SUNDAY'S STORM A DAMAGING ONE

Electric Light and Power Off for a Night and a Day. Telegraph and Telephone Connection Demoralized.

On Sunday the province was treated to a snowstorm accompanied by a gale of wind which did considerable damage to the telephone, telegraph and electric power system. The storm began early Sunday morning and by the afternoon had developed into a veritable blizzard. The snow that fell was of the soft, slushy variety every flake sticking where it fell until the accumulation broke down the telegraph, telegraph and electric wires and even in some cases the poles and cross-arms. As a result throughout the city the electric light was off after eight o'clock Sunday night leaving the city in darkness a condition which continued throughout the night as it was found unsafe to turn on the power owing to the entanglement of wires and the danger of electrocution to any citizens who might come in contact with them. The Guardian machinery being run by electric power was considerably inconvenienced. Fortunately however having duplicate power, electricity and steam, the operators were able not only to issue the Guardian Monday morning but to help the Patriot out with its afternoon edition yesterday. The electric light and power were restored last evening at five o'clock and the telephone system was pretty generally adjusted. The Telegraph system is still badly out of many breaks having occurred all along the line. There is wire trouble on the mainland also and no telegrams have come through since Saturday night. Mr. Morrison of the Telegraph Company, Mr. McKie of the Electric Light and Power Company and Mr. Van Buskirk of the Telephone Company had gangs of men out all day and had things pretty well straightened out last night with the exception of the Telegraph lines which is expected will be in working order today. The storm was the most damaging to wires and trees that has occurred in the last twenty years, its only parallel being a sleet storm which did somewhat similar damage in the nineties of last century.

MRS. H. S. HINTON WINS $25 IN GOLD

Charlottetown Candidate Leads All Competitors for Special Awards. Miss Hattie Huestis of Summerside $15 and Mrs. W. A. Cumming of Montague $10.

Surprised! Well, rather! The surprise was just as great to the members of the campaign department when the result were known. The large number of subscriptions turned in by the candidates during the special prize period proved a tremendous task. The above tells the tale of the outcome of the special prize period. After making a careful canvass of all the votes issued on subscriptions during the special prize period, it was found that the three candidates named above were entitled to the prizes. All records pertaining to the special period vote will be preserved, and on the final night of the campaign, the judges will verify the count of the votes issued to each of the candidates for the special prizes. It was an interesting race. Nearly every one of the candidates did well, and the winners in several instances were hard pressed for their positions. It would not have taken a large number of votes to have created a tie among any of them for the prizes. Don't Go to Sleep Now that the special prize period is over, don't go to sleep. They are conscious that they did well during the time their efforts counted the most, and they lose sight of the fact that all of those efforts may be wasted if they relax their energies. The race is far from run, and there is not a candidate, even at the foot of the list, who cannot overcome the present handicap in the remaining six days. You will get a valuable lesson from your candidacy in this campaign, for nothing else could teach you so well the danger of procrastination. Energy, promptness and perseverance are the requisites for success, and you will make the best of the time still remaining, for this should be a good lesson and a training to you. There now remains six days of the campaign. December 8th is the final closing date. Candidates cannot afford to take it easy because the special prize period is over. Many a campaigner is lost or thrown away in the final week. It is the strong finisher who usually comes out a winner. To the Public If you have promised a candidate a subscription, or if you intend to surprise one by paying a subscription there is no better way of going about it than sending it in now to the campaign department. Candidates have many people to see in the next six days of the campaign, and it is just possible that they will not be able to get to see you, and the much needed vote will be lost. Save the candidate all the time and steps you can by sending your subscription direct to the campaign manager.

WOMEN OF VERDUN BEHIND DOHERTY

Mass Meeting Was Solid in Voting for Union Government. One Issue Only Appeals. Important Material Questions Fade Before Great Issue, Points Out Minister of Justice.

