The Markets

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 4—With the continued shortage of fresh eggs, storage stocks have been moving into consumption very freely and the outlook of these is now considered very promising.

TORONTO—Fresh egg supplies here are still scarce and the market is firm. Brokers are making sales of Ontario graded eggs at extras, sixty to sixty-two cents; firsts 55 to 58 cents; seconds 35 delivered.

MONTREAL—Egg receipts here today were 1,268 cases as compared to 642 cases on the corresponding day last year. The market is firm, with a good demand especially on fresh extras. Prices are unchanged, but fresh receipts are light and storage eggs are moving well. British Columbia eggs are offering at extras 62 firsts and pullet extras 58.

WINNIPEG—Egg receipts here continue to decline and prices are firm. Fresh eggs are selling to retailers locally at extras 52, firsts 46, seconds 32.

VANCOUVER—The egg market here is working in a more settled condition. Fresh eggs are selling to retailers at extras sixty, firsts fifty-five to fifty-seven; pullet extras, fifty to fifty-four cents. Production is showing some increase and there is a large volume available for outside shipment.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 4—Strong demand for fresh eggs continued on

MCALPINE PARTY

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 4—The two planes of the MacAlpine party, which was rescued after two months isolation in the North today, landed in the water off Melbourne Island in Queen Maud Gulf on the north shore of Canada. This is the statement made today by a representative of the Department of Marine and Fisheries here, presumably following a report from Ottawa. The machines are in perfect shape and will be able to travel, if supplied with fuel and equipped with skis, the message stated. It is mentioned that the MacAlpine men, on landing were able to obtain Eskimo guides, who later piloted them to Cambridge Bay, Melbourne Island is midway between Cambridge Bay, on Victoria Island and the mainland of Canada.

"RAPID TRANSIT"—Few motor people realize the rapid suddenness at which they arrive at the end of a journey. Where it took forty minutes to make the usual four-mile journey of a Sunday morning to church they now do that journey in eight minutes. Where it took one hour and twenty minutes to make that journey into the town or village, they now make it in a quarter of an hour. A speed of 30 or 40 miles an hour instead of six or seven with the horse, which takes time to sink into the mind.

Margin Buying Stated Gambling

PENNSYLVANIA JUDGE SAYS PURCHASER HAS NO RIGHTS IN LAW

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 4—Buying stocks on margin is gambling, and as such has no standing in court according to an opinion handed down by Judge Hudson today in granting a motion for a non-suit against Core & Core, a brokerage house.

Chester A. Conn, the plaintiff, alleges $3,000 is due him on margin transactions on the stock market. The Court held that brokers merely collected fees for placing the order and had no responsibility for loss or otherwise. He ruled that the customer or purchaser of stock on margin was a gambler, and without standing in a court of law.

MIRACLES REPORTED AT GRAVE OF YOUNG PRIEST

MALDEN, Mass., Nov. 4—Attracted by reports of miraculous cures at the grave of a young priest, Patrick J. Power, in Holy Cross Cemetery here, 10,000 pilgrims from Massachusetts, New England, and New York, visited the simple tomb today seeking health for themselves or relatives. Skeptics also came to investigate, and they saw several of the crippled or the sick declare themselves cured.

Among the thousands who filed past the tomb, first bent to kiss the chalice, cut therein, then topped up a bit of water from it and passed on in the rain, was Francis Maggio, a young Everett cripple, who had visited the tomb several times since miracles were first reported last week. After praying for a moment at the grave, Maggio took his crutches in his hands and walked away.

An aged woman, who did not give her name, hobbled with difficulty to the tomb and a few minutes later walked briskly back again, to leave her cane on it.

A youth pressed through the crowd to pray aloud for his mother, crying "she suffers so." A father held his paralyzed little girl in his arms as she kissed the chalice. A young girl led a faltering white-haired man blind to the edge of the grave. Many left money and jewelry and flowers. A well dressed woman deposited a diamond ring, another a gold encrusted lipstick.

Europe's Mystery Man Awaits Death

PARIS, Nov. 4—(B. U. P.)—Europe's mystery man—Sir Basil Zaharoff—who has pulled the strings operating dozens of armies, has been behind the scenes of most of Europe's political drama the last half century, has passed into complete oblivion with the same silent unobtrusiveness.

Still among the dozen most wealthy men in the world and probably the richest individual Europe has ever produced, Zaharoff has severed nearly all relations with the casinos, munitions factories and battleship building yards which have multiplied his millions.

Eighty, heartsome since the death of his wife, the widowed Duchesse de Villafranca De Los Caballeros, in 1926, after 18 months of marriage, Sir Basil lives a sequestered existence, surrounded by a host of servants and personal physicians.

"Walking Back" At Prince Edward

A SWIFT MOVING STORY OF THE BOYS AND GIRLS OF TODAY

Picture fans who attend the Prince Edward Theatre, where the De Mills studio production, "Walking Back," was presented with great success yesterday will have an opportunity of seeing a "younger set" party.

