Smart Musical
"On The Avenue"
At Prince Edward

With songs by Irving Berlin carrying it to new heights of swanky melody, "On the Avenue," sparkling musical production, opened yesterday at the Prince Edward Theatre, with a stellar cast of entertainers and the latest hits by the man to whose music most of the world makes love.

In this real-life romance of New York, gay and glamorous as its own itself, Dick Powell and Madeleine Carroll, a combination new to musical comedy, make a handsome and romantic team, ably surrounded by such masters of mirth and melody as Alice Faye, The Ritz Brothers and George Barbier.

"On the Avenue" gets off to a hilarious start when Madeleine Carroll, as a wealthy debutante, George Barbier, as her father, and Alan Mowbray, as an explorer, enter a theatre just as Dick Powell, Alice Faye and The Ritz Brothers are going into a farcical burlesque of the home life of "the richest girl in the world."

As the infuriated family stalks from the theatre, voicing threats of damage suits to the manager, Madeleine heads for the stage entrance, and brushing past the doorman, snatches Alice's wig off and starts to wreck Dick's dressing room before she is ejected.

In a cooler moment, Madeleine regrets her ill-tempered rampage, and, apologizing, invites Dick to dinner. Palling love with her, Dick promises to revise the skit for their next visit. However, partly from jealousy but mostly as a lark, Dick's partner, Alice, ruins his plan by adding even more caustic lines to the burlesque.

To revenge herself on Dick for the humiliation, Madeleine not only agrees to marry the explorer, but takes over the show and fills the audience with people who walk out on him when he starts his song, "You're Laughing at Me."

Columbian's advance report gleefully that "now they're howling at him."

"An exciting conclusion, in which one of Irving Berlin's melodies plays a novel and important part, brings the pair to a fitting, romantic and tuneful solution of their difficulties, winding up one of the gayest and most melodious musicals that the screen has presented.

The six song hits Berlin wrote for "On the Avenue" are "This Year's Kisses," "You're Laughing at Me," "Slumming on Park Avenue," "I've Got My Love to Keep Me Warm," "The Girl on the Police Gazette," and "He Ain't Got Rhythm."

The "Jones Family" At The Capitol

Dad's running for Mayor, Mother's running Dad, Roger's running a scandal sheet and Jack's running after a blonde! In fact, the whole Jones Family runs wild in their most uproariously human hit, "Hot Water" which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre.

"Somebody ought to clean up this town!" shouts Dad Jones in a burst of civic-conscious indignation and the kids immediately hand him the broom by tossing his hat in the ring during the big race for Mayor of Maryville.

The latest in the popular series starring America's favorite family, "Hot Water" features Jed Prouty, Shirley Deane, Spring Byington, Russell Gleason, Kenneth Howell, George Ernest, June Carlson, Florence Roberts and Billy Mahan in their familiar roles in the family, with Joan Marsh and Majorie Weaver in supporting roles.

When Shirley Deane leaves for the big city to buy her trousseau for her forthcoming wedding, the house seems rather empty despite all the rest of the Joneses still being very much in evidence, and Dad gets an attack of community spirit.

Notorious as a center for all sorts of criminal activities, a night-club is running full blast right under the ignoring eyes of the municipal authorities, and Dad suspects there is something rotten in Maryville.

When his son Jack falls for a blonde who works in the place and appears to be getting quite involved, Dad can control himself no longer and bursts out his indignation in a community meeting. As a result, he is nominated to run for Mayor, and the campaign precipitates all sorts of fun and trouble for the leading candidate.

Eventually, through the sleuthing activities of embryonic newspaperman Roger Jones, the tie-up between the criminals and the opposition party is exposed, and Dad is balloted merrily into the City Hall.

APARTMENT LIFE

If space is needed in the kitchenette, try using a sink stopped instead of a dish pan and wash your dishes right in the sink. Many housewives prefer this method as they can rinse their dishes right under the hot water faucet.
