Spider Armstrong Wins In Fifth

BOSTON, April 30 — (AP) — Over-aged but still crafty, Jack (Spider) Armstrong, 129½, Toronto, came off the floor twice tonight to knock out 19-year-old Tommy Collins, 126, Boston, in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round boxing bout before a $9,096 crowd at the arena.

Collins, winner of 33 of his previous 36 professional battles, twice appeared to have the Canadian veteran at his mercy. The younger put him down for a three-count with a left to the chin in the first round. Late in the second session, Collins trapped Arm-

Boston Braves, down in the cellar of the National League, wallowed New York Giants 7-2 yesterday (Friday) with right-hander Johnny Sain tossing a five-hitter for his first victory of the season.

The Braves routed Ray Poat with a three-homer blast to give the home team its fourth defeat of the season.

Pittsburgh Pirates edged up on the league-leading Giants by breezing to a 10-4 decision over Chicago Cubs, while the seventh-place St. Louis Cardinals moved up a notch by downing Cincinnati Reds 13-7.

Brooklyn played a night game against the Phils at Philadelphia. Tommy Holmes blasted a Poat fast ball into the upper right field seats to open the scoring for Boston in the second inning but the Braves really went to work in the third.

A walk to Eddie Stanky, the base on balls specialist, started Poat's troubles. When Wes Westrum threw wildly over second base on Jim Russell's bunt, all hands were safe.

After Earl Torgeson forced Russell at second with a grounder to first base, Bob Elliott banged a three-run homer off the left field facade. Jeff Heath, who had fanned with two on in the first, made up for it by hitting a homer into the right field seats ending Poat's stay.

Whitely Lockman homered in the sixth with nobody on and Willard Marshall also hit a solo homer in the ninth.

The Pirates paraded eight runs across the plate in the second inning to beat the Cubs and sweep a two-game series.

The Cubs outhit the Bucs, 15-12, and forced Traett (Rip) Sewell to seek the aid of Kirby Higbe. The victory went to Sewell, his second of the season over the Cubs.

Three of the Bucs, Ralph Kliner, Stan Rojek and Clyde Klutz, collected three hits each of the 12 Pittsburgh accumulated. Kliner had two doubles and Klutz one.

The Cards scored in six of the nine innings, and had a seven-run rash in the seventh against Cincinnati.

The Cards hit five pitchers for 17 safeties, including a grand-slam homer by Joe Garagiola in the big seventh, which broke a 3-0 tie.

Stan Musial continued his batting rampage too, with a homer, two doubles and two singles in four trips to the plate to drive in four runs.

spots but did not just strike his stride. George expects a lot from him this year as he has improved in every way.

Yeo and MacEachern, a partnership that has been responsible for some of the best of the futurity candidates, has been Budlong, winner of the two-year-old futurity in 1945 that Mr. MacEachern is devoting his personal attention to with a view to racing her in the slow classes. Ned MacGuigan has a two-year-old filly New Money, by Real Money 2.09, dam, Edith Gray, that was being kept on the go all winter, possesses nice manners and a real slick way of moving. Edith Gray has a foal at foot by Calumet Budlong 2.03½.

John Clair has a year-old colt by Simcoe Harvester 2.04½, dam, Play Girl, and Richard Riley a yearling filly by Real Money 2.09, while H. J. Hines has a yearling by Calumet Budlong 2.02¾. A well-bred two-year-old colt is owned by C. Schurman. Its sire is Real Money 2.09 and the dam was sired by Lacopia 2.09½, granddam Lena Marque. People who see this youngster think that for size, style and breeding it is outstanding.

Another outstanding colt is owned by Murdoch MacGowan. The sire is Real Money and the dam Emma Azoff (half sister to Jane Azoff 1.59½). Maynard MacGuigan expects to have a good pacer for the slow classes this year in Butcher Boy 2.26, by Watson Peter, and Phil MacGuigan has a three-year-old, Calumet Budlong that he intends to race in the futurity, while Jerome Hughes is jogging Squire Grattan.

Our Montague notes would not be complete if we did not mention the great improvements made to the Montague track. Last fall George, with the necessary machinery, widened the back stretch forty feet and improved the turns, particularly the lower turn, increasing the grade so that there will be no difficulty for large fields to get around it. A great deal of care was taken to have the gradients properly adjusted. Inside the hub rail a ditch has been dug all around the track to carry off the water so that a rainy morning or night before won't put a crimp in the racing.

Fifty-seven years ago 2.30 was beaten for the first time on a Maritime Province track. Edgardo stepping in 2.29½ at New Glasgow, N.S. Later Israel, provincial bred trooper, won the last heat of his race at Halifax in 2.28. Israel's yearling son Borak won the yearling stake for Maritime bred troopers in 1.39½, which was the Canadian half-mile record until a little later in the season when it was beaten at Hamilton, Ont. Other happenings of note in 1891 was when W. A. Brennan's Parkville trotted the last heat of his winning race in 2.34 at Charlottetown, and Minnie Gray, driven by Peter Carroll, won her last two heats at the Provincial Exhibition, Charlottetown, in 2.30, 2.30. Lady Pilot raced in 2.30½ and Lucy Derrick trotted in 2.32½.

It must be remembered that the above performances were all of high-wheeled sulky which were six to eight seconds—some as even ten seconds—slower than the "bike" sulky. The two-wheeled bicycle sulky was the invention of Sterling Elliott, a New Englander. He had a few trotting horses and regarded the high two-wheeled sulky as dangerous for horsemen when involved in a spill, and wanted more speed out of his animals, so Elliott dismantled a bicycle, put the wheels together with a stout iron bar, built a small wooden seat onto the reinforced bar, hitched his horse into the shafts he had devised and proceeded to action. The horse, hauling the rubber tired, light sulky, bettered his earlier time performances.

