DOWN —The— BACK STRETCH

Next week September 11th and 12th will be Goodwill racing dates at Charlottetown. Goodwill meet was first started in 1941 and has been growing in popularity every year since. A glance at the ad on another page will show 100 horses entered from all parts of the Maritimes. The events feature two-year-olds with the manners of aged veterans, also three and four-year-olds, the product of Maritime breeding farms, that will take the place of some of the older campaigners when their years of usefulness on the track are over. It is difficult to evalue the stimulus given to the breeding of trotters and pacers in the Province by the Sea through these futurities, but one can get some idea by looking over the race summaries of this season where many events were won by sons and daughters of Calumet Budlong, Abbe Worthy, Kalmuck, Bellini Scott and other prepotent sires.

The past week, that is to ray from last Saturday, August 31st to Thursday, September 5th, saw more races contested in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island than we have memory of. Great crowds of spectators turned out to witness them and almost every heat was a battle royal with tempers flaring in some spots, only to be cooled down by the soothing effects of penalties. From our own experience we know how easy it is to blow up over a horse race, but any heat engendered quickly evaporates and rancor very rarely remains for long.

Last Saturday was Willard Kelly's day at Moncton where over the new and popular course he drove all three winners of the day's events. It is a feat that is rarely accomplished. An enthusiastic admirer of Willard's grabbed us a couple of days after and said—"He has a perfect pair of hands and the best judgment of any driver racing. I tell you, he's magic, he is." Yes, our friend from Vernon River is not far out. Given anything like an even break in manners and speed Willard can hold his own with the best in the land.

Rovers And Anchors Resume Hot Series

The red-hot struggle being waged for the City League championship between the North End Rovers and the West End Anchors will be renewed tomorrow afternoon at the Park diamond commencing at 2:30 sharp.

Each team has a victory to their credit—Anchors winning the first encounter by a one-run margin in 13 innings and the Rovers squaring the series by taking the West End team 5-4 in their last meeting. In both cases the issue was still in doubt until the final out and it is expected by many that tomorrow's tilt will be even more keenly contested and likely result in the best ball of the season.

Ace of the Anchors' hurling staff, Lefty McAleer is expected to handle their pitching with Vern Larter doing the catching, while the Rovers are expected to start their reliable righthander Freddy Dillon who tamed the Anchors the last time he faced them in the final game of the league schedule. Word last night was to the effect that Joe Hunter, Rovers' ace backstop will be in his regular place for Sunday's game.

Indians Win League Opener

OAKWOOD STADIUM, Toronto, Sept. 6—(CP) —Toronto Indians, featuring the Stukus brothers in all-star forward passing roles and a ground-eating running attack, crushed Balmy Beach 28-4 here tonight at a floodlit Ontario Rugby Football Union fixture that ushered in the earliest season in the league's 64 years.

REMEMBER WHEN

By The Canadian Press

Howie Morenz returned to Montreal Canadiens after two years with Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers 10 years ago today. Playing his 14th National Hockey League season, Morenz was in top form until he broke his leg in Montreal. He died in a Montreal hospital March 8, 1937.

Golden stubble gleaming in the September sun and nights with a tang in the air tell plainer than words that the hunter will soon have his innings and the fisherman will bow gracefully out of the picture for another season. On the whole it was a good year for the rod and fly artist. True during the hot, dry spell of late July and early August the trout got moody and it took some coaxing to get a rise out of them, but some weighty trout were taken nevertheless.

The dyed in the wool duck hunters are in for some disappointments this fall. There has been a big drop in the local duck hatch from the record crop of 1944. No one is certain as to what happened in the interim but the 1946 duck crop as far as our local birds is concerned is so far below the record of two years ago that this scribe is reluctant to quote the estimated percentage of the drop. A lot depends on the size of the flight of the big northern red-legs from the north as to whether or not the late fall duck shooting will measure up to standard. The big migrants begin to arrive early in October although a few may be found in the gunners bags on the opening day, September 25th.

Its the upland game bird enthusiast with his trusty Setter or Pointer who is in for some sport par excellence this October. Never since the Hungarian partridge were imported, about 18 years ago, has this scribe seen the coveys in such splendid condition so early in the season. I have flushed coveys in the latter part of August that were so well developed it was impossible to tell the old birds from the young of the year. On Wednesday afternoon of this week I was driving along some secondary dirt roads in a section roughly 10 miles east of the city. I was not looking for Huns particularly but happened to spot three coveys from the car. The first held 11 birds, at least that's all I put up. I saw one head sticking up from the stubble and when I walked over 8 got up and a minute later 3 more took to wing. There may have been more lurking amid the stooks of grain but I didn't have the time to linger.

• • •

The next two held 17 or 18 each and were in plain view within 50 yards of each other. What impressed me most was the way the birds flushed. There was none of this hesitant winnowing into the air as practised by immature coveys, but an explosion of drumming wings and squealing birds. They acted more like mid October birds that had been shot at a few times and scattered in all directions when they arose from the ground. They certainly have lots of pep this fall and surely know their way around.

