Col. William Jennings Bryan, three times Democratic candidate for the Presidency of the United States and one of the foremost statesmen and orators of that Republic, arrived in the city last evening on the Northumberland accompanied by Mrs. Bryan.

His Worship Mayor Rogers and Dr. Ayers and W. A. Stewart of the Y. M. C. A., under whose auspices his lecture here was held, met the distinguished American at Pictou and at the boat the party was received by His Honor Lieutenant Governor Rogers and from there they were driven in a barouche directly to the rink.

Previous to his arrival the Fourth Regiment Band paraded the principal streets and rendered a number of selections while on the march and later at the rink pending the arrival of the speaker of the evening.

At the Arena a large audience had assembled, variously estimated at from 1,500 to 2,000. When Governor Rogers, Mr. Bryan and party entered the Rink they were heartily applauded and again as they took their seats.

On the platform were Mayor Rogers, Rev. Messrs Harrison, Floyd, Strathe, McLean and others. The Fourth Regiment Band was also on the platform, at the rear of which British and American flags were draped.

At 8.50 o'clock His Honor, Lieut. Governor Rogers in introducing the renowned lecturer expressed his pleasure in presiding at a peace meeting, and having the opportunity to hear one of the most distinguished statesmen and lecturers of the North American continent. The people of P. E. Island heartily welcomed Mr. Bryan.

(Cheers.) Hon. Mr. Bryan was very heartily cheered as he began. He appreciated their welcome and the most complimentary words of the Governor. He was glad that he made the trip. The Mayor had met him across the Straits and accompanied him over. His Honor the Governor met him at the landing. He had long been an advocate of international peace, but the subject of his lecture had been able to live together side by side, rivals only in good will. This was an example to the world. He spoke also of the arbitration treaty between Britain and the States, and the coming century of a century of peace between Canada and the United States. He was satisfied that war would hereafter be a very remote possibility. (Cheers.) This object, was, however, to deal with a prophecy uttered hundreds of years before the birth of Christ, the Prince of Peace. He had learned not to talk politics outside of the United States. When he read the papers here he found it made a great difference whether you agreed with the editor or not. Even the news columns were colored. Here it was the States, there it was the States. One paper said there was a large and enthusiastic audience present. The other paper said there were eleven electors there. (Cheers.)

He was here under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. with which he had been long associated. The inauguration of a million members 500,000 were in the United States. The expenditure in the last presidential campaign was less than $2,500,000. The Y. M. C. A. expended twice that amount in a single year, eight times as much as the cost of the election. It is hard to work on a work which it is difficult to estimate the value of. When a man dies in the flames a hero and a man, his bereaved ones were consoled. But when a young man goes astray, lives a life of living death and brings down the grey hairs of his parents to the grave, a terrible tragedy is enacted. It was the work of the Y. M. C. A. to prevent such tragedies. (Cheers.) Here they had one of the first buildings of the Association in Canada. It was greatly to their credit. In his own city they were building one to cost $10,000 to which he was a contributor. He had spoken under the auspices of this body in Japan, in England, Mexico and other countries. He had studied politics and government, but was much more interested in religion, a larger question. A man might be happy under a bad government or miserable under a good one. (Cheers.)

He loved to make political speeches, but more so to talk of religion because it did more good. He hoped to convince some young man that it is not smart to be skeptical. Religion rests upon a substantial and permanent foundation, on the consciousness that we are finite and must look to the Infinite, that we are sinful and must look to the Sinless One. The relation between man and his God is the most important issue in life. There can be no system of morals build upon reason alone. We say a man cannot dispose of his property till he is twenty-one years of age, because his reason is not yet developed. But his character may be formed or destroyed before that age. The man who tries to keep account for the good he does, never does enough good to be worth the price of the book. Character rests on morals and morals on religion, wherefore religion is the principal thing. He had yet to learn of a break-down in character that did not come from a failure in morals.

There are difficulties in religion. The believer has his doubts and fears, but the unbeliever has more doubts, but more fears. He had had his own more fears. Then he read in Genesis that in the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. He accepted that and would hold to it till some authority goes back of the beginning. They talk of force in the matter, but there must be a Designer back of it wherefore the Christian begins with God.

He had no controversy with evolution. Let him who would believe he was descended from the monkey—only don't connect me with your family tree. (Cheers.) The Darwinian theory that man had developed upward from the brute, he would think less of himself than if he believed he had within him a God-given soul. No materialistic theory can give us escape from mystery. If God is God he can perform miracles. He cited what man had done with electricity as almost miraculous. If 1900 years ago two men and two alone had the secret of wireless telegraphy and had flashed a message over thousands of miles would it not be accounted a miracle? We don't know all the laws of nature. We know little of the laws of life. Love, the foundation of the home, cannot be weighed or measured. Patriotism cannot be defined in terms of mathematics. We do not know the mystery of the plant, the flower, the food we eat. If we must solve the mystery before we eat we Another Cure Harvey Bank, N. B.—I can highly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of the uterus, and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully until I began taking your medicine. It has also helped other women to whom I have recommended it.—MRS. HENRY CLARK, Glanford Station, Ontario.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women.