A real negro jazz orchestra furnished music for the dancing during the filming of this scene, and inspired many of the youthful dancers to give impromptu exhibitions of original dance steps. A colored "blues" entertainer staged a dancing and singing act, and introduced a novelty by leading the orchestra through the unusual method of "swaying time" during the dance numbers. The story is one that deals effectively with modern youth and is admirably presented.

An unusual display of lovely dancing frocks add another interesting note to the party sequences of "Walking Back" which was directed by Rupert Julian.

Sue Carol is ideally cast in the leading feminine role, with Richard Walling opposite her. Others who have prominent roles are Robert Edeson, Ivan Labedoff, Arthur Rankin, Jane Keckley, Florence Turner, Billy Sullivan and George Stone.

"DARK STREETS" AN EXCITING FILM STORY OF UNDERWORLD WITH MULHALL IN DUAL ROLE

A gripping tale of two brothers—one a policeman and the other a thief—unwound across the screen of the Capitol Theatre yesterday when "Dark Streets," a First National production, had its initial showing.

"Dark Streets" depends for its story on the resemblance of the two brothers, Jack Mulhall portraying both of them. One grew up in the way of the law becoming a policeman, and the other found a career outside the law. They attempt to protect each other, although still remaining within the code of their own worlds.

To complicate matters they are both in love with the same girl, played by Lila Lee, who, being able to pick and choose, can't decide which one she wants most.

Danny, the crook, aids his gang in the robbery of a silk warehouse, but as he is driving away, Pat, the cop, recognizes him through the windshield of the truck. Another policeman is killed in the getaway. Danny, however, has a perfect alibi. Pat warns Danny, and Danny in turn warns Pat to keep away from the gang's territory.

When the gang waylays Pat, Danny comes to his aid to provide the spectacular ending.

Aggie Herring, as the girl's mother, gives several good comedy bits. Her scenes with Lucien Littlefield, as a census taker, are very funny indeed. Mulhall does excellent work in his dual parts. His characterizations of the two men are widely different. The task is an extremely difficult one, but the actor is convincing both as the top and the crook.

Lila Lee is delightful as the Irish girl, Katie Dean.

Maurice Black, as Beefe, the gang leader, Pat Harmon and E. N. Callahan, are also prominent in the cast.

—ANOTHER POTATO BOAT IN SUMMERSIDE—The S. S. Sundenburg arrived in Summerside on Sunday morning from Quebec and tied up to the Marine Wharf. She had on board 2,000 tons of aluminum. The Sundenburg is a Danish vessel of 4,000 tons net and is now being loaded with 35,000 bags of certified seed potatoes, shipped by the Potato Growers' Association, for New York, whence she will sail on Wednesday. She reported passing the four-masted schooner Harry A. McLellan, Captain Rafuse, in the Straits this morning, loaded with pulp-wood at Richibucto, and bound for New York passed Summerside at 7 o'clock Sunday morning 8.

Oct. 17, "Lisbeth," 31,137 bushels.

Oct. 18, "Rajah," 27,000 bushels.

These steamers were loaded early so as to arrive in Cuba before the beginning of November, when the higher tariff on potatoes comes into effect.

Shipments By Rail

During October the Association also shipped by rail 7,400 bushels of seed and 23,000 bushels of table stock potatoes to Canadian ports.

Notwithstanding the large quantity of potatoes that has already left the Island, there is now on track for the S. S. "Ryja," loading at Georgetown, 100,000 bushels, destined for New Jersey, and 75,000 bushels at Summerside for the S. S. "Sonsberg," sailing for New York. These steamers will complete loading Thursday of this week and will be followed immediately by the S. S. "Iver" for Norfolk and the S. S. "Frednes" for Jacksonville, Fla., which is returning for her second cargo.

It is indeed a fortunate thing for the Province, Mr. Boulter pointed out, that so much seed is being moved, the price being from sixty to eighty per cent higher than for table stock. Were it not for the Association's organization it would have been impossible this year to have realized anything like the prices which will be paid, he added.

Dull Market For Table Stock

At the present time there is no large market for table stock potatoes, Mr. Boulter continued. Every available market to which table stock can be shipped is being sought out. Although potato production this year is supposed to be much below the average yield it is difficult to interest buyers at present prices. Mr. Boulter believed the decline in the stock market had greatly affected the potato market. Not since the stock market crash has there been the same "pep" to the buying. There were specific cases of orders for potato shipments being cancelled because the purchaser had "gone broke" on the stock market.

"No matter what the price may be later on in December or midwinter, nearly all the potato shipments are being moved now because of the inability of the grower to protect them against frost. Were it not for the outlet which the seed market offers, the potato industry in the Province this year would not offer anything like the remuneration which it now affords.

Suggestion to Growers

The Association is experiencing a little difficulty in keeping everything cleaned up before frost sets in, and they are urging the growers to make every effort to spread the loading of the cars over the entire season.

"We have orders for seed potatoes which will call for shipments from now until the last of March, and unless compelled to move more at a time than the market will take, we shall be able to handle the entire crop that will grade for certified seed," Mr. Boulter explained. "This cannot be done, however, if the growers continue to ship as they have been shipping during the past month."
