Prepare For Opening Of Montreal Port
(Special to The Guardian)
HALIFAX, N. S., April 12.—The annual preparations for transfer of shipping staffs from this port to Montreal has commenced. It is expected that officials concerned with the arrivals and departures of Canadian National Steamships Canada-West Indies liners and freighters in the Canada-Australia-New Zealand service which make Montreal their terminal during the summer season will be back in Montreal by the end of April.
The Canadian National steamships, it is stated, will open coastside activities in Montreal about April 25th.

Schulte Bill Before U. S. Committee
(C. F. By Guardian's Special Wire)
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 12.—Action upon the Schulte Bill to restrict border-commuting temporarily depended today upon the steering committee of the House of Representatives.
The bill, favorably reported by the immigration committee, was designed by Representative William Schulte, Democrat, Indiana, to curb entrance of workers from Canada and Mexico crossing to their jobs daily in the United States.
The bill which would remain in force until June 30, 1936, provides no interpretation should be placed upon the immigration laws to permit habitual commutation across the border; and that commuters be considered on each occasion of crossing as immigrants and have the proper papers each time.
CINCINNATI, April 13.—Florence E. Allen of Cleveland, today was sworn in as a Judge of the United States Circuit Court of appeals, the first woman ever to ascend the bench of a Major Federal court in United States.
Judge Allen, former Judge of the Ohio States Supreme Court, was appointed by President Roosevelt to fill the vacancy brought about by the death some months ago of Judge Smith Eckenlooper.

U.S. Pilots Leave For Colombia
(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)
NEW YORK, April 12.—Twenty-five United States pilots and as many mechanics sailed today to enter the Columbian aviation service less than 24 hours after the State Department issued a statement of disapproval.
"We are going down merely to teach the Columbians how to fly," said one of the group, most of whom hold reserve commissions in the United States army.
"We are not going to participate in any war. If Colombia ever goes to war we go home."
An air of mystery was attached to the departure of the group, said to be headed by Bert Balchen, who was pilot for Rear Admiral Rich E. Byrd on his flight to the North Pole. Some members of the party said it was not Balchen but a mechanic of the same name. Others at the pier, however, said they identified him as the famous flyer.
The flyers said they had signed contracts with the Columbian Government to remain in the service for six months at $500 a month. The contracts to be voided in the event Columbia becomes engaged in any war.

IMPOSSIBLE TO MEASURE TEACHERS OVERTIME
MONTREAL, April 13.—If every teacher received extra salary for working overtime a great deal of money would change hands, suggested Miss Alice C. Dresser, a former president of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, in an address here. A great part of the work of a country teacher especially, is impossible to measure, she remarked, for it might be termed a continuous performance.
It is general acknowledgement today that more people should live on farms and that the more attractive country life can offer the better for the province, she said. Organizations to some extent provide a solution for the problem of loneliness of country life but often the difficulty is to find a leader.
That leader, said Miss Dresser, is generally the teacher. It is true every teacher is not the best or even good leader but it is equally true the community regards this service as part of the teacher's work added the speaker, in describing the manifold activities into which her services are likely to be pressed.
One of the most popular smuggling stories in the Free State is that of the man who purchased a suit of clothes in Belfast and took into the Free State. Securing himself in a single railway compartment as the Dublin-bound train left Portadown he removed his old clothes and one by one, slung them into the window. The railway guard then turned to his brown paper parcel on the luggage rack and to his horror and dismay discovered the Belfast tailor had contrived to include the all-important trousers in his bundle.
Throwing himself on the mercy of the Customs Officer at Dundalk he was loaned a pair of pants to take him home safe from the attention of the police. Later, however, he was prosecuted and fined $400 which is the minimum penalty for smuggling on either side of the border.
Then again, there was the case of the naive Northerner who came to Dublin to purchase a pair of trousers so that the "industry" could be put "on proper basis."
History, alas, does not record Mr. de Valera's reply.

AGED SPANISH TEACHER IS "CITIZEN OF HONOR"
MADRID, April 13.—Spain today named as its first "citizen of honor" a 77-year-old, partially crippled schoolmaster, Manuel Bartolome Cossio.
The distinction was conferred upon him as part of the celebration of the anniversary of the founding of the republic.
The decoration will be conferred at Cossio's home, where although he remains in bed most of the time because of a spinal ailment, he is writing a book on art.
Because he is now the first citizen of honor, Cossio, considered three years ago as a possibility for the presidency, ranks in precedent of all former functionaries immediately after cabinet ministers.

CLEANSE your Kidneys
—as well as your house
Just as your household may need Spring cleaning so your kidneys need similar attention. Winter takes toll of your energy—Spring usually finds you with weakened and impure blood. Healthy kidneys filter the impurities out of your blood—that is their normal function. If they fail, poisons gather and illness follows. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best Spring tonic. They restore the kidneys to normal action. Your system is cleansed and invigorated by a full supply of pure, rich blood. Don't neglect your kidneys.

