic poison, which means that I numb your feelings when you are under my influence. I make you to appear to be what you are not. You think you are clever and witty, when in reality you are only less self-critical; you have less fear of talking too much or too foolishly. You feel less worried, and therefore think you are more happy. You think you are rested when in reality you are more tired. This numbing action of mine has been known to last for three hours and longer, which, of course, depends upon how much you have taken of me. In this narcotic property which led King Solomon to say: "Wine is a mocker, and whosever is deceived thereby is not wise."

I am the most abundant and the most important of a set of quinquaplets known as the Alcohol Family. Our names are Methyl, Ethyl, Propyl, Butyl and Amyl. We are all poisonous, ranging in degree in the order named, with Amyl four times as poisonous as I. But, contrary to common belief, I am more poisonous than Methyl, wood alcohol. While we both belong to the Alcohol Family, we are not quite as much alike as we look. Methyl levels his point of attack at the nerve of sight, and leaves you blind, whereas I attack your higher, nervous centres and destroy your judgment, reason, emotions and senses.
My greatest faults are: I am easy to make, easy to take and I deceive all of you that drink me. Although I am classed as a poison, they do not seem to regard my method of deception as serious. You will meet me in various drinks, which occur under different names and in which I am present in various concentration. My content, measured in volume, is as follows in the alcoholic beverages:
Beer—4% Gin—52%
Ale—9% Brandy—3%
Cider—9% Whisky—33%
Wines—11 to 43%
