States Enforce Freak Statutes

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(C.P.)—Establishment of a permanent closed season on bullfrogs by the Arizona state legislature is probably the most freakish statute of the hundreds of odd measures passed by the various American legislative assemblies this year.

Generally these bodies were kept busy with serious emergency problems dealing with the economic situation. However, these representatives of state governments had their moments for if all the bills had been enacted into law—

Kansas pedestrians would wear red tail-lights. Motion pictures in Nebraska would never show a woman smoking tobacco. The Zither would be established as Indiana's official musical instrument. North Dakota would have succeeded from the "industrial east."

Ohio and Indiana both established the cardinal as their official bird.

SIX BARNs DESTROYED BY FIRE

A destructive fire reduced to ashes six barns, three large ones and three smaller ones, at North River on Monday night and yesterday morning. The buildings destroyed were the property of Mr. John Jewel, a prominent farmer of North River, and with their contents were valued at several thousand dollars. The framework of a barn under construction was also burned.

The greater part of the contents of these buildings went up in flames, including 20 tons of hay, 400 bushels of oats, 80 bushels of wheat, 2 tons of fertilizer and all the machinery. Six calves and four pigs perished, but fortunately the horses and poultry were saved.

The neighbors quickly gathered and rendered every possible assistance but as the buildings were all close together it was impossible to save them. The dwelling house, however, was saved, although it was in imminent danger.

The cause of the fire has not been ascertained. The blaze started in a straw stack and was first noticed at 6.30 Monday evening by one of Mr. Jewel's sons, who attempted to stamp it out, but finding it impossible, ran for water.

The flames spread so rapidly, however, that in a comparatively short time the buildings were ablaze.

African Chiefs Now Economise

NEW YORK, June 6.—(C.P.)—Tribal chiefs in South Africa, especially those in Basutoland, must know their economics nowadays to hold their jobs. It seems members of the numerous tribes are thirsty for knowledge of the intricacies of the gold standard, currency stabilization and other economic problems now confronting most parts of the world.

Oswin B. Bull, director of technical education in Basutoland, has recommended to the British government the tribal chiefs of his territory be given vocational training. Describing conditions in this little known piece of the British Empire before the Race Relations department of the Federal Council of Churches here, Mr. Bull said the 600,000 blacks live in peace under their chiefs and under the British Colonial Office commissioners.

The position of chief, he pointed out, is hereditary "and we have found they have a tendency to take advantage of their position. They must be instructed in civic duty, must have a smattering of book keeping and economics, a little of agriculture and knowledge of their own tribal laws."

More and more members of the various tribes are going to their chiefs for explanation of various problems and the chief unable to explain finds himself in an embarrassing position, the speaker said.

Chief Justice's Address

In addressing the Grand Jury His Lordship said they had been called upon at this term to deal with several criminal cases. The most serious, is that of Edmund Arsenault. His Lordship reviewed very briefly the evidence of the chief witness at the preliminary hearing and spoke of the seriousness of the charge.

In referring to the charge against Avarid Jelly, His Lordship said that he had never had a case of that nature in all his experience; but although the case was without precedence in this Province, it was an indictable offense and a serious one.

His Lordship then reviewed the Sheriff's report of the prisoners in the jail and spoke particularly of the number imprisoned for driving to the common danger. This matter has been before Grand Juries time and again and they have brought in resolutions, which have sometimes been acted upon and sometimes ignored.

You are here to consider these things regardless of how they are received. From the earliest times in this Province it has been the custom for Grand Juries to bring down reports on conditions dealing with the public service; many times these reports have brought immediate action of an important kind.

You as the Grand Jury should not hesitate to express your unbiased opinion on any matter dealing with the public service. His Lordship also commented upon the satisfactory condition of the Court House and asked the Grand Jury to inspect and report on it.

The Jury then retired.