Both Irelands Big Field For Busy Smuggler
(By Joseph Dennigan, Canadian Press Correspondent)
DUBLIN, April 13.—Smuggling on the Irish border, Ireland's newest "industry," is proving a great field for the busy smuggler. State and Imperial (Northern Ireland) Customs authorities and both Governments are racking their brains to discover an effective remedy.
An announcement by the Imperial Customs (Customs and Excise Ireland) that more stringent methods of dealing with Free State smugglers were on the way was quickly countered here by an announcement that special provision for motorcycle patrols and detective services would be made in the coming budget.
One of the swashbuckling lads of long ago who cheated the revenue on his duties on cases of wine and bales of silks. The smuggler of 1934 is a keen business man possessing farms on both sides of the border, a fleet of motor trucks, an intelligence service and a band of trusty men who do the work while he sits quietly in the background making the plans and watching his business appreciate with every fresh brick which the contending governments place on their tariff walls.
Naturally, he is a firm supporter of the "economic war" knowing that his profits depend on an intensification of the struggle of an intensification pursued on both sides and many mechanics sailed today to enter the Columbian aviation service less than 24 hours after the State Department issued a statement of disapproval.

The Fur Farming Industry In Canada
In the early days of the fur trade it was the practice in Canada for trappers to keep foxes caught in warm weather alive until the fur was prime, and from this custom has arisen the modern industry of fur farming. The earliest authentic record of the successful breeding of the fox in captivity is that of a letter of foxes which was raised on a farm near Plover, Prince Edward Island, about the year 1878. The beauty of the fur of the silver fox and the consequent high prices realized from the sale of the pelts raised attention to be directed chiefly to this kind, a colour phase of the common red fox, and the colour was finally fixed through the experiments carried on by the pioneer fox farmers.
After 1890 there came a period of rising prices for furs and the fur farming industry grew rapidly. In Prince Edward Island, in 1913 an enumeration by the Provincial Commissioner of Agriculture showed 277 farms in that province, with a total of 3,130 foxes. Meanwhile attempts at rearing foxes in captivity were also being made in other provinces, the records showing that foxes were successfully bred in Quebec in 1898, in Ontario in 1905, and in Nova Scotia in 1906. In 1912 and 1913 the Commission of Conservation conducted an exhaustive inquiry into the history and possibilities of fur farming in Canada, and the resulting data, published in 1913, gave an impetus to the industry. The Prince Edward Island Silver Fox Breeders' Association was formed in 1915, and the Canadian National Silver Fox Breeders' Association in 1920. Branch associations of the Canadian Association have also been formed in several of the provinces.
Fox farming is now carried on in all provinces of the Dominion and the number of farms has steadily increased. The latest statistics available viz., those for the year 1932, show 5,291 fox farms in Canada with a total of 99,100 foxes, of which 92,700 are silver foxes. In addition to the silver fox, the patch or cross fox, the red fox and the blue fox are also raised on Canadian fox farms. Attempts to raise the blue fox in captivity were made in the Maritime Provinces in 1912, a number of foxes having been imported from Alaska, where blue fox farming has been carried on for some years. These early attempts were unsuccessful, but about the year 1921 fox farmers in British Columbia found that the blue fox could be raised in that province, climatic conditions proving more suitable. There are now in Canadian farms 838 blue fox farms, of these being recorded by British Columbia and the remaining 565 distributed through Quebec, Ontario and the Prairie Provinces.
Although the fox is of chief importance, other kinds of wild fur-bearing animals are being raised successfully—mink, raccoon, skunk, marten, fisher and coyote. The mink, in particular, is easily domesticated, and thrives in captivity if care is exercised and proper attention given to its requirements in the matter of diet. There are now 645 mink farms distributed among the various provinces, and mink farming in Canada may well be regarded as permanently established. Muskrat farming also is a branch of the industry to which attention is being directed, and numerous areas of marsh land are being utilized for raising this fur-bearing animal. The selection of environment and proper attention given to its requirements in the matter of diet. WOULD MAKE WIFE RESPONSIBLE
VANCOUVER, B. C., April 13.—"There should be some revision of the marriage laws so that a wife would have to take care of her husband," was the smiling remark of Alderman W. W. Smith, chairman of the Civic Relief Committee when they heard a reversal of the story of Alvin Karpis, a man who refused to support his wife.
Before the Committee appeared a man who told alderman that he and his wife had been on relief. Late they were separated and she obtained employment. As there was no legal hearing the family was recognized by the relief office as a unit.
When the wife obtained work both she and her husband were automatically removed from the list. But the wife refused to assist the husband. So he asked aldermen for relief. After considerable discussion, the committee decided to accept the man as a single homeless relief case.