Then Elliott acquired discarded bicycles and made more "bike" sulky. He sent one to a friend, Charles Clark, who was campaigning horses at Worcester, Mass. Clark owned a pacer—Alfred D.—named for a race on June 8th, 1892. The horse did not seem to have much chance and Clark felt he had nothing to lose by experimenting with Elliott's contraption. Alfred D., hauling the "bike" sulky, while his rivals had to race along in front of the heavy high-wheeled, won easily. The alert Bud Doble heard about the new "bike" and telegraphed Elliott for one. This call from the most famous reinsman in harness horse history could not be denied, so Elliott promptly took the train for Detroit where the Grand Circuit was to be raced and persuaded Doble to hitch Nancy Hanks to his bike and $500.00 yearly subsidy to be paid by the Association from Hunting and Angling license fees he would agree to leave the pond open to public fishing and further would agree to furnish twelve boats in good condition at all times and keep the dam in repair as far as humanely possible. The subsidy to stop if the dam went out. Furthermore if at any time between now and ten years hence the Association wanted to purchase the property outright he would allow whatever subsidy had been paid to be applied to the purchase price which was to be stipulated at the time the agreement was drawn up. This was to insure against any property depreciation that might occur within the next ten years.

A rather spirited discussion ensued after Mr. Whitlock left the meeting and this proposition met with considerable opposition from one section of the executive. Opponents of the move to keep Whitlock's Pond in the public fishing bracket contended that the subsidy asked was away too high and that a precedent would be established which would give other mill owners ideas.

It was finally agreed to place the proposition before the Department concerned and abide by their decision. A committee waited on the Minister and Deputy Minister of Agriculture and the project was ruled unfeasible. The way things stand at present anglers can wile Whitlock's Pond off their slate.

The rank and file of fishermen, especially those who are not fortunate enough to own a share in a leased fishing right, feel that they have a just grievance. They contend that it's the fishermen who contribute the lion's share of the license money and yet it is the game men who reap the benefit. As one angler remarked: "Last fall Pheasants Unlimited voted a figure crowding the two thousand dollar mark to be applied for the introduction of Quail this year without batting an eye and yet member of this organization threw up their hands in horror when a $500.00 a year to be used for the continuance of public fishing was requested."

It's the fishermen themselves who are to blame for this situation. Last fall when Pheasants Unlimited didn't have enough send her against the world's trotting mark of 2:06½, made in October, 1891, by Sunol drawing a high-wheeled "bike".

Doble looked at the bike and was not impressed. Edward "Pop" Geers, another immortal in harness horse history, dropped around for a visit with Doble, saw the "bike" and asked if he could borrow it and make an experiment. Geers worked out Honest George in it but made no comment. On the next race day for Honest George he borrowed the "bike" and Honest George almost distanced his field including a pacer driven by Doble. Doble promptly regained his "bike", asked Elliott to ship some more "bikes", so did other drivers. On August 17th, 1892, at Chicago, Nancy Hanks hooked to the new "bike" trotted a mile in 2:07¼—a new world's record. Fourteen days later at Terre Haute, Indiana, she lowered her record to 2:06½ and on September 28th of the same year, with Doble again handling the ribbons and seated in his "bike" Nancy trotted to her best mark and the then world's trotting record—2:04—at Independence, Iowa.

Last night in the Cundall Home gym, West Kent School girls, interscholastic basketball champions captured still another title for their school, when they defeated P.W.C. 2nd Co-ed team in a sudden death game for the Island Junior Hoop crown by a close 8 to 7 score.

MacKenzie of W. K. S. and Matheson of P. W. C. were high point getters in the close checking but foul free game, each girl scoring two field goals apiece for a total of 4 points.

money from their own allotment to bring the Quail deal and asked for $500.00 from the money allocated to the improvement of trout fishing in the Province it was a fisherman, one who has always talked at great length at former meetings on ways and means to improve trout fishing, who was the first to say: "We'll be good sports; let them have it" or words to that effect. If fishermen would talk less and do a little active work, they might get somewhere with their dam building and stream improvement schemes.

Not long ago when looking through my scrap book, I came across a newspaper writeup of a fish and game meeting held eleven years ago. The reporter wrote in part: "Mr. X spoke at great length on the benefits that would result in the building of dams and stream improvement, etc., etc." That was eleven years ago and nothing has been done, apart from the dam at Annandale, (I hate to even mention that project) to this date. Mr. X and his buddies are still talking. They'll talk so long and convincingly that with very little imagination one can hear the roar of the spillways in one's ears. It's just, as the Indian would say: "Heap big wind".

The number of fishermen are increasing every year, both local and tourist, while our trout waters are becoming fewer, as regards public fishing in particular, as the years roll by. Many of our former top grade salt water streams are becoming silted in and the mud pools dwindling while our mill dams are either breaking out or being leased to private interests. The appointment of Mr. James Rodd in the interests of sport fishing is looked upon as the one ray of light on an otherwise dark horizon.

Prince of Wales College Co-eds last night won the Island ladies basketball title for the fifth year in a row when they defeated the Cundall Home Nurses 36-32. The victory was the second for the co-eds, the nurses taking the first game of the series.

Last night's encounter was played at the Cundall Home gym and was very closely contested. The score was tied more than once, after the Co-Eds opened the scoring. The nurses fought gamely and with 30 seconds of play left were still on the offensive although the Co-eds led by two points. Then J. Scales of P.W.C. broke away to score the last two points, giving her team a four-point margin.