SICK HEADACHE

A Symptom of Troubles Which are Removed by

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Sick headaches are not merely afflictions to be borne as patiently as possible—they are danger signals. They never come unless the digestive system is out of order, and their regular recurrence is proof positive of serious trouble and a warning that should be heeded promptly.

Sick headaches are caused by Indigestion, Biliousness or Constipation, and no amount of "headache powders" will do more than temporarily relieve them. The only way to get rid of them entirely is to cure the Constipation or Indigestion that is causing them, and nothing will do this quicker or more effectively than Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are purely vegetable in character, and are free from any harmful drug. For over fifty years they have been in constant use in Canada, and have proved most effective in regulating the bowels, aiding digestion, banishing sick headaches and restoring vigorous health.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have stood the test for over fifty years, 25c. at all dealers. W. H. Comstock Co., Ltd., Brockville, Ont.

Terrible Itching Got Little Sleep

Until Cuticura Remedies Cured Him

Mr. T. Williams, Winnipeg.

Those who have suffered long and hopelessly from torturing skin eruptions will read with interest this letter from Mr. T. Williams, 115 Pacific Avenue, Winnipeg (dated Jan. 14, 1911): "The Cuticura Remedies certainly did work finely, and I am thankful that there is such a remedy, and that I tried it. About three months ago a terrible itching commenced on my body. I could not understand it. It gradually grew worse and covered a large portion of my body. There was also a slight eruption of the skin, sort of a rash. I suffered greatly with the itching and at night time I had little sleep. I tried one or two remedies which did no good, and then I used Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent. In about ten days I was completely cured."

For more than a generation the Cuticura Remedies have afforded the speediest and most economical treatment for itching, burning, scaly and bleeding skin and scalp disorders, of young and old. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, with 32-p. book on the care of the skin and treatment of its affections, send a postal to the Potter Drug & Chem. should all starve. Why then expect to solve the mystery of God? By the growth of a watermelon he illustrates the fact that we know little of the laws of growth. All the peoples of the world eat eggs. The hen can take the egg and in a few weeks give you a chicken out of it, which you could never have found there. The glass of water which he drank was just as good as if he could explain all the mystery about it. There are mysteries in the Bible, but let a man follow what he can understand of its teachings and he would not go far wrong. There was a mystery in religion in the heart of a man when he comes to hate that which he loved before. There is a mystery in the death of Christ. It is the mystery of love. The love of the mother for her child is a mystery. It is service without hope of repayment. The man who has no higher motive than to save his own life, lives a little life. It is for forgetting ourselves that we can win immortality.

Christ lived, and how he lived and died is a matter of consequence to every life. His purity, His love, His sinlessness, and forgiving spirit enable him more for us than the Alexanders and the Caesars. This forgiveness was the hardest to see. He forgave His enemies, even praying for them when they were putting Him to a shameful death. His disciples were scattered and put to death, refusing to deny Him, and His religion had spread through the world. How could he expect that? He had read in prophecy that "of the increase of His Kingdom there shall be no end." Christ had earned the title Prince of Peace. Kingdoms rose and fell but His Kingdom is ever growing. Power could not bring peace, money could not bring distinction could not attain it, worldly honor possible to the few could not bring it. But the peace of the heart was placed by Christ within the reach of the poor and the rich, even of the social outcast. Who will estimate the value of life that comes from trust in God and reliance upon His Providence. Christ is the Prince of Peace because He brought life and immortality to light, the assurance of a life beyond the grave. He had found grains of wheat in Egypt that had lain in a tomb 3,000 years, which grains he possessed the power to grow. He believed the power that thus endowed the life germ of the wheat would give his spirit power to take to itself another body when parted from this one. Christ is the Prince of Peace because he gave us the true method by which truth can be propagated, because he has given us a platform more fundamental than any before for the settlement of all disputes and problems—Love thy neighbor as thy self.

For one time that Christ spoke of the life to come He spoke ten times of this life, one duty to our fellows. He came to give us life more abundantly here and now. This is not the doctrine of the weakling but of the strong. Who so strong as who he loves that right means triumph. This enabled the martyrs to face a cruel death, and by their death accomplished more than if they lived a thousand years. He closed an eloquent defence of the Christian religion with a fine peroration amid very hearty cheering.

The vote of thanks was moved by Rev. Mr. Floyd in appreciative words and passed by a standing vote of the large audience. It was very pleasantly acknowledged by Mr. Bryan, who brought out a cheer by saying that long ago he had accepted Gladstone as his model of a statesman'smanship. The National Anthem was sung at the close of Mr. Bryan's acknowledgement.

After the meeting Col. Bryan, who is an early riser, stated that although he had to leave by the boat at 8.20 this morning he would take advantage of the early hours to enjoy a drive around the city and suburbs when he may also observe what he then termed as "your beautiful country."

FRIDAY. After a long illness, that brought with it great suffering, Mrs. Anna Marie Martin, wife of William A. Martin, died Sunday at her late home, 87 Ocean street, Ashmont, Mass. Though the past few years of her life had been spent in Ashmont, Mrs. Martin was for thirty years or more a resident of the Lower Mills and was well known and highly respected by a large number of friends, who sincerely mourn her loss. She leaves her husband and her eleven children.

