room, board, laundry and health and unemployment insurance, would be asked to consent to their taking further testing at the times set aside in the schools for class "B" certificate. The subjects would include: Personal hygiene and physical exercises; cooking and everything related to it; housework; nursery work; practical home science (such as tap repairs); dietetics and catering.

Class "B" certificates should command a weekly wage of $4 plus room, board, laundry and insurance. While proud possessors of "A" certificates for high qualifications in the same subjects would be paid a minimum of $10 per week with the other considerations.

As for time off. The standard suggested for holders of diplomas is: Two weeks' holiday with pay, alternate Sunday; one half-day per week, one "short" evening per week and two hours daily.

With such legislation in force the standard of domestic workers would be raised to the level of those in other fields. One of the features of their job they most resent at the moment is being "locked down on." One maid who spoke at the Domestic Services Exhibition and suggested the lot of women in the kitchen was more fortunate than factory employees who gave their men-folk body-cooked food, was booed down and almost caused a hair-pulling riot.

Japanese Release Vessel

(C.P. Havas by Guardian's Special Wire)

Kobe, Japan, Feb. 15.—(CP)—No longer British cookery to be the butt of facetious remarks from the other side of the Atlantic. Cooking in England is about to become an almost universal accomplishment. Princess Elizabeth has domestic science on her curriculum and recently sent a cake made and baked by herself to a Welsh family. And every little girl in the United Kingdom may be compelled to learn to chop, cook, wash, sew and iron as she is now made to study how to read and write. A bill to amend the Education Act, introduced in parliament during this session provides for this. The reason behind the bill is that a shortage of good cooks is being felt in the home. Inspiring poetry, dignified members of the House of Commons to drastic effort.

labor officials are still struggling with the problem of how a trades union of domestic servants could be organized and a charter effectively enforced so that more women should be persuaded to take up the work. Meanwhile other departments have investigated the cause of the house-keeping and maid-keeping troubles. The final report marked it down as definitely due to lack of training both among maids and mistresses.

That makes it a matter for the minister of education rather than the minister of labor, said members of the parliamentary committee. So a proposal will be introduced in parliament that domestic science should be a compulsory subject for girls in what corresponds to Canadian entrance and matriculation examinations and that every school should have a domestic science department under the direction of a qualified instructor.

British Trading Interests In China Menaced By Japan

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(CP Cable)—The Earl of Plymouth, under-secretary for foreign affairs, told the House of Lords today the Government is closely watching the problem of international trade on the Yangtze River in China as well as the future of the Chinese customs administration.

Lord Plymouth termed "very disturbing" the announcement by Japanese authorities in Shanghai that they would not respect even foreign obligations secured by the customs.

"The Japanese have no right whatever to disregard the rights of other powers," he declared, adding that negotiations were continuing and the Japanese demands were being strongly resisted.

"His Majesty's Government is insisting that British merchant vessels shall be allowed to resume full trading rights on the Yangtze as soon as the situation permits," Lord Plymouth continued.

Viscount Elibank, Conservative, began the debate by asking the Government what steps it is taking to protect British interests in China. He said he was convinced if the Japanese dominated the customs at Shanghai, they would be run considerably in the Japanese interest.

Lord Strathairn, Labor, voiced a warning on the far-reaching effect of developments in China.

"On what happens in Asia in the near future," he said, "will depend the future of our influence in the East Indies and even in the Indian Empire itself."

The Labor Party urged an individual boycott of everything Japanese.

coal processes could be assessed, the subcommittee said. Low temperature carbonization must be ignored as a possible substantial source of oil supply.

Successful development of hydrogenation, which primarily was at present suitable for the production of a high grade spirit, would provide an entirely new field for the coal industry, it added.

The report, issued without its national defense secrets, in deciding that home production of the normal motor fuel consumption. Negligible quantities of other products are made.

The subcommittee, in discussing emergency requirements said any source of supply should be capable of rapid expansion to meet wartime needs.

COLLEGE TEAM TO TOUR U. S.

CAMBRIDGE England, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Twenty-one players have been chosen to represent Cambridge University in a five-game tour of the United States. In the spring they will play against Yale, Harvard, Princeton, a New York team and an all-star team representing Eastern United States.

"I am delighted to see on the Queen Mary March 16 is not considering game in Canada. Most of them have won their 'Blues'."