TORONTO, Dec. 1.—Hon. C. J. Doherty received a reception from the women of Verdun yesterday afternoon at the Princess Hall in Verdun that indicated clearly not only the high regard in which the Minister of Justice is held, but also the depth into which the idea of winning the war has sunk with the women of Verdun, a great number of whom have sons, husbands and brothers at the front, or who, unfortunately, have lost such relatives at the front. There were over 400 women present at the meeting, some carrying the baby whose father is at the front. Miss Helen Reid, after her address, asked for those who were going to vote for the Union Government to stand up, and the women stood up en masse. Mr. Doherty was given an enthusiastic reception and his short address was listened to with extreme attention. He said that he was glad that, for the first time, he was able to come before an audience without appealing for a partisan vote, without asking for a vote for a particular party. There were a number of questions that were important before the country, and important to the material benefit of Canada, but all such matters dropped into insignificance before the one big issue that the people of Canada found themselves face to face with. It was because of this great issue that all other issues were overshadowed, said Hon. Mr. Doherty, and he was glad that in a great crisis in the history of Canada he was able to appeal, not to partisan feelings, nor for a party, but for the things that Canada was fighting for. Gave Up Ambitions The formation of the Union Government was touched on by Hon. C. J. Doherty, when he paid a tribute to the men on "the other side of the speaker," who had renounced party to form a national government, and, also, touched on men on the old Conservative side who had given up ambitions so that Union might become an established fact in Canada. Men had gone into the new Government who for years past had attacked it. Simultaneously with the women of Canada being given the vote, or at least a portion of them who had loved ones at the front, Canada was crossing the threshold of nationality, and taking a proud place as a nation within the Empire. Canada was stepping into nationality with head held high, and with a consciousness of duty well done.

LAURIERISM STILL GROWS IN QUEBEC

Riotous Scenes at Sherbrooke, Quebec, When Unionist Meeting Was Broken Up by Howling Mob of Laurierites. Theatre Wrecked and Some Twenty Pitched Battles Fought.

SHERBROOKE, QUE., Nov. 30.—The most serious disturbance that has yet occurred in the province of Quebec in the present general elections took place here last night at a meeting in His Majesty's theatre, where Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of justice, and Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, minister of marine and fisheries, sought to give oratorical assistance to the Unionist candidate for this riding, W. S. Davison. It was a riotous crowd of hoodlums that started the trouble which ended only after the front of the theatre had been wrecked and a cyclonic effect had been given to the interior by numerous fights. The rioters were held back only by the well-directed use of a fire hose at the stage door when they attempted to storm the stage where the speakers were. The riot lasted more than three hours, during which period the howling mob broke through the doors of the theatre and were repelled by the citizens who had been occupying seats on the ground floor, and who each time that the gang broke into the theatre, rose up in their might and drove them back. Twenty Battles. It was a series of pitched battles and there were at least twenty of them. The whole of the front of the theatre was smashed to splinters. Not a single piece of glass was left intact and through the broken windows stones of all sizes went hurtling into the building. At the end of the meeting the chairman called on the peaceful people to remain inside for a time in order that the situation might be gone into with a view to seeing what steps could be taken to get the women away in safety. The men decided to protect their own women, and many chairs were broken so that the arms and legs might serve as weapons and almost on masse the audience left the hall. They presented such a determined appearance that they were not rushed, as had been expected. At the close of the meeting only about 800 people remained in the theatre. These were the peaceable people. The others, who had filled the galleries at the commencement of the meeting, had gone out instead of waiting to be thrown out, and joined their fellows in the street. Trouble Was Planned. The trouble here tonight was expected. It had been openly threatened for three days. The meeting was called at 8.30 p. m., but before that time the lower floor was filled with citizens of Sherbrooke and their wives and daughters. There were about three hundred of these present, but so angered were they when the row was started from the gallery that they jumped up en masse and commenced to rush toward the stairway, calling that they would clean out the gallery. Only Hon. Mr. Ballantyne saved the situation at that point, calling on them to be calm and not to bring on an open and pitched battle in the theatre, if it were possible. As the evening wore on the young fellows in the gallery slipped away, and getting out of the foyer, sometimes indulging in fights on the way, and sometimes peacefully, swelled the mob outside which continuously kept up a wolfish howl that served as accompaniment to the speeches. The speakers kept right on, stones dropping on the stage from windows which opened from the gallery into the theatre lane did not deter them, though Hon. Mr. Doherty had a narrow escape from a two-pound lump of hardened pavement. The attacks were made by the rough necks from every angle, stones were thrown into the building from every window, and plate glass fell in showers, particularly inside the main entrance. The doors were locked shortly after the meeting started, but the framework could not stand the successive rushes. The lives of the women sitting in the boxes were imperilled several times, and finally they had to vacate for it looked as if the crowd would make an entrance at this point. Three or four returned soldiers who were in the audience jumped up, time and again and rushed towards these boxes to defend the women in case the crowd got through and they finally remained on guard.