AFTERNOON SESSION

True bills were returned in the remaining four criminal cases at the afternoon session of the Court. The prisoners were arraigned and each pleaded not guilty. The case of the King vs. Charles Cahill will start this morning and will probably occupy the balance of the week. The next will be that of Edmund Arsenault. The appeal case of Foster Skerry against the King was set down for

Grand Jury's Report

About 5.30 p.m. the Grand Jury brought in their report, after inspecting the jail, which was as follows:

To His Lordship, the Chief Justice, may it please Your Lordship. We the Grand Jury of Prince County at the June 1933 sitting of the Supreme Court beg leave to report as follows: Have visited and inspected the lower cells, find the walls newly whitened and cells in good condition, the ceilings in the corridors are in bad condition and need repairs. Floor in upper prison is in bad order. Would recommend hardwood floor on this room and the hall, the ceilings are also in very bad condition, the plaster being in need of repair. The wiring in this room looks defective and should be inspected. The window sills in the upper prison are in bad order. They have large holes in them that we consider fire traps. In the mens toilet we find the floor in bad condition and should be repaired. We also wish to report that the ceiling in the lower kitchen is all down and would recommend the plaster being replaced with a metal ceiling and the floor coated with cement.

IMPROVEMENT

are that this year's small cut will be used up by July although prices are not high enough to warrant a larger cut for next year. Improvement in American trade has resulted in the chartering of the schooner Esthonia, laid up at Halifax two years. She will load lumber at Bay Chaleur, N. B., for New York.

SAINT JOHN—"Lumbering situation appears improved in New Brunswick with the probability that the cut and employment will show marked increase over last year. The Fraser companies are operating more mills than formerly. Their mill at Atholville, closed four years will re-open immediately to saw 8,000,000 feet of logs."

MONTREAL—"General condition of the lumbering industry in Quebec has improved. Some benefit is noted among lumbermen from the British embargo against Russia. The companies are employing additional help. At Calumet the mill of the Canadian International Paper Company has re-opened giving employment to 100 men. It is estimated that 3,000 have been given work as a result of the campaign of Quebec timber and forest products commission to substitute cordwood for coal, especially in the Laurentian district north of Montreal."

Dealing with general business the monthly review of business statistics issued by the Federal Trade Department records the amount of bank and dominion notes in the hands of the public is greater than normal for the season; that zinc and asbestos exports show expansion; that the milling industry was more active in the last month for which statistics were available and that newspaper production was up eight percent in April, the last month to report.

MANUFACTURER

Will Prove Beneficial

C. L. MacKay, Charlottetown, declared beef and pork prices had been favorably affected in the Maritime and the farmers were delighted. His impression was the conference had been highly successful and would be more so in days to come. J. D. Pratt, London, England, was enthusiastic about the results achieved. He believed the new scheme of economic co-operation between the nations of the Empire would be of great value in the future. All the agreements were not immutable but could be adjusted to the needs of the Empire, he said.

Discuss Tariff Report

In discussing the report of the Tariff Committee, J. R. K. Bristol, Manager of the C. M. A. Tariff Department, outlined some of the difficulties which faced Canadian importers through the prohibitions and restriction placed on their goods by various nations. He declared gross customs duties collected in 1931 were $109,000,000, but has now declined to $77,000,000.

J. H. Webb, Montreal, declared it was understood the United States was going to the World Conference with the idea of getting a 10 percent reduction in tariffs, and thought the association should ask Premier R. B. Bennett to protect the interests of Canadian manufacturers. Other delegates disagreed, declaring Mr. Bennett would take appropriate action without the request.

There was no doubt, said Mr. Bristol, the French Treaty recently signed would be a splendid thing for the manufacturing and other industries of Canada. The report was then adopted.

MATTERN

"Just as soon as I stopped eating they put me to bed here at the airport, while they loaded my ship with oil and gas. "I am going to try to make Chita from here but if the weather and other conditions are unfavorable I will land at Krasnoyarsk. "I will need a big landing field because I am not sure about that strut. I'll make Chita if all goes well." Matern was indignant when he was told of reports he had come down at Sverdlovsk, about half way between Moscow and Omsk. "That's ridiculous!" he exclaimed "I was in the air all the day from Moscow to Omsk." Matern spent the whole time he was in Omsk at the airport, refusing hotel accommodations because he wished to stay as close as possible to his monoplane, "Century of Progress."