It's Just an Old Japanese Custom

HANEY, B. C. Feb. 15.—(CP)—Majoy Gordon of Whonnock, B. C. just returned from Japan, has been writing of her visit to department stores in the flowery kingdom.

They are huge airy places with marble staircases, up-to-date elevators, modern lighting arrangements, spacious showcases, excellent service and a tremendous variety of merchandise. A subway connects several of the larger ones by means of a taxi cab which up to the doors and away again all day long. This is how most people arrive if not on foot, for there are comparatively few cars, the majority being taxis which race each other round corners in a delirious fashion.

It is quite a different matter if you go into a small store where the owner greets you. While you are explaining what you want a young person will bring tea—you are being treated as a guest and whether you make a purchase or not you bow your way out with many thanks on both sides. The only disadvantage to so much courtesy is that it takes time, especially as at least three members of the family will help in showing the wares and carry on an animated three-cornered conversation whenever you ask a question.

The most interesting floor in a department store is where they sell silk for kimonos. It comes in bolts of standard length and though the width is too narrow to be very useful for making into western style

Three-year-old Prodigy Stumps N. Y. Reporters

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(AP)—In a quick piping voice, Jean Kathleen Demers, three-year-old prodigy of Tracadie, N. S., rattled off wisecracks and random facts from an apparently inexhaustible fund of knowledge today.

"Just ask me anything you like," she replied. "They call me the walking book of knowledge."

She knew all the answers. With an air of boredom, as though impatient for something hard, she replied to a reporter's question about the capital of Dutch Guiana—that Lake Michigan is the fifth largest lake in the world with an area of 22,800 square miles. "The buffalo state between Russia and China is Mongolia, and that the Suez Canal was opened in 1869 and built by a French engineer named Ferdinand de Lesseps."

"That's spelled with a small 'd' and a capital 'L,'" she advised gravely, for the benefit of newsmen.

She knew that Woodrow Wilson drew up the Nine-Power Treaty, that the United States bought Alaska from Russia in 1867 for $7,200,000, she added rapturously, and that the longest river in China was the Yangtze.

"Naturally, since everything she said was correct with red-gold curls and impish dimples, Jean was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Albert Demers, wife of a machinist, who accompanied Jean's startling precocity by her unyielding inquisitiveness.

"Naturally, she can't read yet, but she picks up everything she hears—from the radio and when we read the papers aloud," the mother said.

The scribbles finally gave up trying to stump Jean, who was just using the interview to "warm up" for a question-beg contest tomorrow against three 11-year-old New York school girls.

"What are you going to be when you grow up, Jean?" one of them asked in putting one of them.

"A big girl!" she flashed and gave the interviewer a lily eye.

"HALIFAX, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Nova Scotians tonight read with a chuckle and very little surprise of the New York exploits of three-year-old Jean Kathleen Demers who answers nearly all questions with something approaching the greatest ease.

The golden-haired prodigy was born in Pictou, N. S. July 20, 1934. Her father, Albert Demers, a member of the Maritime and her mother, born in Pictou, moved to Nova Scotia from Massachusetts 12 years ago. They now live in Tracadie, Antigonish County village of Tracadie.

"Of course, it's all a matter of memory for she has been cradled in the arms of Mrs. Demers and if carefully by her father, other than question—well, it may be embarrassing all around. But even at her age, she says, it's a darn good memory."

NEGOTIATIONS ARE KEPT CLOSE SECRET

HALIFAX, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Outcome of reports negotiations between General Seafords, Inc. of Halifax and Boston, and the Newfoundland Commission of Government by commission of Newfoundland and Labrador, and the Newfoundland Commission of Government, manager of the Halifax plant of the firm, on his return from Newfoundland today.

Clouston, general manager of the company spent a month in the Old Country during which it was reported they had met with representatives of the Commission and discussed possible establishment of a plant in Newfoundland.

Clouston made no statement regarding the interview, other than to say "it is private negotiations. No deal has been approved."

Possibility of the company moving to Newfoundland and Labrador, following the recent strike of Halifax and Lunenburg fishermen and handlers.

PROTEST NEW HARBOR TARIFF

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

MONTREAL, Feb. 15.—The Montreal Corn Exchange Association protested today against the proposed new tariff of harbor dues issued to shippers by the National Harbors Board. Details of the protest will be forwarded to Ottawa tomorrow, were not disclosed but President H. K. Starnes said the new rates, though not affecting bulk cargoes, had an indirect effect upon prices.

