CITY OF SILENCE

VATICAN CITY, May 30-This fort like church city of 600 citizens settles down into a city of silence each night when the sun goes down. It would be almost a city of silence if day but for the noise of taxicabs and cars, carrying tourists to the Vatican and churches to various of the city.

Citizens, accustomed to quiet, usually speak in low tones, even in the open. Few persons are seen along the winding roads or in the great courtyards of the massive old buildings. Night lights are out early and one lone fire inspector with an enormous bunch of keys makes his rounds. Selection does another person appear. At the gates and entrances to some of the palaces, guards stand silently, at important points one stately pacing back and forth.

OUTLINE

Secondly, it was the function of the Agricultural Department to assist the dairy farmer to produce at the lowest possible cost, and to sell his product so as to receive the maximum return for his effort.

Mr. Weir spoke of what the department was doing and proposed to do in fulfilling its function. In the first place an effort was being made to improve the quality of dairy herds. Well-bred sires were being distributed to farmers on favorable terms so as to improve the breed. Next the question of feed was being gone into. Farmers were being helped to understand the balanced ration for dairy cattle. The importance of pasturage, the cheapest form of food-was not being overlooked. Pasturage, said Mr. Weir, had been very much neglected of late, with the result that pasturages were much less satisfactory. He was endeavoring to secure the services of one or two of the best qualified men available to go into this question of pasturage.

Marketing, said the Minister, was perhaps the most important factor, and the most serious problem, in the dairy field today. He referred to the fact that the agriculture committee of the House of Commons would consider this matter with authority to investigate all phases of the question. But, in addition to this departmental officials would conduct any inquiry in to the spread of prices between the farmer and the consumer. Dealers, the Minister said, were entitled to a reasonable profit, but the man who performed the hard work of production-the farmer-must receive his full share.

The Minister's statement was made during continued discussion in committee of supply of the appropriation of $295,000 for dairying.

POSSIBILITIES

by reason of the natural markings provided by North River and North River Bridge, the Creek to the right and the railway track which will be a direction finder from east and west.

The Provincial Government before commencing the heavy road work sent out one of the big new sixty horse power Caterpillar tractors for four days and with this pulled out practically all of the big trees, some of them wide spreading birches with trunks more than a foot in diameter.

A lighter Caterpillar tractor is now needed to clear up the smaller trees and handle a heavy rooper plow to level off the spaces where these groves formerly flourished. The Provincial road department has as yet been unable to spare a machine for this work but it is hoped that arrangements may very soon be made so that the clearing process may be completed and these remaining spaces be seeded out.

When Dr. Jenkins first proposed having a landing field at Upton it was with the idea of making a site available for the use of himself and his friends and his idea was originally to clear away the obstructions just as the employees of his farm were able to get around to the work between farming operations. But now that it has been decided to open the landing field as a licensed public airport and provide Charlottetown and Prince Edward Island with facilities, which other cities and municipalities are finding it necessary to spend from twenty thousand to two hundred thousand dollars to obtain, the desirability of quick action and an early opening of the airport are apparent particularly in view of the fact that the Canadian Air Pageant organized by the Canadian Flying Clubs with a great fleet of planes participating, have signified intentions of coming to Charlottetown in the early summer if suitable landing ground is available.

Both Provincial and Civic authorities will doubtless co-operate in every way possible so that the enterprise and public spirit of Dr. Jenkins in providing the large ground area necessary may reap at an early date the results which are bound to accrue to Charlottetown and the Province from the opening of a licensed airport here where we are so favorably situated for the establishment of a centre for flying operations.

While butter and cheese may be low in price, yet dairying looks like the safest bet coming within the range of Agricultural production, and the man who has provided himself with good cows is in a favorable position to strengthen his economic returns. Those who are interested in improvement will find the sale mentioned and also other work which will be conducted by Mr. Reston worthy of consideration. Mr. Reston expects to be here by June 1st and Ayrshire breeders and prospective breeders should get in touch with him during his stay.

Mr. R. Hunter Duvar of this city. It is Mr. Palardy's intention to remain all summer, to paint many Island scenes of beauty and picturesqueness. He plans starting a landscape sketching class here during their visit, which will extend into the fall.

The restful charm of the Island has already made its impression on the visitors, and they are looking forward with much pleasure to their visit to other sections of the Province.

Announcement has been made that Mr. William Retson of Truro, Nova Scotia, has been employed by the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association as Fieldman for the Maritime Provinces during the present summer. Mr. Retson who occupied a similar position last year, is well known to Island breeders and was responsible, to a very great extent, for organizing the Ayrshire Sale held during the past season at the Experimental Farm and which proved such a successful feature. It is the intention to devote a certain measure of time to the conducting of a similar sale this year, when breeding stock of outstanding merit will be offered to prospective purchasers.

(By Tec.) Opening Ball Game

All roads will lead to the Abegweit Grounds this evening, where the Royals and Stars are due to clash in the opening ball fixture of the City League. Both lineups have been working with a vengeance in anticipation of this inaugural tilt, therefore the fans are assured of a great game.

The Barrier An Ontario Exchange says: Harness horsemen who raced at Sarnia on the holiday are loud in their praise of the barrier system of starting which was put into operation at that place for the first time. The original idea was brought out in France. Horses are started by an electric device, with the barrier placed from 80 to 100 feet from the wire. The starter stands with a rope from 20 to 30 feet back with a cord that releases the barrier.

Simcoe will use the barrier at their meeting on June 10, and Forest on June 17, while this plan of starting will be in vogue at Oshawa on July 18, and at the Thorncliffe Grand Circuit meeting July 23 to July 29.

It is understood that the "barrier" will be tried out some time this season at the Charlottetown Trotting Park. The above is a novel idea and might "take" with the fans hereabouts.

ATHLETICS ESTABLISHMENT OF BASEBALL

Some there are who lift their eyebrows in scepticism at all forms of professional sport. The mere fact that the game is played by the participants for monetary remuneration is sufficient to establish in the minds of the chronically superstitious that it cannot be on the level. If gates are all important then they argue that those in charge arrange matches so that the competition will be of the keenest and the returns largest.

The record of the Athletics in the American League is a fair rebuttal to this opinion. The Athletics won 18 straight, dropped a game, and now are away again on what may well be another series of victories. If they continue at their present dizzy pace they will lessen interest in their league. If the result is a foregone conclusion before July the attendances will undoubtedly diminish. It does not matter to Connie Mack if his team plays before one or two spectators, he is determined that his team will make it three straight.

The managers of American and National League teams may fraternize once the ball game is over for the day, but while the game is on all managers are out to win, let the gate receipt chips fall where they may. The public have confidence in the honesty of the great American pastime and their faith is not misplaced.

The Passing of a True Sportsman

To his many New Brunswick friends in the newspaper circle and others throughout the Maritimes the somewhat sudden passing of Mr. J. Douglas Black, director of the New Brunswick Bureau of International and Tourist Travel, comes as a great shock and will be learned with sincere regret. "Doug" Black, prior to his appointment to the responsible position he held in the civil service of the Province of New Brunswick, was one of the best known newspaper men in the Maritimes. He had a distinguished career as a journalist and in the realm of sport, especially, he was a recognized authority and had no peer among sport writers in Eastern Canada.

For some thing like a quarter of a century he was on the writing staff of the Fredericton Gleaner, in the capacity of sports editor, city and news editor, and was recognized as one of the best informed and most
