Stocks bulged up $1 to more than $5 a share for many leading issues in the middle of the day, and the volume of trading reached the fastest pace seen this year, but the buying slackened in the last hour, and there were numerous recessions of $1 to $2 a share from the day's top prices. SHAKESPEARE OUT-OF-DOORS
 LONDON, July 28.—(By The Canadian Press)—Shakespeare is a new, or original, setting was enjoyed by a large number of Londoners in a recent open-air performance of "Twelfth Night" the play being produced in the Royal Botanic Gardens, Regent's Park. Deck chairs and grass provided the accommodation for the audience and the cast consisted of players from The New Theatre, including Miss Phyllis Nelson-Terry, Miss Jean Forbes, Robertson, Robert Atkins and Arthur Wontner.
 Before the performance began rain threatened, but fortunately held off. Green trees made a refreshing setting for Shakespeare's poetic wit and the fragrant air of the Gardens was a relief from the stuffiness of a theatre. A melodious string orchestra played under a nearby tree. Two white benches on the grass were the only properties, and Shakespeare was put to a real test. For it is a test for any play to be played in the open and yet keep the illusion.
 The black and white costumes of the cast stood out against the green background and gave an otherworldly appearance, and Shakespeare's language sounded even more convincing in the open than indoors.
 The actors played together extraordinarily well, despite difficulties of entries made round rhododendrons and exits through gaps in the hedge. The acting seemed to suffer nothing from its airing. The New Theatre was congratulated upon its enterprise.
 Let us imbibe the hopeful helpful spirit of the season and say, "the best is yet to come" We mustn't sit down and wait for the best to come to us but go out high hearted to meet it and greet it.

Preferences On Lumber Sought By Nova Scotia

HALIFAX, N. S. July 29.—(By The Canadian Press)—Future prosperity of Nova Scotia hinges on a revival of her forest industries, according to a paper submitted to the Imperial Economic Conference by the provincial Department of Lands and Forests.
 The paper contains results of a survey of the present situation in the province and lists four requests:
 (1) Establishment of a flourishing lumber trade with England and the British Dominions through a preferential tariff of not less than 20 per cent for all manufactured wood products and for all sizes and species of unmanufactured wood.
 (2) Reduction in freight rates on lumber from provincial manufacturing points to Atlantic points of shipping of 10 per cent, through the co-operation of the Canadian federal government with the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway.
 (3) Reduction in ocean freight rates of 15 per cent, through the co-operation of the Canadian federal government with the Canadian National Steamship Lines, the Canadian Pacific Steamship Lines and the North Atlantic Conference.
 (4) An embargo on all Russian wood manufactured or unmanufactured in any part of the British Empire.
 "It is absolutely futile to discuss tariffs and prices as long as the Russian wood is allowed to be imported into any part of the British Empire. The quality of the Russian wood is excellent and the manufacture is nearly perfect." The paper states that Russia has the advantage of a much lower freight rate to Great Britain. "This low freight and the Russian economic schemes combine to make possible a sale price which appears to maintain a much higher standard of living and working conditions, and leave nothing whatever for stumpage, depreciation of plant and interest on capital. It can, therefore, only be said that an embargo on all Russian wood to the entire British Empire is absolutely essential and necessary."
 On the problem of transportation, the paper states, in part: "It seems absurd that every harbor in Great Britain, Norway and the United States should be cluttered with empty ship-bottoms, while freight rates are soaring from one peak to another. The inference seems to be that the steamship companies are killing 'the goose that laid the golden egg.' They are bringing the freight rates up to such a height that no person can afford to ship any articles."
 Signed by Hon. John Doull, Minister of Lands and Forests, and Otto Schierbeck, chief forester, copies of the paper have been mailed to all Nova Scotia manufacturers of lumber, shingles, laths, headings, staves and woodware, and to the importers of forest products in Great Britain and the British West Indies.

RUSS FARMERS PAID IN SILK

"Silk for milk" is the idea of payment down on the farm in Soviet Russia, according to the latest plan being tried in the vicinity of Moscow. The collectivist farm, along with others, was recently informed that in future about 40 per cent of the monthly account would be settled "in the form of various goods." When the time came for the account to be settled the farmers turned up—and were given women's silk stockings and an assortment of underwear. Dairy-farms are definitely interested in the development, but the farmers and their men are making strong representations to the Moscow Department of Supplies.