• • •

The Hun sure makes sporty shooting and that's what I like about them. I take a great kick out of the opening day's shooting and never let an October pass without having an afternoon with the Wilson's snipe (Jack snipe so called locally) or a few short brushes with the Ruffed grouse or Woodcock, but its the wily Hun who bears the brunt of this scribes sporting activities. I like the feel of crisp, dry stubble under foot and the swish of the tall swale grass against my shins and a covey rise with its attendant clatter and commotion always gives me the same thrill, no matter how often it occurs.

• • •

Two factors account for the condition of the Hun coveys this fall. Firstly: the hatch due to exceptional weather conditions in the spring, was early. Secondly: the summer was dry and generally warm, with periods of real heat. The countryside swarmed with insect life and the Hun chicks had a regular banquet table spread for them at all times. Furthermore there was no periods of prolonged rainfall, and the young of all upland game birds were not forced to forgo many meals. Thus they were not stunted in growth at the start in life, but came along to maturity without any serious setbacks.

• • •

When broods of Huns, grouse or pheasants run into periods of heavy rains for several days at a stretch when they are only a few days old the mother bird is hard pressed to keep them supplied with food in the form of seeds and insect life. If the mother bird is forced to keep her charges exposed to the wet in the search for food casualties are bound to occur and those that survive have their constitutional setbacks that takes time to overcome.

• • •

Reports seeping into circulation show that a few itchy fingered shotgun artists are on the loose. Complaints have been received by game officials re alleged infractions occurring in several widely scattered sections of the province. This is to be expected and no season passes without the odd shot being fired (and some not so odd) Every duck shot out of season means that many ducks less on opening day, and it behooves the good sports to pass on any information they may possess on to the enforcement officers regarding pre-season shooting. Notwithstanding the current shortage of ducks as compared with 1944 and to a lesser extent with last season there is still a sizable duck population in the province and gunners, if they can shoot straight, have no need of returning home empty handed at the end of the opening day. Remember fellas, if you have any information about Tom, Dick, or Harry shooting ducks out of season, pass it along to the proper authorities. I can assure you that the machinery of the law is all oiled up and ready to grind into action at a moment's notice.

W.H. Tidmarsh Again Heads Local Fish And Game Association

Mr. W. H. Tidmarsh was re-elected president of the P. E. Island Fish and Game Association at its annual meeting held in the City Council chambers last night. Mr. Keir Clark, Montague, was elected vice-president for King's County; L. W. Hancock, Summerside, for Prince; and P.W. Turner for Queen's. Mr. Gordon Stewart was appointed permanent secretary-treasurer. Mr. Tidmarsh presided at the meeting.

A recommendation was passed requesting the Provincial Government to authorize an open season on Hungarian partridge from Oct. 1 to November 11, both days inclusive, and that the daily bag be set at eight birds. It was also recommended that there be an open pheasant season from Oct. 15 to Oct. 19, both days inclusive, and that the total bag be five male pheasants.

Mr. Morley M. Bell, M.L.A., was present at the meeting and suggested a dam should be erected at the most suitable place in the Dunk River for the propagation of trout. Mr. Bell said if the Association could recommend to the Government that the sum of $1,000 be spent on the project, he felt sure the Prince County sportsmen would raise whatever was required over that amount to build a concrete dam on that river.

Mr. Frank Acorn supported Mr. Bell's remarks and moved that the Association request the Government to make $1.000 available for that purpose. The motion was seconded by Mr. William Phillips.

Before the meeting adjourned, interesting motion pictures of Hungarian partridge in their native habitat was shown by Mr. Frank Acorn. This picture had been prepared by Mr. B. Graham Rogers some months ago.

102 Horses Entered For Good Will Race Meeting Next Week

A record list of entries, promise of record crowds, horses taking new marks over what should be a lightning-fast track are all down on the books for the Goodwill racing meeting which will open here on Wednesday afternoon next and conclude on Thursday.

Growing to such an extent that it now rivals the Old Home Week racing program, this year's two-day meet will be the best yet. Five classes will be raced each day and fans can rest assured that they will be furnished with "thrills at a dime a dozen" once the outstanding trotters and pacers in the Maritime Provinces come racing down the home stretch in the ten closely matched classes that the management have drawn up.

Entries have exceeded all expectations and the name "Kentucky of Canada" as applied to Island race meetings becomes truer and truer with every year. Charlottetown track seems to be a magnet that draws horsemen here year after year in ever-increasing numbers.

The free for all trot and pace with seven starters will be eagerly looked forward to with seven stars of the dirt ovals expected to take the word, but in the other nine competition will be just as keen and battles just as furious as the fast-steppers will provide.

This year's Goodwill program is bound to be a record-breaker from start to finish and all that is necessary to assure its success is for the weatherman to be on his good behaviour and he usually cooperates when races are being held here.

Big Four Of Golf Meets In Tourney

BY JERRY LISKA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, Sept. 6—Byron Nelson steps into George S. May's $10,000 "world championship" golf tournament as a substitute with the miseries, but statistics cast him a slight favorite in the unique four-man showdown at Tam O'Shanter course tomorrow and Sunday.