DERBY ENTRIES CLOSE TONIGHT

adjustment of long tense relations between the two nations. The development came in an atmosphere of great tension after Von Schuschnigg's cabinet struggled almost continuously for 36 hours for some solution of Austria's problem of her German neighbor and Nazi influences within her own borders.

Informed Berlin sources predicted the Hitler-Schuschnigg conference would be followed by a new era of military and economic as well as a political cooperation between the two Germanic powers.

The Chancellor gave up the publication of the interior ministry and assigning its duties to Dr. Von Seyd-Weitz and Dr. Michael Skubl, who remained secretary of state for public security.

Vice-chancellor Hueber and the finance, agriculture, education and social welfare ministers were all held over from the last cabinet.

MOMENTOUS MEASURES FORMULATED

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Momentum was built up in the future of Austria and Germany, possibly including military as well as political co-operation, were being formulated tonight as the result of Reich Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg of Austria.

An official communique announcing agreement on the measure by the two Chancellors referred to the steps which "measures which will guarantee the establishment of... close friendly relationship."

It was reliably learned, however, the character of the measure was such as to indicate a new era of close Austro-German co-operation in military and economic spheres as well as political.

These reports said the economic measures would be a long step toward Germany's dream of "Anschluss," a custom union with her German-speaking neighbor.

WILL MAKE REPRESENTATIONS

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Havas News Agency in a copyright dispatch tonight quoted diplomatic sources as predicting Great Britain and France would make immediate, similar, representations to Berlin and Vienna reminding them of the "profound interest" felt by the two democratic powers in the continued independence of Austria.

The purpose of this move, Havas added, would be to re-assert Britain's right to the League of Nations and Paris for support in questions where its national integrity is involved.

In Spanish Non-Intervention Committee reports the impression was gained that Italy already has given some indication that it now planned to recall Italian troops from the Spanish insurgent ranks."

Havas added "British observers have given some indication that Hitler's impressive success in Austria has shaken the Rome-Berlin axis and that Premier Mussolini wanted his full military strength available at home to handle the implications of this development."

INCLUDE CANOEING IN OLYMPIC PLANS

TOKYO, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Canoe racing may be included in the program of the 1940 Olympic Games at Tokyo. The Japanese organizing committee is considering adding it to the events.

The program will be finally sanctioned at the next general meeting of the international Olympic committee in Cairo in the spring of 1938.

Canoe races formed part of the Olympic program at Berlin in 1936. Canada's only games winner was Frank Amyot of Ottawa, single blade paddling champion.

NOTED LANDSCAPE ARTIST DIES

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Emile Pierre Branchard, 56, United States artist who turned from truck driver to his youth to become one of the country's best known landscape painters, died today. He had been several weeks.

STALIN LETTER WAS FOR HOME CONSUMPTION

Message Not Intended To Be Interpreted Internationally.

MOSCOW, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Joseph Stalin's widely publicized letter appealing to the workers of the world to unite behind the Soviet Union if it is attacked must be read as a document of domestic, rather than international, importance, authoritative Soviet sources declared tonight.

They warned that to interpret the message in any other way would inevitably lead to inaccuracies and exaggeration.

This was their answer to world comment on Stalin's reply to a young Communist who complained he was accused of Trotskyism because he maintained that even though Socialism had triumphed within Russia, only a world victory for Socialism would guarantee the Soviet against foreign interference.

"Fascist Threat"

Stalin agreed the "Fascist threat" could not be met by the Soviet alone, but must be answered "by training the efforts of the international working classes and their own effort, in strengthening the ties uniting to them to us and organizing reciprocal aid to be brought by the foreign working classes to us in case of armed aggression against our country, and by our working class to those of the bourgeois countries."

In this portion of his letter, Moscow spokesmen said, the Communist leader was speaking from a "defensive" not an "offensive" standpoint. He was urging international proletarian cooperation as a means of assuring Russia against outside interference and the assaults of reactionary capitalism.

"German and Italian newspapers interpreted the letter as a call to world revolution, and that was predicted that Chancellor Hitler in his address before the Reichstag next Sunday, would take occasion to reply. In a semi-official opinion accused Stalin of returning to the doctrines of Leon Trotsky, and of building up Russian armaments to provoke revolution in democratic as well as Fascist countries."
