PARALYSED AND HELPLESS

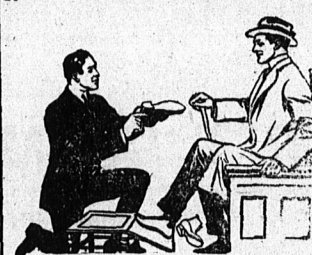

Prominent Merchant Restored to Health by "Fruit-a-lives"

Buizot, N.B., July 25th, 1914. "I had a stroke of Paralysis in March, and this left me unable to walk or help myself and the Constipation was terrible. Finally, I took 'Fruit-a-lives' for the Constipation. This fruit medicine gradually toned up the nerves and actually relieved the paralysis. By the use of 'Fruit-a-lives' I grow stronger until all the palsy left me. I am now well and attend my store every day."

ROYAL COMMISSION ON KYTE CHARGES

OTTAWA, May 2.—Once again Col. David Carnegie was on the stand when the Meredithhurst Commission came into the Kyte charges resumed this afternoon. Step by step Col. Carnegie was led by Mr. Hellmuth through every detail of every negotiation in connection with purchases by the Shell Commission. Not only did he get an examination in chief, but Mr. Hellmuth but a cross examination which went at times very far afield from the matters directly under investigation, so determined was the Chief Government Counsel to draw out all information connected with the case. Once again Colonel Carnegie traversed fuse contracts, and he stated with strong emphasis that so far as he knew there had never been the slightest talk of any profits or commissions. Col. Carnegie was very explicit as to this and did not confine himself to general terms. He stated positively that so far as he knew Col. Wesley Allison had no intention of securing any commission or rake-off in connection with the contract with the International Company or the Edwards vale but had declared that any work he was doing in that connection was solely out of his own pocket for Sany Hughes, and to help him out in getting a supply of war material which was urgently needed.

It was incidentally brought out that by Mr. Hellmuth that Col. Carnegie had been engaged as ordnance adviser to the Imperial Munitions Board at a salary of $25,000, while in addition to this he had been given an honorarium of $15,000 from the Imperial Government in recognition of his services with the old shell committee. While this had no bearing on the Kyte charges it showed that Col. Carnegie was an expert on the price of ordnance of today. Colonel Hitchen's Much Thomas and Lance during the afternoon dealt with the efforts of the Shell Committee to secure a supply of brass cartridge cases for shells, and the evidence given by Col. Carnegie indicated that the need for these was so urgent that the price almost ceased to be a factor. At the same time he showed that every effort had been made to secure these supplies as cheaply as possible, so long as they were got without delay.

Quite a flutter was caused in the Court when Col. Carnegie absolutely refused to give out certain information asked by Mr. Hellmuth concerning the present state of delivery in the fuse contracts which had been let in the United States. He declared he had the information under his hands but thought it might be of use to the Germans. He further declared he thought he might get into trouble with the British War Office for the information he had already given in evidence.

Mr. Wallace Nesbitt K.C., supported this view stating that if this continued they might as well hand over all the books of the Imperial Munitions Board to Count Bernstorff and his German Friends.

A Graphic Description on Modern Military Hospital

The sister in charge of a ward is responsible besides the usual nursing duties, for the ward equipment. She must see that everything is there that has been put in of which an inventory is taken once or twice a month by an officer. She must order from the Steward all the diets that the M. O. has prescribed for the patients. She must make a daily report of the patients in the ward for the night nurse. She must see that the nurses under her, the orderlies, and such patients as are able, do the work that is assigned to them, and report to the M. O. in cases of neglect or insubordination. The orderlies and convalescent patients are responsible for the cleanliness of the wards. The orderlies must see that the lavatories, baths, wash rooms, etc. are clean to the satisfaction of the etc. are clean to the satisfaction of the etc. They with the patients must attend to fires and keep things tidy in the ward. It is also the duty of orderlies to attend to the patient's natural wants and to see that they are kept clean in that respect.

EFFICIENT ADMINISTRATION

It takes a good deal of ability and tact on the part of those in authority to keep a hospital running smoothly and efficiently and it speaks a good deal that since this hospital was opened four and a half months ago things have gone along without a hitch. During that time about 3,169 patients have been admitted and some 630 operations done. It goes without saying that every consideration is given to the brave fellows who have passed through our hands, all except the scum-shankers who I trust are taught a wholesome lesson. After they leave us I hope they are wiser and better men. I have no doubt that in the other hospitals the same efficiency as here obtains, and I can assure those at home that every consideration will be given to the hospitals to those who come over and who are so unfortunate as to fall ill. By means of this imperfect sketch I trust I have succeeded in conveying to your readers an idea how a modern Military Hospital is conducted. I am, Sir, etc., A. ROSS.