Born in North Attleboro, Mass., May 26, 1856, daughter of Leonard and Mrs. Altrith, she attended school in Boston, and in 1874 married Mr. Martin in Cambridge. They came to the Lower Mills to live, occupying a house on Temple street.

Mrs. Martin early became identified with the Village church, and for years was a member of the society and a worker. Her greatest interest was her home and her children, to whom she devoted herself to the exclusion of most outside interests.

All of Mrs. Martin's children survive her. They are Alexander A., of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Frederick W., of Everett, Wash.; J. George, of Chicago; Mrs. Oscar Kurtz, of North Attleboro; Mary J. Louise, Leonard, William E., T. Edwin, L. Perkins and E. Wellington, of Ashmont. She also leaves her mother, Mrs. Leonard Altrith of Medford.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Martin's late home and were conducted by Rev. Webster H. Powell of the Methodist church. There was a great number of floral tributes. Burial was at Cedar Grove Cemetery. At the services Rev. Mr. Powell read a tribute to Mrs. Martin, written by Rev. G. Wolcott Brooks, her pastor, when he learned of the precarious state of her illness, while he was on the steamer about to sail for Europe. The tribute follows:

"I shall always think of Mrs. Martin as the beautiful mother; she was an angel on earth, and so she will be quite at home in Heaven, as she felt the spirit of the Glory Land while here in this world. It was Divine Love that made her what she was. No selfish purpose ever entered her heart; her first thought was for her family. All the wealth of her great mother love she poured upon her children. So many babies and little ones she ministered to, soothed and cuddled when sick and in sorrow, prayed for and taught to say, 'Now I lay me down to sleep.' What just pride and sweet satisfaction she felt as she saw her children growing up into useful lives. Her joy was bound up with their joy, her honor with their honor, her Heaven with their Heaven.

"I am profoundly sorry for this husband and these children in their inestimable loss. You are to be congratulated in having had all these years such a dear one in your home. May God bless every one of you. May her mantle of sweet righteousness fall upon you all." (Mr. Martin above referred to is a native of Grand View and has many relatives in this Province.)

by making bread that appeals to their taste as well as giving nourishment to their system. Ask the average child which it prefers, bread or cake, and it will invariably answer, "Cake".

That is because the bread is not as tasty as it might be. It lacks that delicate, sweet, appealing flavor that children relish so heartily, and that is just as easy to provide as the nourishing properties.

is the stand-by of every thinking mother and housewife. You need not be a brilliant cook in order to get good results with this carefully balanced blend of Manitoba Spring wheat and Ontario Fall wheat. You don't have to bother about one kind of flour for bread, and another for pastry. "BEAVER FLOUR" provides the ideal qualities for both—the gluten, or nourishment, of the Manitoba wheat, and the lighter properties of the Ontario wheat that go to make bread white and sweet and pastry crisp and flaky. Special to The Guardian. PORTLAND, Sept. 14—The fate of constitutional prohibition in Maine remained in doubt early today. Special to The Guardian. TORONTO, Sept. 14—The inspection of Toronto's milk supply by the medical health depot has shown some very shocking conditions. In forty-two cases milk cans were found being returned in a dirty condition. Water from these cans showed fermentation and gave a bacterial count on a par as high as 33,000,000. In 57 cases milk was found containing dirty substances.

Special to The Guardian. LONDON, Sept. 14—General William Booth was the central figure at a great public reception given in London today to mark the termination of his Evangelistic tour of the United Kingdom.

The tour was made in a motor car and occupied 26 days. Notwithstanding his 82 years the venerable founder and head of the Salvation Army is looking forward with eager interest to his coming visit to America.

LAURET, Md., Sept. 9—A curly haired blue eyed youth who after biting a false name admitted he was John R. Morgan, of Mojave, Calif., 17 years old, attempted to hold up the Citizens National Bank here yesterday at the pistol's point. He lost his nerve, however, at the sight of a menacing revolver in the cashier's hands, fled when fired upon without replying in kind or accomplishing his purpose. He was captured several hours later. He made no resistance and admitted being the person wanted. The boy said he had "beat" his way East from his California home, arriving two days ago. Wandering on to Laurel, he saw the two bank buildings here. "I decided to rob the bank or kill ever man in it," said the boy.

DOCTORS HAD GIVEN UP ALL HOPE

"Fruit-a-lives" saved my Life

RIVERA A. PIERRE, O., May 9, 1910. "I look upon my recovery as nothing short of a miracle. I was for eleven years, constantly suffering from Chronic Dyspepsia and Indigestion. I was treated by several doctors and they simply did me no good. During the latter part of my illness, I was so thin that I weighed only 90 pounds, and I vomited everything I ate.

The doctors gave me up to die as the stomach trouble produced heart weakness and I was frequently unconscious. I received the Last Rites of The Church. At this time, a lady strongly urged me to try "Fruit-a-lives". When I had taken one box, I was much better and after three boxes, I was practically well again, and had gained 20 pounds. I have taken 13 boxes in all and now weigh 150 pounds and am well."