Strategy at the Frontier
One of the most popular methods of the Border Knight is to pound up (with great commotion) a small consignment of worthless beasts in a field so adjacent to an Imperial Customs post that the preventive force is allured to the field. The real business is going on in a few miles away where several hundred cattle are being rushed across the border without interference.
What may be regarded as an intensification of the success of the smuggler is the enormous increase which has been noticed in the numbers of cattle railed to Belfast from Northern Ireland stations adjacent to the border. It is the increase which has rallied the Imperial Customs to the contemplation of further stringent measures.
Let us look at the other side. Into the Free State there is coming a stream of radio sets and accessories, furniture and luxury articles of every description, which are subject to penal duties by the Dublin government. An assembled radio set selling for $56 in Belfast costs $80 in the Free State owing to the enormous duties imposed on every such assembled part (120 percent). Similar substantial profits can be secured on smuggled wearing apparel.
One of the most popular smuggling stories in the Free State is that of the man who purchased a suit of clothes in Belfast and took into the Free State. Securing himself in a single railway compartment as the Dublin-bound train left Portadown he removed his old clothes and one by one, slung them into the window. In Memoriam
MRS. THOMAS R. DAVEY
The death of Mrs. Thomas R. Davey of Guernsey Cove took place in the P.E.I. Hospital in the early morning hours of Thursday, April 5th. She had gone in nearly two weeks before for a much needed operation, and for some time after was reported to be doing well, but complications set in and she did not recover. The deceased was but 54 years of age.
In addition to her sorrowing husband, she is survived by five sons and eight daughters. The sons are: Vernon, John in Saskatchewan, Clifton in Indiana, George in East Royal, and Leon at home. The daughters are: Mrs. Noelle (Annie) of Tracadie, Mrs. Wm. MacKenzie (Ira) of Murray Harbor, Mrs. Wesley MacDonald (Bessie) in Indiana, Mrs. Maxwell MacLeod (Perry), in Massachusetts, Ruth in Charlottetown, Terry, Beryl and Jean at home. There are also sixteen grandchildren.
The eldest daughter, Margaret, Mrs. J. R. Bell, died in 1928, and one son, Alex, was drowned in Saskatchewan in 1928. After the tragic death of J. Rankin Bell last fall, Mrs. Davey took her grandson, Stirling Bell, to her home and care.
The late Mrs. Davey is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Mary MacKinnon of New Argyle and by four brothers, George and Vere Richards in Massachusetts, William Richards of Murray Harbor, and Alexander Richards of Gladstone. One brother and one sister predeceased her.
The remains were brought to Murray Harbor, and the funeral held on Friday, April 6th, in the United Church with the pastor, Rev. T. R. Goudge, officiating. A very large number attended, and much sympathy is felt for those remaining in the family so unexpectedly bereaved of wife and mother at a time when the coffin had been spared. Interment was in the Murray Harbor cemetery.

Federal House Protests New U.S. Legislation
(C. F. By Guardian's Special Wire)
OTTAWA, April 13.—Canada has made representations to Washington against the proposed legislation excluding Canadians from commuting rights across the border, it was announced in the House of Commons today by Premier R. B. Bennett.
It would be true enough, he answered J. E. Michaud (Lib. Restigouche-Madawaska) to determine what action should be taken by Canada should the legislation become law. He would make no further statement at the moment, he declared, other than to state the Government was fully seized of the seriousness of the situation and had made to the United States Government as strong representations as were possible under the circumstances.
The matter had been brought to his attention also by Conservative members whose constituencies were adjacent to the boundary. The legislation which had been introduced into Congress was similar in terms to legislation that had frequently been introduced before but not been enacted.

EGYPT'S TO BE FUTURE TYPE
CHICAGO, April 13.—The feminine beauty that was ancient Egypt's will mark the girl of the future, believes Lorado Taft, the sculptor.
The mother-in-law of king Tut-Ankh-Amen is his idea of beauty, Taft said. He was commenting on the recent controversy among New York artists as to the future type of beautiful woman.
"One of the loveliest girls I ever knew," he said with reference to Tut-Ankh-Amen's mother-in-law, "lived 1350 years before Christ. She was an Egyptian lady who lived in the land of the Nile. I have a copy of a portrait bust of her that was found there. I think the beautiful woman of the future will be the same lovely types they have been in the past."

March Weather Sets New Lows In Nova Scotia
TRURO, N. S., April 13.—(Canadian Press)—The fourth day of spring brought the official thermometer at the government station here down to the zero mark, but that antic was mild compared with the activities of the Weather Man in March 1923.
March 1923 was the most severe March recorded for many years and was featured by eleven sub-zero days. The coldest temperature recorded during that month was on the fifteenth when the official reading was 22 below zero. The low reading on the 27th of the month was 13 below and two days later ten below was recorded. The sub-zero weather continued into April when on the second of the month the glass dropped to two below zero, making a total of 42 sub-zero days for the year.
The winter of 1934 saw the establishment of one record, when on January 22 the mercury dropped to 37 below, the lowest ever officially recorded here.
