FRIENDSHIP HOPPED OFF FOR EUROPE

Pilot Announces He Will Send Out Radio Signals Reporting Progress of the Flight - Miss Earhart Aboard the Plane and Confident of Success.

(Canadian Press) BULLETIN - TREPASSEY, N.I. June 17.-The tri-motored Fokker monoplane Friendship got away on her long delayed trans-Atlantic hop at 12.21 noon today local daylight saving time, taking the air after numerous attempts up and down the bay and after dumping three containers full of gas which had been taken aboard in cans for easy dumping if the machine refused to rise.

Wilmer Schultz, pilot and navigator of the flight, said before the take-off that he would send out occasional radio signals to report progress of the flight. The monoplane's call is W O X.

Miss Amelia Earhart, passenger and auxiliary pilot, said before boarding the plane early this morning, that the wind was favorable and she was confident of success.

"We are going today in spite of everything," said the Boston social service worker and amateur aviator, who has been marking time here since Monday, June 4, awaiting favourable conditions for the flight.

The objective is Ireland or further if fuel lasts. Lou Gordon, Boston, is the third person in the machine, filling the role of mechanic.

COLUMBIA GETTING READY HARBOR GRACE, N.I. June 17.-Keen interest was aroused in the quarters of the crew of the monoplane Columbia when it was learned that Miss Amelia Earhart of Boston had at last taken off.

Miss Mabel Bell, who had hopes of being the first woman to fly the Atlantic and who came here with Capt. Oliver LeBoutillier and Arthur Argles in the Columbia a week ago to prepare for an ocean flight, at once went into conference on the possibility of getting away today in the Columbia.

They stated their belief that the Friendship was only circling the coast to study weather conditions and test their plane and declared that they would not be "drawn out."

Capt. LeBoutillier said weather conditions in mid-Atlantic according to his reports, were not favorable today for a trans-Atlantic flight.

To a reporter LeBoutillier said he had hopes of being known as "the oldest living aviator" and he was not taking any chances on today's weather. He said a hop at daylight was likely.

LATER NEW YORK, June 17.-The Bush terminal radio station here reported that its station at Chatham, Mass., picked up at 1.30 p. m. (New York time) the following message from the monoplane "Friendship": "Fair weather and going ahead O.K."

DOG TEAMS SEARCH FOR GEN. NOBILE

(Special to the Guardian) KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, June 16.-Two dog teams munched their way through the frozen Arctic today searching for General Umberto Nobile and the fifteen members of the crew of the lost dirigible Italia.

The steamer Braganza, chartered by the Italian Government, arrived today at Brandy Bay and immediately put out a landing party that consisted of a dog crew with sleds and the Italian explorer expected to meet a relief expedition from the Norwegian steamer Hobby some place in the territory surrounding Brandy Bay.

The two crews, both hoping to reach General Nobile and the five men remaining in his immediate party, cut across the icebound wastes searching for any members of the crew.

The five men with the Italian explorer are suffering from severely cold-bitten hands and from lack of food, which only is alleviated through a careful rationing of compressed food. A stiff wind is breaking up the island as the ice block on which they ride steadily is being driven eastwards.

SOUTH AFRICA TO ENTER COMPACT

Invitation of Secretary Kellogg to Participate in Anti-War Treaty Accepted.

(Special to the Guardian) WASHINGTON, D. C., June 16.-The United States of America accepted today the invitation of Secretary Kellogg to participate as an original signatory in the treaty for renunciation of war, and completed the list of fifteen nations, including the U. S. A., to signify willingness to enter into the compact.

Secretary Kellogg, who proposed awaiting acceptance by all the countries before indicating what his next step in the negotiations would be. But he recently expressed himself as undetermined as to the next move.

It is expected, however, an announcement of the next phase of the negotiations will be made shortly, as exchanges on this question have been recently carried on between the state department and representatives of several participating foreign governments.

South Africa embodies in its acceptance reservations included in the replies of several other countries. They were that the proposed treaty would not deprive any party of the right of self-defense; that a violation by any one of the parties would free the remainder from the provisions of the treaty, and that South Africa's participation would not interfere with her other international obligations.

The note of acceptance signed by general Herzog, Minister of External Affairs of State for South Africa, said that the cordial invitation of the government of the United States extended to His Majesty's Government in the Union of South Africa to participate, individually and as an original signatory in the treaty for the renunciation of war, is highly appreciated, and that His Majesty's Government in the Union of South Africa will gladly take part therein as invited together with the other governments.

General Assembly Of The Presbyterian Church In Canada

(By Rev. W. Bruce Muir) A most interesting function in connection with the meeting of the General Assembly was the unveiling of a memorial window to The Hon. George A. Bell, who was the mover of a resolution on January 5th, 1925, which resulted in the continuance of the Presbyterian Church in Regina, and the erection of the beautiful church in which the Assembly is now meeting.

The dedicatory service was conducted by the Right Rev. Mr. John Buchanan, Moderator of the General Assembly, who unveiled the tablet with the session of the First Presbyterian Church standing beneath the window. The window has been erected by the family of the late Hon. G. A. Bell in memory of their father and is a beautiful work of art with a very fine paneled oak screen underneath.

The Hon. George A. Bell was a man, who during all his life time occupied a prominent place in the public life of Saskatchewan. What- ever tended to promote the welfare of his Province in the Dominion at large had in him a warm supporter.

As private member of the local legislature, as a cabinet minister and chairman of the local government board he enjoyed the confidence and the esteem of those he served. As minister of telephones, he rendered his finest service in linking up the scattered parts of the great prairie province. He is said to have been possessed of abnormal sanity and sound judgment, and was, at all times a champion of the rights of the people. He hated sham and cant, and his soul ever rose against injustice. His warning "not to tamper with a man's religion" was unheeded at the time, but is now bearing fruit. He was throughout his strenuous life, a loyal member of the church of his fathers, and, in the days to come, when children ask the question: "What meaneth this memorial window?" They will be told, it was erected to the memory of one who like John Knox "neither feared nor flattered any man." The crowded church at the unveiling ceremony was a magnificent testimony to the worthy character of this noble work. At the evening service when the church was again crowded the past moderator of the Assembly, the Rev. A. J. MacGillivray, D. D., of Guelph and the Rev. Robert Johnston, D. D., of Ottawa, again made reference to the memorial window. Assembly Sunday has always a place of its own, but this service in the capital city of Saskatchewan will have a wonderful reflex influence upon the whole province where the Hon. George A. Bell was so well and favorably known. In the closing words of Dr. MacGillivray at the evening service, we recognize the big heart of a big man.

"I cannot recall services of a higher order or more responsive than we have had in this Presbyterian Church today. (Communicated)
