SURGICAL AID OFTEN SOUGHT TOO LATE

PARIS, Oct. 10.—At the twenty-fourth Congress of Surgery, now being held here surgeons complain that physicians often bring patients to them so late that a surgical operation is almost hopeless. So, of course, the rate of mortality is increased, in certain surgical affections, by fatal cases which might have been operated on in time. It has been urged at the congress that surgeons should go outside their branch of the profession as far as to learn to diagnose all diseases as accurately as possible.

Several Americans are among the noted foreign surgeons at the congress; one, Dr. Laplace, of Philadelphia, the chief subjects being considered are appendicitis and peritonitis. Both have afforded Dr. Doyen, the famous Paris surgeon, fresh opportunity to astonish his colleagues by his novel views and new methods of treatment.

Dr. Doyen insists that the majority of cases of appendicitis do not need a surgical operation, and that most appendicitis patients who are operated on suffer after-effects. Doyen treats such a patient by injections of mycolysine into the inflamed appendix; he declares this new agent cures the inflammation of the appendix when it does not contain a foreign body, which has caused the inflammation. When an operation is absolutely necessary in appendicitis, Dr. Doyen uses what he calls the only method that offers the best chances of success: he crushes the appendix, which is only a useless blind pouch, and ties the intestine with a double suture, like a purse string, which he invented a dozen years ago.

"Cut Out" Coal Extravagance

There's just as much room for economy in buying coal as any other necessity of life.

While Inverness Coal has more heat units to the ton than any other coal it costs no more than the common coal.

The use of a little judgment or "horse sense" will tell any person that the coal with the greatest amount of heat-producing qualities is the most economical to buy. Inverness is properly screened coal—every particle of foreign matter is extracted, leaving nothing but a good, uniform standard of clean, screened coal.

—How to vaccinate the peritonium against inflammation—that is, against peritonitis. MAINE'S VOTE UP TO FIVE CLERKS.

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 11.—The possibility of correction of the official figures of the State's vote of Sept. 11 on the question of the repeal of the constitutional prohibitory amendment rests entirely upon the ability of the town clerks of Athens, Limestone, Matinicus Isle and Westfield, and other interested persons, to prove to the Governor and council that their original returns were wrong, for today marked the close of the period during which requests could be made and no other towns had been heard from.

The Governor and council were in session today to receive such requests, those for the four towns named having previously been made, but they were not forthcoming. The next step will be the holding of a public hearing at which all persons interested for or against the acceptance of corrections will be given an opportunity to be heard.

The date of this hearing is expected to be announced shortly. After the hearing Governor Plaisted has until Dec. 1 to make his final announcement of the outcome of the election.

A NOVEL GOOD TURN. Scouts at Sleaford have been doing good turn. During the recent hot weather, when so many people were going away for holidays, the trains passed through Sleaford Station were usually filled with hot and weary passengers.

The local Scouts, with true Scout-like confederation for others, took up their positions on the station platforms, and while trains were stopping in the station the boys went to the windows and gave the passengers fresh water to drink. This is an idea which might well be put into practice by other troops; but the station-master's consent should, of course, be first obtained.