LORD CHANCELLOR EXPRESSES HOPE ABOUT CANADA

LONDON, Dec. 1.—At a reception given in London in honor of the Hon. P. E. Blondin and the Premier of Nfld. the Lord Chancellor in the course of an address recalled Sir Wilfrid Laurier's declaration in 1914 that Canadians whether English, Irish or French could not contemplate the possibility of remaining quiescent when Anglo-French forces were fighting the Germans for the freedom of France and Belgium and the civilization of the world. "That," he said, "was a noble sentiment." It was not for him to express an opinion about the great election contest now going on in Canada but all were agreed in hoping that the contest might end in such a fashion that Canada would be able to throw her whole strength in the conflict for the freedom of the world.

COMPEL ITALIANS TO BUILD DEFENCES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The Austro-German invaders in Italy, official despatches received here today from Rome say, are compelling the civil population of the captured region, without respect to age or sex, to work on fortifications of the Tagliamento, the left bank of the Piave and the Cadore zones. A German officer, despatches say, confirms the report that Hindenburg had personal charge of the drive in Italy. "According to his plan," say the despatches, "General Conrad's army was to roll down like an avalanche on the Sette Comuni plateau, while the armies of Krobatin and Von Bulow were to pour into the Brenta Valley, surround the mountainous barrier and descend into the fertile Venetian plains. The commencement of the colossal offensive was set for the fourteenth of November with the arrival of Austro-German troops at Castelgombert, but the Italian resistance before Heletta and Galliet upset the plans of Hindenburg."

HEARST AND ROWELL TO STUMP PROVINCE

TORONTO, Dec. 1.—Sir Wm. Hearst, Premier of Ontario, and Hon. Newton Rowell, formerly Liberal leader in the legislature are to stump the province together. His condition was described as "satisfactory." Prince Albert is an officer in the British Navy. On August 28, 1911, he was removed ashore, suffering from appendicitis, and was operated upon at Aberdeen for that ailment. He has been on duty intermittently since then. The Prince is nearly 23 years old.

ST. ANDREWS FRIDAY DINNER NIGHT

"A Feast of Island Reason and a Flow of Highland Soul"

St. Andrew's Night was a "brilliant night" and the 60 or more sons of Auld Scotia, who gathered round the festive board at the Davies Hotel are of the opinion that even though the dinner was held on Friday, a needless day for some, it was the best festival of its kind for 28 years and has added another laurel to the culinary crown of Mrs. Davies of the Davies Hotel. Mr. Thomas P. White, occupied the President's chair and on his right was the Chief D. A. McKinnon, K. C. former Governor of the Province, on his left was Major the Rev. Dr. T. F. Fullerton; seated at the President's table were Hon. Murdoch McKinnon, Commissioner of Agriculture, Hon. Mr. Pierce, U. S. Consul, James Paton, M.L.A., Col. D. Stewart, Chairman of the Dinner Committee. Among the guests of honor, including the above, were Major J. W. Stanley, Councillor Jenkins, Rev. R. G. Fulton, and Mr. C.H.B. Longworth. It was nearly 9 o'clock when Piper MacKenzie marched the men to the Banquet Hall, where the war-time menu with the Haggis and baked haddock, as its chief constituents, was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. At each cover was placed a sprig of heather, the gift of Mr. James Paton, M.L.A., which he had received direct from Paisley, Scotland, his birthplace. He was slightly after 10 o'clock when the Haggis made its appearance, and preceded by Piper MacKenzie, was borne around the room in a D. B. MacDonald of Bedeque, and placed before the President, where Ex-Chief Chas. Webster addressed it, as he has done for 27 years past. After coffee was served and cigars were burning freely, President White read greetings received from the St. Andrews Societies of St. John, N. B., Fredericton, N. B., Ottawa, Albany, N. Y., and the North British Society at Halifax, with replies thereto. He also read a telegram from Premier A. E. Arsenault expressing his appreciation of the St. Andrews Dinner for the past 28 years or more. Much credit is due the Committee in charge, which was composed of Col. D. Stewart, James Paton, M.L.A., S. A. MacLeod, L. McDonald, J. R. Burnett, Thomas F. White, and T. F. MacMillan. Minard's Liniment Cures Colds, etc.