The 36-hole, winner-take-all battle brings together Nelson; Lloyd Mangrum, the United States open champion; Sammy Snead, British open titlist, and Herman Barron, winner of the year's biggest jackpot, the $10,500 all-American purse, also contributed by promoter May.

May's "world" contest originally had the winner of the Professional Golfers Association meet booked to appear, but the newly-crowned titlist, money-grubbing Ben Hogan, declined the bid because of a jammed schedule.

Nelson, the 1945 P. G. A king, agreed to emerge from the tranquillity of his Denton, Tex., farm and —weary, aching back and all —take a shot at the $10,000 plum as Hogans substitute.

The medal play caper-for-cash will open tomorrow at noon with 18 holes, the four professional hotshots teeing off in twosomes. The final 18 will be played Sunday. In event of a tie, another 18-hole session will be played Monday.

Fans Looking Forward To Mound Duel Between Feller And Newhouser

DETROIT, Sept. 6 — (CP) — Practically everyone concerned has revived the subject of a mound duel between Bob Feller of Cleveland and Hal Newhouser of Detroit before the baseball season ends.

Feller and Newhouser have faced each other four times in the past, and the Detroit lefthander has yet to gain a decision over the Cleveland fire-baller.

Cleveland's Bill Veeck is hard at it trying to match the two hurling aces next time the Tigers visit the Ohio city. If they meet there, Detroit officials want a re-match.

Here is how some of the principals have expressed themselves:

Newhouser: "I've never beaten Feller and I'd sure like another chance. If it can be worked out, the game should be played right here. The Detroit fans deserve it."

Feller: "I don't remember pitching against Newhouser before the war, but I know I beat him last year. If it will draw the crowd, I hope we meet twice this month."

Manager Steve O'Neill of Detroit: "We're shooting for second place. If we have that sewed up, I won't object to a special match. But I prefer to pitch Hal in regular turn."

Giants Hand Phils 16-2 Setback

Ernie Lombardi, huge New York Giant catcher, blasted a grand slam home run yesterday as the New Yorkers humiliated Philadelphia Phils 16-2 in a hitfest. Lombardi also got two singles and drove in five runs.

Jack Graham and Babe Young clouted homers for the winners, with Ron Northey retaliating for the losers.

St. Louis Cardinals climbed back to a 2½-game lead over the idle Brooklyn Dodgers by shading the last-place Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-6.

Three Finals Scheduled For Tomorrow

Three final matches are scheduled for the Holy Redeemer tennis courts tomorrow afternoon and racquet wielders are expected to be out in full force to witness what will probably be the three outstanding matches of the tournament.

Jack Kenny and Earl Smith meet for the men's singles title at 3 p.m. and a bitter battle is expected all the way.

Smith and Morgan meet Kays and Power in the mixed doubles, while Jean Hughes and Mrs. Dr. Duffy clash for the women's singles title.

Assault Comes Back To Races Today

(By The Canadian Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 — Assault comes back to the races tomorrow with his aches and pains gone and his running shoes shined up for another crack at The Dude, the reformed selling plater that humiliated him in the Arlington classic.

The King Ranch's triple crown champion, winner of $344,220 this year, meets Gaal's diminutive California-bred in the $25,000 Discovery handicap at Aqueduct Park, with a Canadian challenger, E. P. Taylor's Windfields, one of nine other scheduled starters in the mile-and-an-eighth event.

The Toronto-owned Windfields, carrying 106 compared with 122 for The Dude and 126 for top weighted Assault, was given scant chance of toppling the top two despite his good race behind Assault in the $50,000 Dwyer Stakes last June.

OLD PALS

Generals Eisenhower and Bradley lived across the hall from each other when they were attending West Point.

Men's Doubles Final

Rallies were short, overhead drives were plentiful and the use of trick cross court dribble shots was extensive as Moreside and Reddin outplayed Smith and Cullen in a remarkably short finals match. Smith and Cullen used the same strategy of steady play with long back line lobbing that proved successful in the semi-finals but it boomeranged yesterday as time and again they were caught behind the back line when hard overhead half court drives and trick cross court shots were being made.

Ladies' Doubles Match

The ladies' doubles final was closely contested with Audrey and Beryl DeBlois exhibiting more power in long volleys as they edged out their opponents in straight sets. In the first set it was even all the way and apparently a service duel as each player won her service to the twelfth game. At this point the winners broke away and took two straight to win the set 8-6. In the second set the DeBlois sisters gained a two game advantage from the start and held it for a minimum game set, winning the match 8-6, 6-4.

Bibeault Gets Chance At Full-time Job

MONTREAL, Sept. 6 — (CP) — Montreal Canadiens have exchanged goaltender Paul Bibeault for defenceman George Allen of the Chicago Black Hawks, General Manager Frank Selke of the Canadian Arena Company announced today.

The deal gives Bibeault an opportunity for a full-time N. H. L. job in contrast to last season when he played with Boston Bruins until Frankie Brimsek was released from the services and with Canadiens while Bill Durnan was on the injured list.

Mike Karakas was in the nets for the Hawks last season.

Under the agreement between Canadiens and Chicago, Allan and Bibeault will revert to their original teams at the end of the season if either club is dissatisfied.