Classes in Music Gave Recital And Demonstration

A combined piano recital and demonstration of classwork was given last evening in the Prince Street Hall by pupils of Miss Lilian MacKenzie, who is teaching classes in music in the school. This was the first recital given under the new plan of teaching music to pupils in groups, for the encouragement of which system the Canadian Bureau for the Advancement of Music provides short courses for teachers. The teaching of the three classes receiving instruction is authorized by the City School Board. Those taking part in the recital were as follows:

First Class, Margaret McKenzie, Earl Hennessey, Margaret Lawson, Allan Thompson, Norma Daisiel; Second Class, Vera Hooper, Ivy Sherren, Thelma Sherran, Jean Pancher, Dorothy Keeping, Mary Hooper; Third Class, Phyllis Mutch, Billie McLaren, Earl Wonnacott, Isabel Clawson, Frederick Seaman, Edith Hume, Kimball Keeping, Orva Gill, Stanley Thompson. Solos, duets, trios, rhythm, orchestras, class work in notes, time signatures, key signatures and scale-building, ear training formed the items of the programme. The pupils acquitted themselves well in both their playing and their class-work, and their performance was a matter of great satisfaction to the large number of parents and guests who were in attendance.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Government have not returned from Whitsuntide holidays, questions of major policy are not likely to be discussed extensively. The House of Commons, now in adjournment, will want to have a definite announcement upon the debt question when it reassembles two days before the payment is due.

U. S. VIEW

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(A.P.)—Word that the British Government is looking for an indication from Washington of what is expected in the way of June 15 war debt payments came as a surprise to informed quarters here. Following the dictate of Congress about any cancellation or reduction of the debts, President Roosevelt, it was authoritatively asserted, is making no offer of settlement to the debtor nations.

Address And Presentations

On the eve of his departure from the Experimental Farm, where he had served for ten years as poultry-man, Mr. Fred Driscoll was presented with an address and an engraved leather folio case by his co-workers. On the following morning he left for Quebec to receive his itinerary and instructions as Poultry Inspector for the Maritime Provinces. Following is the address: Dear Mr. Driscoll:— It is with feelings of mingled regret and pleasure that we are called upon to bid you farewell in so far as your work with this Station is concerned—regret because with you going we are losing one with whom it has always been a delight to work with, one whom we have always found reliable, careful and painstaking in duty and whose genial smile could be relied upon to help brighten the day. Our pleasure lies in feeling that you are taking a forward step in your chosen work; and in tendering this small token of our esteem we cannot but wish you every success and enjoyment in your new position. Signed on behalf of the staff and employees, Experimental Station Charlottetown.

I'M ALONE CASE AGAIN CROPS UP

U. S. Government Accused of Prosecuting Case to Avoid Paying Destruction Penalty.

OPELOUSAS, La., June 6.—(A.P.)—The United States Government was accused by defence counsel today of prosecuting Dan Hogan for no reason save to prove the Canadian schooner I'm Alone was a rum smuggler and thus avoid paying the Canadian Government a penalty for her destruction by the coast guard.

The charge was made in a petition to quash Hogan's indictment as he went on trial here under accusation of participating in operations of the I'm Alone which was sunk off the Louisiana coast in March, 1929.

Double Jeopardy

Seth Lewis, defence attorney, charged he was being placed in "double jeopardy" in view of his previous conviction. The present trial charges violation of the tariff laws in connection with the operations of the "I'm Alone" which went down under coast guard fire with the loss of one life. Its Canadian registry led to international exchanges and the appointment of an arbitration commission. "They must show the Canadian Government that liquor was actually carried on the boat to justify the sinking of the 'I'm Alone'," Lewis said.

Cover Long Period

On the plea of double jeopardy, the defence claimed the other conspiracy conviction covered alleged offences from April 1, 1929 to July 1, 1929, and that the present indictment was drawn to cover a period earlier in 1929 in order to bring in alleged operations of the Canadian schooner.

Judge Dawkins ruled that the trial evidence would show whether the two prosecutions covered the same ground. Selection of a jury was completed late today to try Hogan and the three others charged with conspiracy to violate the tariff laws.

FORMER ISLANDER PASSES

News has been received by Mr. Angus MacKenzie, city, of the death of his brother, Mr. Norman MacKenzie, at Douglas, Arizona. Mr. MacKenzie who was a son of the late Donald MacKenzie of Rose Valley left home at an early age and spent the most of his life in the American South West where he became a mining expert. He was elected County Judge at Globe, Arizona, on two occasions, a position which he filled honorably and successfully till ill health forced his retirement from public life. He leaves to mourn a widow and one daughter, Mrs. Schurman, who was with him when he died; also three brothers and two sisters. His funeral was conducted by the Masonic lodge of which he was a valued member.

Major Daniel MacKenzie who is visiting in the city at present is a brother.
