THE TRANSVAAL WAR

NORVAL'S PONT, ORANGE RIVER, ON THE BOUNDARY OF THE CAPE COLONY AND THE ORANGE FREE STATE.—'Illustrated London News.'

Norval's Pont is the name given to the railway bridge over the Orange river. The bridge is close to the frontier between the Orange Free State and the Cape Colony.

THE TRANSVAAL CRISIS.

Laing's Nek, The Scene of General Sir G. Colley's Repulse on Jan. 28 1881.

Laing's Nek of the present day presents the same natural features as it did on the sadly eventful day when the Boer force well posted on impregnable ground, repulsed the handful of British soldiers under Major-General Sir Geo Pomeroy Colley. At that time there was no railway traversing the pass, as there is now, and the task of moving troops and stores was naturally all the harder from this cause. So much has appeared in the columns of the press of late about the position and strategical importance of Laing's Nek that it need only be said that this most important pass into the Transvaal is likely to be the scene of severe fighting.

One of the regiments now at the front in Natal is the 1st (King's) Dragoon Guards, a part of whom were engaged in the action of 1881, and who doubtless will impress the Boers, when they get a chance, that they have not forgotten the death of Sergeant-Major Lunny and his brave comrades.

TO KEEP THEM BUSY

Canadian Contingent to be Drilled on Board

SHORT MEN PREFERRED

Col. Otter Says They are Able to Stand the Work Better.

TORONTO, Oct. 21—While on shipboard it is evident that the volunteers of the Canadian contingent will have plenty of work to occupy their time. Colonel Otter said: "We will drill the men during the voyage to South Africa, giving them manual firing and physical exercise, and practice with the Morris tubes. They will also be disciplined and taught economy, such as how to pack their things together and scrub out their quarters. On board the ship you may be sure everything will go like clockwork, and the men will be drilled to all exercise except the moving about in bodies."

"Judging by the recruits you picked out here you seem to prefer short men?" was remarked to Colonel Otter.

"Yes," was the reply, "I do. Of course, we do not refuse tall men, where they are physically strong and able, but men of medium height, if they are deep chested, are able to stand the work better."

"From your reports, how is recruiting going on at the other points?"

"It is slow at Ottawa, Montreal and Halifax, and something the same is reported from London. Of course, there are lots of men offering, but it is a case of obtaining the best. However, if anywhere the units are not all filled, we can easily fill them from here."

"Do you anticipate that the Canadian contingent will see any active service?"

"If the war is going on when we reach South Africa we are sure to" was the emphatic reply of Colonel Otter.

Rev. A. L. Geggie.

An interesting story is told about the late Prof. John Stuart Blackie and a student in his university class. The student is now the Rev. A. L. Geggie, who is soon to be pastor of Parkdale Presbyterian Church. The story runs: graph is published in to-day's Globe.

Professor Blackie was lecturing to a new class with whose personnel he was imperfectly acquainted. A student rose to read a paragraph, his book in his left hand. "Sir!" thundered Blackie, "hold your book in your right hand!"—and as the student would have spoken—"No words, sir! Your right hand, I say!" The student held up his right arm, ending piteously at the wrist. "Sir, I have nae right hand!" he said. Before Blackie could open his lips there arose such a storm of hisses as one perhaps must go to Edinburgh to hear; and by it his voice was overborne. Then the professor left his place and went down to the student he had unwittingly hurt and put his arm around the lad's shoulders and drew him close, and the lad leaned against his breast. "My boy," said Blackie—he spoke very softly, yet not so softly but that every word was audible in the hush that had fallen on the class-room—"my boy you'll forgive me that I was over rough? I did not know—I did not know!" He turned to the students and with a look and tone that came straight from his great heart he said: And let me say to you all, I am rejoiced to be shown I am teaching a class of gentlemen." Scottish lads can cheer as well as hiss, and that Mr. Blackie learned.—Toronto Globe.

Asthma Cured

After Twelve Years' Suffering—Toronto Physicians Advised Leaving Her Home to go to Manitoba—Clarke's Kola Compound Cured.

Mrs. McTaggart, 80 Vanauley st., Toronto, writes: "I have been troubled with asthma and bronchitis for twelve years, which gradually grew worse each year in spite of the hundreds of dollars my husband has spent with several doctors, and almost every remedy we could procure, which only afforded temporary relief. For the last two years I could not lie on my left side, and during the past year previous to taking Clarke's Kola Compound the asthma became so severe that I had not had a full night's sleep, and during most of that time we had a doctor in attendance. We gave up several doctors, as I was becoming worse, and the last doctor, after about two months' treatment, told me he could do nothing for me, and advised me to go to Manitoba or some dry climate. We heard of Clarke's Kola Compound being a cure for asthma, and before taking this remedy made several inquiries from those who had taken it, and in each case found the result so satisfactory that we resolved to try it. After taking the first bottle I became much better, and began to sleep well at nights. Since taking the third bottle I have not felt the slightest symptoms of my former trouble. I have during the past six months gained nearly 20 pounds in flesh and feel perfectly healthy in every way. I can assure you that I will do all in my power to induce any sufferer from this terrible disease to try it."

THE TRANSVAAL WAR—AN IMPROVISED FORT NEAR MAFEKING.

The Story Teller.

In eastern countries, in place of our story writers, they have professional story tellers. It is their art to interest their listeners with tales of love, and marvelous adventures, and hair-breadth escapes, and magic cures. There's a story of a wonderful medicine that has made thousands of cures that seemed almost magical, which every woman should read or hear. To have heard it or to read it, may save a woman her own life or that of her husband.

The medicine is the discovery of Dr R. V. Pierce, an eminent and skilful specialist, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It makes the appetite hearty, the digestion perfect, the liver active, the blood pure and rich, the nerves steady, the brain clear and the body strong. It is the great blood-maker and flesh-builder. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption and diseases of the air-passages. It cures nervous diseases and is the best medicine for overworked men and women. A woman may save her husband's life by keeping a bottle in the house, and getting him to resort to it when he feels out-of-sorts. All men are heedless about their health. Medicines stores sell it. Doctor Pierce's reputation is world-wide, and his fellow townsmen, of Buffalo, N. Y., think so highly of him that they made him their representative in Congress, but his great love for his profession caused him to resign that honorable position that he might devote the remainder of his life to the relief and cure of the sick.

Another good thing to have in the house is a vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They cure biliousness and constipation and never gripe.
