PAYMENT IN LIVES "This letter is intended as an answer to an editorial entitled 'Peace' by J. F. McMullin, which appeared in a recent number of the News-Journal.

Effect of the court's decision, made by a majority with two judges dissenting, is that Senator Logan is now liable to pay the Government $34,900 instead of $71,276, both sums with interest and costs added.

The payment was made on false representation to the effect that the Gypsum Queen, owned by Hatfield, was sunk by a German submarine off the Irish Coast on July 31, 1915.

The judgment against Hatfield for return of the money stood unimpaired but the judgment against Logan was based on two claims, one for damages for fraud, conspiracy and other unlawful acts, and the other for the return of moneys paid by mistake.

The first claim involved a serious charge against Logan and the truth of it should have been established affirmatively, instead of insisting on the truth of it as it was up to Logan to prove his innocence.

The judgment ended the latest in a long series of legal proceedings which began when suspicion was first directed to the Gypsum Queen award. A Royal Commission inquired into the matter and the ship had not been returned.

When a criminal charge was laid against Hatfield and the civil action brought against him, two men for return of the money. He defended the civil suit but the judgment from which he appealed to the Supreme Court went against him.

Hatfield was sentenced to 10 months in Ontario reformatory for obtaining money fraudulently. A charge of obtaining money by false pretences was laid against the Gypsum Queen by the Senator.

COURT SPLIT IN DECISION ON LOGAN CASE Finds Senator Liable To Pay $34,900 Instead Of $71,276.

OTTAWA, April 26 (CP)—On the ground there was no positive evidence, Senator Hance J. Logan of Parramatta, N. S. W., knew the schooner Gypsum Queen was not torpedoed when he presented Captain Freeman Hatfield's claim for war reparations.

Effect of the court's decision, made by a majority with two judges dissenting, is that Senator Logan is now liable to pay the Government $34,900 instead of $71,276, both sums with interest and costs added.

Sudden Sharp Reduction In Butter Prices (Canadian Press Despatch) TORONTO, April 26—Steady decline in the price of butter across Canada was attributed today to a seasonal increase in production and market overhang of large quantities of the New Zealand and Australia product.

Wholesalers said that they believed a further decline of from three to four cents was probable within a month. It was said 1,750,000 pounds of New Zealand and Australian butter were available and that this was a factor in the swift recession.

Prices at Halifax, six to seven cents above previous year's level during the winter, have dropped from 39 and 40 cents to 25 and 26 (Butter is now 25 cents at a Charlottetown and 26 cents at a Charlottetown and 5 cents a pound during the past five days).

Delebas came to London, will cover the whole range of world problems. HOPE FOR ACCORD The British and French ministers are understood to hope Hitler's visit to Rome next week will bring Germany and Italy into closer friendship with the democracies.

The Anglo-French discussions were expected to result in far reaching measures to coordinate and intensify their respective efforts to build up imposing air strength. Among questions believed listed for discussion were:

1. The Spanish situation, particularly as it will stand at the close of the war. 2. Procedure to be followed at the May 9 League of Nations council session, which Britain has petitioned for "clarification of Ethiopia's status."

3. Relations with Germany and the problem raised by Germany's colonial empire. 4. Economic assistance to Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Yugoslavia to counteract the economic penetration into Central Europe by Switzerland's neutrality status. 5. The Sino-Japanese war.

House Bewildered during the early months of an emergency. Sir John said the Government broke through red tape and did not apply to Parliament for "statutory authority to purchase the supplies. He added legislation authorizing the purchase and making supplementary appropriations for them would be introduced shortly.

Labor interrupted as Sir John proposed an additional two pence a pound on tea. He admitted that an extra half penny might mean an appreciable addition to the smallest income. "Taxing the people's food!" shouted Labor.

"I believe," Sir John returned, "that they will be proud to share in this rearmament outlay, for defending that home from peril." "Try it in Spen Valley!" a Labor backbencher, retorted, (Spen Valley is Sir John's constituency in Yorkshire.) In the next election he will seek a seat nearer London and Labor charges that, fearing defeat in Spen Valley, he is moving to a safe constituency.

Rearmament Cause Rearmament Sir John concluded, is responsible for the additional cost on the tax payer. "The piling up of ever-greater armaments is not by itself a certain means of securing safety or entering peace," he said. "But the necessary outlay on rearmament is being accompanied by an active policy for promoting reconciliation and good will with every country beginning to show signs of active life. In the pursuit of this double objective, the burden we have to carry will be lightened and the dogged determination and dauntless spirit of the British race."
